MILWAUKEE, May 18.—America is the country of opportunity, and Milwaukee is one of the best American cities. All over America are opportunities, visible to the majority, when it is too late to seize them. What everybody knows is not so valuable.

FOR instance, consider the baby carriage business that C. J. Smith managed in Milwaukee up to 1887.

Fifty thousand dollars would have bought it. A. O. Smith inherited it, and made bicycle parts.

In 1904 the A. O. Smith corporation was formed and L. R. Smith, grandson of C. J., took charge. His father put $85,000 and others put $95,000 more into the corporation.

L. R. SMITH did new things, making frames for automobiles, keeping up with the times, and ahead of them.

Time passed, and in 1923 J. E. Uihlein advised this writer and other friends, "buy stock in the A. O. Smith corporation. A very able man, with new ideas is running it."

THE stock sold then at $13 a share. A little later it sold at $525 a share, and five shares were given for one.

THE baby carriage business that you could have bought in 1887 for $50,000 or in 1923 for $1,200,000, now sells on the Stock Exchange at $40,000,000.

SPEND an hour in that Milwaukee plant on the edge of Lake Michigan, study the head of the business, and his methods, and you will know why this is a prosperous country.

The ablest American manufacturers could learn about mass production and labor savings, in L. R. Smith's plants.

ONE of his mills, making 35,000 automobile frames a week, for Chevrolet, using marvelous automatic machinery does with 200 men work that requires 2,000 men in other plants.

One automatic machine changing steel sheets into steel frames is 250 feet long. In one place machinery and 24 men handle 14,000 side bars and 28,000 cross bars, and drive 1,000,000 rivets per day.

MACHINES do the work, men look on. From the floor below, heavy steel rivets are blown up through thin pipes by air power, placed in the frames and fixed there, no hand touching anything.

There you see solved the problem raised by inadequate immigration.

AT certain spots, the men, with literally nothing to do but look on, find it hard to stay awake, and it has actually been suggested that a mechanism be arranged to shake the floor on which they stand, at intervals to rouse them.

L. R. SMITH makes pipes up to 26 inches in diameter, without heating, an achievement hitherto unknown. The cold steel sheets, 30 feet long are rolled into pipes and welded. And the weld, as proved by tests, is stronger than the unwelded metal.

One order under way calls for 400 miles of pipe.

AND disinterested experts say that $2,000,000 worth of this new machinery pipe making has made junk of $100,000,000 worth of plants that would have been called the last word in efficiency five years ago.

HUGE stills for "cracking" gasoline are also made by the welding process in that A. O. Smith plant. Manufacturers will know what that means in manufacturing economy.

These are days of wealth created by efficiency. Where Mr. Smith has 200 men doing the work of 2,000, and doing it easily. The risk of injury is reduced so that it stands as one to 40, under old methods.

AMERICANS have decided to keep out immigration. Intelligence says "I'll show you how to get along without men."

You look at a machine 250 feet long, handling and producing 35,000 automobile frames a week, built with absolute perfection. Huge steel hands pick up the steel beams, turn them over, clip the edges, insert and fasten rivets.

YOU wonder that marvellously efficient, long-lasting automobiles can be sold at present prices, but remember, for one item, that painting an automobile frame, baking it so that it comes out with a beautiful coat of brilliant black enamel, costs, for human labor, one and a half cents, and the labor is highly paid, if any pay can be called high, for labor producing such results.

MR. SMITH'S institution, revolutionizing important branches of American industry, is one of many such plants throughout the nation. Our manufacturers, using their brains, relying on new methods, not on low wages, can undersell Europe, and Asia, the thinking brain, and the automatic machine are the real wealth producers.

THIS city, Milwaukee, should be visited by able Americans from every corner of this country. Every one of them would learn something.

The new Capitol boulevard, running west from Milwaukee to Madison, and 80 MILES LONG is a lesson to every city.

Here the public school gives the children a good education, the rich can buy no better, and for adults there are opportunities for the worker and especially for the investor.

See Milwaukee, a truly progressive American city.

BOMBS JAR 'DEATH CHAIR' KILLER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Two time bombs which exploded with terrific detonation within a few seconds of each other shortly before 2 a. m. today, practically demolished the Richmond Hill home of Robert Elliott, the executioner who pulled the switch which sent Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to eternity. Elliott, his wife and two children and a guest miraculously escaped injury.

Police had only one vague clue to aid their investigation of the bombing. A red automobile was seen speeding from the scene shortly after the explosion.

RUTH, JUDD TOO

Elliott also was the executioner at the electrocution in Sing Sing prison of Henry Judd Gray and Ruth Snyder, convicted of the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder.

The force of the concussions was felt throughout the neighborhood

Elliott Pulled Death Switch For Winter

It was "Death-Chair" Elliott, official executioner for Pennsylvania, who pulled the switch that sent Raymond Winter, 33-year-old Pittsburgh street car conductor and World War veteran, to his death on January 9.

"I didn't kill those children," sobbed Winter in the chair, denying to the end the murder of little Alex and Helen Sabo near Pittsburgh in May, 1925.

Help Too Late

Screaming for her mother who looked helplessly on, Miss Norma Morman, 20, pretty bookkeeper of 3407 Bates street, was spirited away in an automobile early Wednesday morning, it was revealed today.

City, county and private detectives, conducting a secret search since the kidnaping, are at a loss to explain the girl's abduction.

A license number obtained by the frightened mother, who fell in the street while chasing the automobile, gave a clue to the girl's kidnaper. But this clue only deepened the mystery, since the girl's mother never heard of or saw the man listed as the owner of the abduction auto.

MOTHER HEARS CRIES

Miss Morman, returning home shortly after midnight Tuesday, was heard by the mother to come onto the porch. A moment later the mother heard a scream and a scuffle. She ran to the porch in time to see the girl being dragged into an automobile. The terrified mother rushed to her daughter's aid, but was unable to reach her before the auto sped away.

The license number obtained by the mother showed that the machine had been hired at the Kissel-Skiles Rent-A-Car Company at 6107 Broad street Tuesday night. The name of the man who hired the car was obtained and police went to his home. It was discovered that he had not been home and a search is being conducted for him. A picture found in his room was shown the girl's mother and friends and they stated that it was that of a stranger.

Local detectives have copied the photograph and are preparing to send it throughout the country to police in other cities. Mrs. Morman said that her daughter had never remained away from home and has always been a quiet girl. The mother is prostrate.

Detectives say that the machine used by the alleged kidnaper was similar to one seen frequently in the street near the girl's home the day preceding the kidnaping. The mother also learned that the man had apparently followed her daughter for some time before abducting her.

TYRRELL'S THREAT TO PASTOR AIRED

A double murder in the First Christian Church, Munhall, was narrowly averted last Sunday morning, testimony of Thomas F. Thompson, an elder, revealed today at the inquest into the slaying of Philip Clark by Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell, superintendent of the Sunday school.

Tyrrell was held for murder by the coroner's jury after seven witnesses had been heard.

The Rev. J. D. Waters, pastor of the church, was the second man marked for killing, according to Thompson.

"I'll get Clark, then you," Tyrrell shouted to the pastor in his study just before he shot down Clark in the church auditorium, Thompson testified.

PULLS GUN ON PASTOR

"You've been two-faced long enough," Tyrrell declared, according to Thompson, as he pulled a revolver from his hip pocket and pointed it at the minister.

The Rev. Waters tried to leave, but Tyrrell stepped between Waters and the door and slammed it shut, he said. Thompson leaped between the two, he testified, and while he was trying to calm Tyrrell the pas-

Manager Bert Shotton of the Quaker entourage stated he would use Russell Miller, a righthand recruit, against the Oaklanders. The two teams were scheduled to open their season's warfare yesterday, but were rained out.

Manager Bush has decided to give Ralston Hemsley, Ohio coal miner, a real taste of big league catching in the first contest. Hemsley has done some relief work but he has yet to start a contest.

The two teams are set to play at Forbes Field tomorrow also. The Pirates will head for Cincinnati after tomorrow's game.

HIT INEFFICIENCY IN MT. WASH. ROAD WORK

"Lack of knowledge regarding the use of proper concrete control methods" is largely responsible for defects found in the concrete work of the Mt. Washington roadway, according to a report submitted today by Dr. E. R. Weidlein, director of Mellon Institute, to Public Works Director Edward G. Lang and President of Council James F. Malone.

Concrete chemists of the Mellon Institute made a survey of the structure and recommended that competent professionally-trained engineers be employed to supervise repair work and that co-ordinated tests be made for the city on all engineering projects. The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory was retained by Director Lang to make a further inspection to carry out the recommendations of Dr. Weidlein.

Most of the concrete work, Dr. Weidlein's experts found, was "fully satisfactory," and what is termed the "outstanding defect" of the work is in the honeycombing of some of the walls and columns

As Church Killer Faced Inquest

"I'LL GET CLARK, THEN YOU." PHOTOS BY SUN-TELE STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER.

"I'll get Clark, then you," Thomas F. Thompson, elder, told the coroner's jury Fayette J. Tyrrell, Sunday school superintendent, shouted at the Rev. J. D. Waters as he rushed from the pastor's study to shoot Phillip Clark in the little Munhall church. The jury held Tyrrell to face charges for murder after hearing seven witnesses. He was taken to the inquest under the heavy guard shown above. Mr. Waters testified at the inquest and Mrs. Clark attended.

JURY HOLDS TYRRELL

tor slipped through a door to the basement.

The threat on the pastor's life, Thompson testified, occurred after Thompson and the Rev. Waters had informed Tyrrell that Clark had come to church that morning to prefer charges against Tyrrell and demand his resignation.

CLARK URGED HEARING

Thompson told of repeated attempts by Clark to get a hearing before the official board of the church on the matter of Tyrrell's resignation. One meeting was called for the first Saturday in March at Thompson's home, but Tyrrell could not be present. Another meeting was called, but Clark was unable to be there.

The first direct accusation that an affair between Tyrrell and Clark's wife was the underlying motive of the tragedy came when County Detective Michael McDermott told of a conversation between himself and Clark, last Saturday night on a street in Homestead.

"Tyrrell has been too friendly with my wife and is not fit to be superintendent of a Sunday School," Clark said, according to McDermott.

McDermott said he told Clark to use his own judgment as to bringing charges.

CLARK THREATENED EXPOSE

McDermott recited details of the shooting as told him by witnesses. Clark, he said, had declared after going to church Sunday morning that if he didn't succeed in getting a hearing before the church board he would get up in meeting and "expose the hypocrite," meaning Tyrrell.

After the conference with the pastor and Thompson in the study, Tyrrell strode from the study, across the platform of the auditorium and down an aisle to within 30 feet of where Clark was standing and shot him down, McDermott said his inquiry disclosed. As Clark fell he sought to grapple with Tyrrell, the detective said, according to the story told him, but said Tyrrell struck him down, then calmly walked from the church to his automobile and drove to his home where he was later arrested.

A "shoe horn" was the only semblance to a weapon found on Clark's clothing, Chief of Police Cliff Williams, of Munhall, testified.

PASTOR'S TESTIMONY

A vivid story was told on the witness stand by the Rev. Waters.

"I arrived at the church at 9:45 a. m. and learned Clark was there to prefer charges," the minister testified. "I began to think how I could avert trouble. I asked Tyrrell into my study and he came, along with Mr. Thompson. 'Clark has agreed not to disturb the services if I will call a board meeting afterwards,' I told them. Thompson agreed to that.

"Then Tyrrell pulled a gun from his pocket and said to me, 'This is my answer to the whole thing. I am going to clean up with Clark and you, too. If you had not been two-faced this thing would have been all right.'

"I said 'I will try to get Clark away.' Tyrrell said, 'No,' and backed against the door and said 'I am going to clean up this morning.' I went to the other door. Then Tyrrell said to me 'I've checked up on this thing.'

"I ran out the back way to get a policeman and avert further trouble. I did not hear the shooting. I sent my son in for an overcoat. While waiting for it the boy came out and said, 'Daddy, Mr. Tyrrell has shot Mr. Clark.'

PHONES POLICE

"I telephoned the Munhall police and said 'A demented man has shot another in the church.' Then I got into an automobile and awaited developments. People, running out, told me that Clark was dead and Tyrrell had gone home. It wasn't the F. J. Tyrrell I had always known."

A throng was present at the inquest conducted personally by Coroner William J. McGregor.

Mrs. Clark, widow of the slain man, and Mrs. Tyrrell, wife of the slayer, had seats near the counsel table.

Mrs. Clark broke down several times and wept. Mrs. Tyrrell was calm.

Clad in the same dark blue suit he wore the morning of the killing, Attorney Tyrrell, brought from jail by two deputy coroners, sat in the prisoner's box apparently unconcerned. With his horn rimmed spectacles, close-cropped gray mustache, the Sunday school head gave the appearance of a mild-mannered man.

Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Attorney J. Elmer Ecker, the latter retained by Clark's parents, examined witnesses for the commonwealth. Tyrrell was represented by Attorney J. T. Hoffman.

NEW CLUES FOUND IN KIDNAPING

By T. H. B. PATTERSON, Staff Correspondent.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 18.—Youngstown police today were working along a new line of investigation in their search for 10-year-old Beatrice Rosenbaum spirited away from her home here Monday. The sleuths were secretive in their activities, not even informing Mr. and Mrs. Max Rosenbaum, the parents, of the clues being investigated.

The question of dragging Lakes Cohasset and Glacier in Mill Creek Park was dropped for the moment while the searchers took up some new clues. Police Chief J. J. McNicholas had the entire city vice squad busy throughout the night. It was said, however, that no motive for the child's kidnaping has been discovered.

The proposal to drag the two large lakes was the main subject discussed around police headquarters yesterday. Chief McNicholas seemed to think the work too great, but Fire Chief Harry Callan said that, if he were asked, he would have his men start the task. No official request to do so has yet been made to him.

The stranger seen to drive away with the girl in a small touring car Monday is believed to have taken her for ransom, according to the girl's father, although he said that he had no money. He believes that he may have been mistaken for one of his five well-to-do brothers in business here.

Two suspects being held by police probably will be released. They were arraigned in detective headquarters for a standup last night and the persons who witnessed the girl going away with the stranger were brought to headquarters to identify the suspects. None of the witnesses could make an identification.

Harry Finkel, of 6524 Dalzell place, Squirrel Hill, an uncle of the missing Beatrice Rosenbaum, of Youngstown, O., said today that he had learned of her disappearance only last night. He discounted the theory that the child may have come to Pittsburgh.

STATE'S KILLER BOMBED

of the Elliott home, which is situated at 132-40 Ninety-fourth avenue, Richmond Hill, Queens. Windows were broken, doors caved in and pictures thrown from walls. Hundreds fled to the streets in scanty attire. Many were panic-stricken by fear of an earthquake.

One bomb was placed on the front porch of the two-story stucco residence. The second was placed on the rear porch. The bomb in front of the house exploded first. The other followed a few seconds later.

At the first concussion the front wall of the house caved in. The second bomb did less damage, only wrecking the rear porch.

Elliott, his wife, Delle; their daughter, Gertrude, 17; their son, Robert, Jr., 27, and a cousin, Thomas Lang, 26, in bed at the time, were thrown to the floor and covered with debris, but none was injured.

Elliott is the official executioner of New York state. He also officiates in that capacity in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. When Sacco and Vanzetti were condemned to die in August 23, 1927, in the Massachusetts state prison at Charlestown, Elliott was selected as executioner.

Before and after the execution, Elliott received anonymous letters threatening him with dire punishment for officiating. For many months after the execution he and his family were guarded by the police.

BLAME RADICALS

Elliott told the police after the bombing today that he was certain the bombs were placed in his home by fanatical sympathizers of the two Italian radicals, who were found guilty of murder after one of the longest and most widely-discussed trials on record.

Although they have issued no official statement, it is believed the police are inclined to agree with Elliott that the bombing was planned as a reprisal.

The authorities are certain that the infernal machines were time bombs. All radicals known to have violent tendencies are being watched closely by the police. Numerous detectives, members of the bomb squad and a company of fire-fighters arrived at the scene shortly after the bombing.

YOUNGSTOWN GIRL, 10, KIDNAPED

WIFE-WIDOW AT INQUEST

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Mrs. Philip Clark broke into rapid weeping. Mrs. Tyrrell sat stolid and without a change of expression, looking before her into space.

That was when they brought Fayette J. Tyrrell into the Coroner's Court for the inquest into Clark's death in the Munhall Christian Church last Sunday. It was a dramatic moment.

Mrs. Tyrrell.

Mrs. Clark.

Spectators craned their necks and stared, rudely, curiously.

Was Mrs. Clark—the wife of the slain man going to speak to the wife of her lawyer? That was the question when the two small brunettes—neither much more than five feet, and both smartly gowned in black coats and black hats—came into the room.

No. They didn't even look at each other, although they had worshiped together at the same church, where the murder occurred last Sunday. Perhaps they thought it best not to show any feeling.

Mrs. Tyrell, round of face and with a black lace short veil shading her eyes, sat like a statue. But, Mrs. Clark broke under the strain and, her face buried in her handkerchief, cried softly. Just before the inquest both told a little of their plans—and their feelings.

Mrs. Clark shook her head sadly:

"It is very unfair for them to even insinuate that Mr. Tyrrell and I were any more than business friends. How can people hurt a woman that way? Just because Mr. Tyrrell was helping me get a divorce. I am heartbroken about it."

And little Mrs. Tyrrell, mother of six children, declared loyally:

"I'll stand by my husband. I believe in him. He was a good husband and father."

The prisoner himself?

He looked about as worried as a man going fishing.

"Held to await action of the grand jury on a charge of murder!"

The words had hardly been spoken by Coroner W. J. McGregor, when the saddened little woman made her way through the crowd at the inquest to the side of her husband. Timidly, she turned a partly-veiled, tear-stained face to Deputy Coroner E. G. Baxendell and asked permission to speak with the prisoner.

She was allowed to go into the prisoner's box and made her way to her husband's side, where she remained for nearly half an hour, the only visible signs of Mrs. Tyrrell's emotions being a slight shaking of her shoulders.

She was led away from her husband weeping openly. Attorney W. J. Lappe escorted her from the room to a waiting automobile which carried her home to her six children, staunch in their devotion to the father, accused of murder in a church!

Title Bout Again Off

NEW YORK, May 18.—The Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin fight for the lightweight championship has been postponed again, this time until Saturday night, because of heavy rain which began falling today with no prospects of letting up.

See 'Count' As Derby Cinch

By DAVIS J. WALSH, International News Service Sports Editor.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—Having spent the last 24 hours disguised as a wildcat in the feed box, I am forced to the conclusion today that there is only one factor operating against Reigh Count's chances of winning the Kentucky Derby tomorrow afternoon.

He doesn't read the newspapers.

He, therefore, can't know that all track-wise folk are agreed that there is nothing in the field that can be figured to beat him. He cannot turn to the form sheets and be apprised of the gladdening tidings that he has all of the heart and the foot of his field, and simply must do an imperial ballet to the pay-off over the entire mile-and-a-quarter of the race.

He can't even surmise that the "gooey" gumbo in which he has been doing his recent workouts has been nailed as a further token of impending success.

"WET OR DRY—THE COUNT"

From what I have been able to gather, the great race has two distinct possibilities—if the track remains muddy, Reigh Count can't lose; if it dries out by tomorrow afternoon, the rest of the field hasn't a chance.

The Count, in brief, is one of those incipient calamities known as a prohibitive favorite. He apparently is to go to the post with a vast majority of the homeless dollars in Kentucky riding on his withers, and it's just too bad that a thing like that has to be kept a secret from the only party involved who can do anything about it.

As it is, Reigh Count will line up at the barrier with about 15 other horses, without the slightest suspicion that he is a great horse and the others are merely ordinary steeds, as we say at the livery stable. He conceivably might even finish last and feel no sense of social depression. He has learned by experience that the oats are just as good at the end of a losing as they are the days when he wins.

It is from ignorance such as this that the 1-to-2 shot comes cantering contentedly back to the judges' stand after finishing shortly before the start of the next race.

Therefore, and in all gravity, I declare that the crying need of the race track—excepting jockeys without forearms—is a horse that can be made to know that he is racing for the honor of dear old John Bananas and his $2 ticket.

OTHERS SEEM ECLIPSED

However, the good word here is that Reigh Count can remain dumber than an information bureau and still beat the field he is to face, for most of the derby entries either were discredited in the Preakness or were beaten off by the Count in the Mammoth Cave event on Monday last.

There is one notable and two minor exceptions to this statement. The former is Edward B. McLean's Toro, which would have won the Preakness if he hadn't been given a ride like a man on a rail. Toro came all the way from twelfth to second, finally running a near dead heat with Victorian, the winner.

MRS. TYRRELL SHOWS FAITH

Faith in her husband, held for the slaying of Philp Clark in the First Christian Church, Munhall, last Sunday, was emphasized this morning when the devoted wife and mother dragged herself to the prisoner's box to have a few words with Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell before he was taken back to jail.

Bill Haywood, America's 'Red' Czar, Dies Self-Imposed Exile in Russia

MOSCOW, May 18.

WILLIAM, "BIG BILL" HAYWOOD, former "uncrowned king of the I. W. W." in the United States, died in self-imposed exile here today in his sixty-sixth year.

Haywood had been a fugitive from American justice since 1921, when he came to Russia to escape serving a 20-year prison sentence for obstructing the war. The sentence was imposed on "Big Bill" by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in Chicago in 1918. Ninety-two others were sent to Leavenworth at the same time, but later were released on bail pending a review by the United States Supreme Court. By the time the court upheld the sentences, Haywood was gone.

STORY OF ARCTIC FLIGHT

International News Service.

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, May 18—The talian North Polar exploration balloon, Italia, commanded by Gen. Umberto Nobile, landed safely at 10 a. m. (local time) after a successful flight to Nicholas II Land (Lenin Land). Gen. Nobile and fellow members of his expedition are understood to have made valuable scientific studies, but they found no new land. They flew over regions that were hitherto unexplored.

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE, Commander-In-Chief of the Dirigible Italia.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American, Inc.)

ABOARD THE ITALIA OFF NOVA ZEMBLA, May 18.—It is 10:30 p. m, Thursday, and we are about 140 kilometers southeast of Cape Leigh Smith. We are proceeding normally amid fog and snow making for the north point of Spitzbergen.

The wireless had been functioning perfectly. Our supply ship Citta de Milano has been keeping in touch with the Italia continuously, using a wave length of 2,400 meters, while the Italia wireless has been using a 900-meter wave. Beyond the limit of 1,000 kilometers Wednesday night, short waves were used on both sides with complete success.

I tried to flash a radio telegram direct to Rome Wednesday evening, and might have succeeded in establishing communication, but unfortunately some European station interfered at the wrong moment and the contact was lost.

Everybody on board is well.

DOUBTS LAND DISCOVERIES

The Italia is sturdily wending her way back "home" to our good Citta di Milano at King's Bay. A thrilling but uneventful trip over lands and waters so few men have seen before, doubting some of the lands that have been reported and checking the outlines of great Islands that are mysteries of maps.

Over the top of Spitzbergen we sailed, slowed by head winds and hampered by ice gathering on the envelope. We cruised about in the unknown seas between Franz Josef Land and the North Pole and after 34 hours turned our face towards Nova Zembla on our return journey.

Not having sighted any land I decided to turn about. Meterological conditions appeared to make the return course by way of Nova Zembla the most convenient. Shortly before 4:30 Thursday morning we sighted Nova Zembla on our left.

All through our long trip the temperature has been varying between 14 and 15 degrees Centrigrade below zero (equalling approximately 5 to 7 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit).

COMMUNICATION CONSTANT

Our wireless has been working perfectly all during the journey. Not for one moment have we felt cut off from civilization. The weather reports from our supply ship, the Citta di Milano, have been of great assistance, even though some of the important radio-goniometric reports I asked for during the afternoon Wednesday could not reach me, owing to our icreasing distance from the station.

We steered a straight course for Nicholas II Land and the visibility was good almost without interruption. Perhaps the consistent headwind from the north, which reduced our speed so persistently, has been a blessing in disguise, insofar as it has prevented the formation of a thick fog which is an even worse foe to navigation in the polar regions than elsewhere, as it is apt to become the busy artificer of lightning.

During the early hours of Thursday morning we experienced extremely strong winds from the north. At 7:20 a. m., we were sailing above a fog which once again caused an ice crust to gather on the top of the envelope.

At 9:20 Thursday morning our position was latitude 76.18 north, longitude 59.55 east of Greenwich and we were heading toward Abel Island. We were still sailing over the frozen sea and the skies were clear. The temperature at that hour was 17 below zero, Centrigrade (about 1 above zero, Fahrenheit).

GAS SUPPLY LOW

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 18.—(AP.)—Fighting a stiff northwest breeze with his gasoline supply running low, Umberto Nobile was trying to bring the dirigible Italia to a safe anchorage today.

Officers aboard the mother ship, Citta di Milano, poured over charts and sent out bearings to the Italia by wireless in response to repeated requests from Gen. Nobile. Radio messages from the airship indicated that it was encountering considerable difficulty in making its base after a lengthy exploration flight to Lenin Land.

Gen. Nobile sailed over Lenin Land for four hours. The view was so forbidding, however, that he abandoned his plan to land men on the unexplored region to make various scientific investigations. Conditions were found entirely unsuited, it was explained, for such explorations since the most favorable time passed with the first half of May.

SLOWED BY WINDS

After flying over Lenin Land, the dirigible turned and headed its nose toward Kings Bay. It was estimated that it had taken about 29 hours to make the trip of some 1,000 miles from Kings Bay to Lenin Land. This rate of speed should have brought the airship back to its base before last midnight, but the contrary winds held her back and progress westward was slow.

THEY SUE

Five Newark (N. J.) women, condemned to a slow death, say physicians, have filed suits aggregating $1,275,000 against the U. S. Radium Corporation. The women charge that in painting hands on luminous watches in war days they were slowly infected until now they are beyond hope of life. In fact, their lawyers say, they may not live long enough for the trial. The women are Mrs. Quinta McDonald, Mrs. Grace Fryer, Mrs. Edna Hussman, Mrs. Albina Larice and Miss Katherine Schaub.

of the concrete bridge spanning the Castle Shannon incline plane. How deep the honeycombing extends into the concrete structure was not determined.

Dr. Weidlein recommended that a competent engineer be employed to make additional tests to determine if the honeycombing extends below the surface and what changes and repairs will be necessary. For the future, he recommended that the Department of Public Works be given sufficient funds to provide professionally-trained engineers to supervise all important engineering projects. To prevent a repetition of the Mt. Washington roadway trouble, he advised a thorough coordination of specifications, inspections and tests made under one unit in the Public Works Department.

The report of Dr. Weidlein was accompanied by a voluminous document submitted by Dr. F. O. Anderegg, a cement chemist, and Prof. J. S. Lambie, of the University of Pittsburgh.

MARINE SLAIN FIGHTING REBELS

Troops Nearing Peking

As College Co-eds 'Play'

DOROTHY FLOYD

When co-eds from colleges throughout this area prepared for Miss Margaret McClenahan's annual "Play Day," in Pitt stadium, Dorothy Floyd, Pennsylvania College for Women, girded for that rough, rough field hockey.

"ROBIN HOODS"

A comprehensive program, that arranged for the co-eds. They even "go in" for archery. Here, Alice Luther (left) and Ruth Furquher, both University of Pittsburgh girls, toe the mark: that is, the mark some few feet before a target, the cameraman in this case.

HERMINE RUOFF

Track and field events of various natures were scheduled. Hermine Ruoff, University of Pittsburgh, tries for distance in the broad jump above. On this "Play Day" co-eds forget their cares and their vanity cases and their books. It is, truly, "Play Day." Women students from schools throughout Western Pennsylvania competed.

IT'S BASEBALL

These co-eds have little respect for those games in which man glories. Here they undertake, with a modicum of success, that grand old game—baseball! The young lady to the right, of course, is the one "coming home;" maybe she'll slide. The idea of the game is for the other one, the "ketcher," to receive the ball and "tag" the runner out. If you're dubious, call Donie Bush, an obliging fellow.

LEADER

"Play Day" is the result of the work of Miss Margaret McClenahan—on the Pitt campus, just "Peg"—who is assistant professor of physical education, in charge of women's work. She bossed the events.

Pittsburgh As Others See Us

"It (Pittsburgh) has, fortunately, produced, and is still producing, industrial captains and public servants of the first rank."
—NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

NICHOLAS M. BUTLER.

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, president of Columbia University, was born in Elizabeth, N. J., April 2, 1862. He was educated at Columbia University and holds honorary degrees from the leading colleges and universities of America and Europe. A militant Republican, he has been engaged in a life-long battle against the Democratic organization in New York. He lives in New York City.

Pittsburgh is one of the half-dozen places in the United States which every visitor from abroad is urged to visit. As the center and heart of the steel industry that city occupies a position and exercises an influence of first importance. It has, fortunately, produced, and is still producing, industrial captains and public servants of first rank. It will forever be associated in the civilized world with the origin of the fortune which, through the stewardship of Andrew Carnegie, has become an everlasting source of benefaction to mankind.

ANTHONY MEZYNSKI

This lad, Anthony Mezynski, 16, 3 Horner street, has been arrested by city detectives, who say he sent four letters to Julius Goldberg, merchant, 49 South Main street, West End, demanding $500 under threat of blowing up his home.

E. F. DILLON DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Edward Francis Dillon, deputy sheriff, former city detective and former city masigtrate, died this morning at St. John's Hospital of pneumonia. Mr. Dillon resided in Boston street, North Side. He served as magistrate at North Side Police Station under Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong. At the time of the consolidation of Allegheny and Pittsburgh he became a city detective. For several years he was an appraiser in the Register of Wills office and for the last five years he had been deputy sheriff. He was a member of St. Francis Xavier's Catholic Church. He leaves a son, Joseph Dillon.

7 SLAIN IN NICARAGUA COMBAT

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 18.—(AP.)—Pushing their way through the jungles to the north, American Marines today were tracking down the rebel slayers of a comrade in arms.

In the most severe combat since February 27, one Marine and one Nicaraguan National Guardsman were killed and the commanding officer of the patrol, Capt. Robert S. Hunter of Kansas, and another Marine were wounded.

Sixty to 75 insurgents and 25 Marines and 10 guardsmen took part in the clash, which occurred near Paso Real, 45 miles northeast of Jinotega and across the Cua River.

Fighting against odds, the Marines killed five rebels and wounded five. The insurgents were under Jose Leon Diaz, who has had previous revolutionary experience and is reputed to be a Honduran, who has joined the cause of Gen. Augustino Sandino.

The Marine patrol was isolated. Medical and surgical supplies were dropped to them by an airplane squadron under Capt. Robert A. Archibald. The names of the enlisted men who were casualties were not learned.

Two relief columns were rushed from Jinotega toward the region, which is thickly forested and has been little explored.

ARRAIGN WOMAN IN STORE THEFT CHARGE

Suspected of having attempted to steal a dress from a downtown department store, Mrs. Carrie Kiefer, 36, of 814 East Ohio street, will be arraigned in Morals Court today. A charge of being a suspicious person has been placed against her.

LAYING KEYSTONE CLUB CORNERSTONE

MALONE OFFICIATES

RECEIVES BOX

Councilman Malone received the box containing official documents which were placed in the cornerstone from C. J. Caspar (center), while E. H. Eggleston looked on. Both men are officials of the new club. This cornerstone was laid on the first floor, above which rear 16 floors of structural steed.

WIDOW STORE CLERK ACCUSED OF THEFT

Mrs. Carrie Kiefer, 35, a widow, of 814 East Ohio street, was held for court in Morals Court today on a charge of stealing a dress in a downtown store, in which she was employed. Detectives testified they had found the stolen garment in Mrs. Kiefer's home.

BEAVER FALLS NEGRO HELD IN MURDER CASE

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., May 18.—Sherman Bonaparte, Negro, arrested on a murder charge in connection with the death of his brother-in-law, L. J. Gormley, shot to death in front of Bonaparte's home several days ago, was ordered held for trial by a coroner's jury yesterday.

NORTHERN ARMY NEAR PEKING

SHANGHAI, May 18.—(AP.)—The Nationalists were approaching nearer Peking today. Members of the foreign community at Shanghai believed that the Northerners were preparing to retire from the capital into Manchuria.

A Reuter dispatch from Tokio said that indications there were that Japan was prepared to act on a moment's notice to prevent the civil war from spreading into Manchuria.

The Nationalists were believed to be advancing along the line of the Peking-Hankow railway. The latest Nationalist reports claimed that they had reached Paotingfu, about 90 miles south of the Peking railway. The Nationalist news agency said that the vanguard of Shansi troops, which are allied with the Nationalists, had reached Changsintien, about seven miles southwest of Penking.

CHARGES "RED" DEAL

Indications of danger to Peking were seen in attempts of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, northern dictator, to hearten his own troops and discredit the Nationalist generals. He issued a proclamation accusing Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, Nationalist ally, of co-operation with the Communists and attempting to foment anti-foreign demonstrations. This last charge was regarded as an attempt to involve the Nationalists with the Japanesse.

The Japanese formally notified the Chinese authorities at Tsinan, where Nationalists and Japanese clashed, that Maj. Gen. Saito had been appointed garrison commander there to assist the Chamber of Commerce in maintaining order.

Run Down

FRANK MACULUSO

Frank Maculuso, 14, 1405 Arch street, had his left leg fractured when his bicycle was run down by an automobile near Glen Willard. He was taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

SLIDES BLOCK P. R. R. TRACKS

Pennsylvania Railroad trains between Pittsburgh and Buffalo were detoured through New Castle during the night when landslides along the tracks at Indian Bend, Stoneboro and East Sandy, near Franklin, barred passage. Crews of workmen were busy all night clearing the mud from the tracks and also fixing the track where washouts had occurred. Only two passenger trains were effected by the blocked tracks, but they were not delayed much in making the detour.

Crowds Greet FILMDOM'S NEWLYWEDS Screen 'Lover' IN MERRIE ENGLAND Make Tour Honeymoon

NEWEST

Filmdom's newest newlyweds, Adolphe Menjou and Kathryn Carver, have set Hollywood to nodding, knowingly, of course.

KATHRYN CARVER

Kathryn wed Adolphe in bright Paris just as soon as her divorce was recognized as legal in France. They'll be happy, they say.

BOULEVARDS

Paris' blase boulevards showed unusual interest in this American film wedding, but London is, mildly, "agog" over it.

ENGLAND

Off to England went Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Menjou. Large crowds (mostly women!) greeted the honeymoongers.

TOUR

After Paris has come London and after London will be many other cities; they plan to tour for the honeymoon.

SCREEN'S LOVER

Here's the screen's great lover today, this expressive model of sartorial perfection; women admire and men envy him—or do they?

RETURN

And then, after the honeymoon, it's back to the flickers for both of them.

DOWNTOWN PARKING LAWS BROKEN

SURVEY SHOWS STRANGLEHOLD OF AUTOS

Charges of flagrant violations of the parking rules are contained in a report made public today by the Better Traffic Committee. The report, based upon a survey of the downtown district on "a typical business day," presents, according to the committee, "evidence of the stranglehold the automobile is taking on the streets of Pittsburgh."

During the day of the survey, reads the report, 11,592 parked automobiles were checked, of which 3,890 were on streets where no parking is permitted. More than 1,000 other machines were parked for more than one hour on streets where that limit is set.

On that day, only 436 city tags and three state tags were issued, in spite of the fact that some of the violations were flagrant. This, according to the report, indicates "lack of sufficient personnel to adequately handle the parking violations."

"But slight attention is paid to signs," reads the report.

In addition to curb parking, says the report, there are 11 garages and 34 parking lots with a total capacity of 7,370 cars in the downtown district. On the day of the survey the highest number parked in these places at any one time was 4,512.

A survey of car owners who were shoppers that day revealed the fact that only 2.8 per cent had parked their cars in front of the store, a fact which, according to the report, "leads to the conclusion that business interests will be much better served by restricted parking with its consequent freer vehicular movement."

The elimination of "cruising" empty taxicabs, the requirement that cabs be permitted to park only at proper stations, and the elimination of taxicab stands from "no parking" streets is recommended.

OHIOAN TO ADDRESS STATISTICIANS HERE

The first dinner meeting of Pittsburgh members of the American Statistical Association will be held tonight at the University Club. The speakers are to be Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company, and Carl Snyder, statistician of the Federal Reserve Bank, New York City. Dr. John H. Cover, Director of the Bureau Business Research at the University of Pittsburgh, is in charge of the meeting and Alexander C. Robinson, president of the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, will be toastmaster.

INN AT COOK FOREST OPEN OVER WEEK-END

Forest Inn at Cooksburg, Clarion county, on the edge of the great white pine woods soon to be established as a state park, will be open to guests over the week-end, it was announced today by Thomas Liggett, secretary of the Cook Forest Association. The opening of the inn will inaugurate the summer tourist season for Cook forest.

DOG BITES ANOTHER CONNELLSVILLE CHILD

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 18.—Frances Mansberry, 9, the second child to be attacked by a dog this week, was bitten on the wrist as she walked home from school yesterday. Police have been ordered to seize every unleashed dog.

Youth of 16 Held On Charge of Extortion

Charged with having attempted to extort $500 from a West End grocer, Anthony Mezyniski, 16, a student of the Allegheny Vocational School, was turned over to postoffice inspectors today. City detectives, who arrested the youth, say that he wrote threatening letters and made telephone calls to Julius Goldberg, grocer, of 49 South Main street. Goldberg told detectives that he has been receiving threatening missives for more than two months.

JOSEPH RITER DIES AT HOME IN LONDON

Joseph Riter, a former member of the firm of the Riter-Conley Company, died a few days ago at his home in London, England, according to word received by his relatives here. He was a son of the late T. B. Riter, and for the last 15 years had resided abroad.

Firearms Stock Good Election Buy--Will

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 18.—An ex-governor and state leader had a fist fight in South Carolina. One called the other a Republican. Had the accused killed him for calling him that it would have been hard to convict him in any court where justice is really dealt out.

Will Rogers.

If there is fist fighting in the primaries what will it be in the election. You stock buyers better be buying Dupont's powder and Winchester arms.

Say, Oklahoma just pulled a good stunt to advance fields and aviation interest. They rounded up all the planes in their state and toured the whole state.

Hoover went fishing in Pennsylvania and caught 28 delegates in New Jersey. Some fishing.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

JEFFERSON TWP. FATHERS ROW OVER ROAD

Discord exists among Commissioners of Jefferson township. And the trouble is all over the reconstruction of Mowry-Gilhail-Floreffe road.

Six months ago the majority of the commissioners, numbering five, met with County Commissioners and agreed to share in the cost of the improvement. They agreed to pay $10,000 a mile. The road, 2.5 miles long, will cost $225,000.

When the minority members of the township commissioners' board heard what had been done they protested. "The township is too poor to pay anything," they said. "We want the road rebuilt, but we want the county to do it."

Since that time the board has been at "loggerheads." The minority members met with County Commissioners. No pay, no road, was the decision of the county board. "Settle your family troubles first, live up to the agreement and the county will do the rest," Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong said.

MINERS EXPEL THREE LOCALS

Three Pittsburgh district locals of the United Mine Workers of America lost their charters yesterday and were expelled from membership in the national organization by Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5. In suspending the locals Mr. Fagan said he had done so with the authority granted by the executive board of the national body.

Two of the local unions are at Renton and one at North Bessemer. The locals are charged with participating in the "Save the Union" movement and the work of the National Miners' Relief Committee, formerly the Pennsylvania-Ohio Miners' Relief Committee.

CHINESE GUILTY IN DOPE PLOT

Stanley Yee, 40, Chinese merchant, manager of the Hong High Company, 524 Third avenue, and former manager of the Far East restaurant, East Liberty, today was found guilty with three countrymen, of conspiracy to violate the narcotic act and possession of opium.

Yee, with Louis On, 35; Yee Shin Mee, 25, and Yee Chong, 45, was arrested in a raid in Third avenue on January 26, when narcotic agents and city detectives found smoking outfits and opium. Mee, it was testified, attempted to escape with a quantity of opium through a second-story window.

Excerpts from Gimbels Merchandising Policy... Published January 1928

(". . . in the Pittsburgh papers, upon the inaugural of the new store.)

"...to sell sound merchandise of standard grade, always fresh and in full assortments. To keep stocks complete and well balanced. To 'turn' merchandise rapidly at a low margin of profit...

"To show only merchandise of refined taste and individuality. To insist that designers and manufacturers in filling our orders be instructed to make things 'better' rather than 'cheaper.'

"To reflect throughout the store the modern trend toward art in clothes and homethings. To keep in our collective merchandising mind that design and color, the well defined principles of esthetics and not price... must be the determinants in the things we buy and sell.

"To be the first to show the new. The new colors, the new fashions, the new conveniences, the new inventions. Keeping this store a modern wonderland for the modern Alice.

"To maintain an institution so human that our public will enjoy hours of shopping within our doors. To make the Gimbel Brothers store a far better shopping place than Pittsburgh has yet seen."

"And experience by experience the public will learn that this modern, desirable merchandise is low in price because of Gimbels enormous combined power to buy for less."

Beginning Tomorrow

GIMBELS FIRST • • • • • STORE-WIDE SALE

May 19th to June 2nd Inclusive

WITH joyous anticipation Gimbels announces its first store-wide sale. It is our housewarming and we want you to come and share our happiness. Every department welcomes you with extra values in new summer merchandise. Not one of your desires will go ungratified in this first store-wide celebration which begins tomorrow and continues till Saturday, June 2nd.

Gimbels "Merchandising Policy," in spirit and letter, has been maintained in preparing for this event. Every piece of merchandise is "sound"... first in quality and correct in fashion. And throughout...in everything for wardrobe and home...is evident that indecipherable dash that distinguishes merchandise from this store. It is the first far-reaching event of Summer, planned with Gimbel precision, at the very forefront of the season...that you might have extra savings now when you want them most.

In these preparations we have felt the full force of buying power that is Gimbels. The best merchandise of the wide world has been at our command. And manufacturers and agents have been willing, yes eager, to have a hand in this first celebration of Gimbels-in-Pittsburgh...and to bid for Gimbel favor. Their amazing concessions added to our own give this sale its wide swing of money-saving importance.

We quote no prices for the opening day. The simplest announcement...and the confidence the public has placed in Gimbels...are sufficient to crowd the store. No matter what you may want you can be certain of finding it here at a saving. Quantities, wherever possible, have been estimated for the full twelve days of selling...yet you'll find a certain thrill in being on hand the first day...when the big crowd arrives and the value-cake is cut.

FASHION EVENTS THAT ANTICIPATE SUMMER

350 Women's and Misses' DRESSY COATS

$29.50

With the ensemble the thing, this season, the dressy coat is more than ever a necessary adjunct of the wardrobe, to wear with silk frocks, and it will be throughout the summer. So, when handsome, dressy coats are to be picked up at this modest price, the opportunity should be heeded.

All of these coats, of fine, lightweight cloths, are of regular Horne standard, having the merits of smartness and quality for which Horne coats are always noted.

The Women's Coats

The women's coats are mostly fur-trimmed, having various styled collars of natural and dyed squirrel, pahmi, American broadtail, mole and fox.

There are regular sizes, and large women's sizes to 52½.

The Misses' Coats

They are chiefly unfurred ones of attractive cloths, most of them in light colors, some with capes, some with scarfs and jabots of moire silk.

In many cases just one or two coats of a kind.

JURY CONVICTS MAN AND SON

Cataldo Spranza, of Hoffman street, North Side, and his son, Samuel Hoffman, of New York, were convicted yesterday in the Federal District Court of conspiring to manufacture and pass counterfeit half dollars.

More than 200 of the spurious coins were found several months ago in the home of the father. He subsequently pleaded guilty in Federal Court to possession of the bogus coins and was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Later the son was arrested in New York and brought here to stand trial with his father on the conspiracy charge.

ALL HIS HEALTH TROUBLES ENDED!

Elderly Homewood Man Claims Ten Herbs Benefited His Whole System.

"I have never got satisfactory results from any medicine until I used Ten Herbs, which ended all my health troubles," was the statement of Mr. Bernerd Meenen, Lincoln Avenue, Homewood, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

"Before taking Ten Herbs I had a poor appetite; what little I ate did not seem to do me any good," continued Mr. Meenen, who is 65 years old, and employed by Booth & Flynn, contractors. "Food did not digest properly, but would distress me. I could not get rid of the waste matter that was poisoning my system. No physic seemed to give satisfactory results. I had an extremely nervous feeling all over my body, and could not sleep at night, but would roll and toss by the hour. And, besides, my kidneys had me up seven or eight times a night, and I had pains across my back.

"I heard so many people praising Ten Herbs that I was induced to try it. I found your medicine to be just what I needed. First, my appetite was improved, and gas and bloating disappeared. Then my nerves got stronger so I could sleep more soundly. My bowels have been regulated, and my liver and kidneys are working better. Ten Herbs did not work on one organ alone, but seemed to give my whole system a thorough cleansing. I feel better, and have more energy and ambition. Your medicine has helped me so much that I have induced my mother-in-law to try it, and I am sure that she will get the same good results that I did. I believe that Ten Herbs has the true merits that many suffering people seek."

Many men and women in this section are daily reporting that Ten Herbs benefits and invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and gives the system a thorough cleansing.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

TRANSFER FUND FOR BRIDGE

County Commissioners have authorized the transfer of $68,000 from the general fund to the bridge fund, to meet a shortage in the cost for completion of Sixth street bridge.

Unforseen items arising since the span was started, Norman F. Brown, county director of public works, told Commissioners caused the shortage. The span when completed will cost $1,422,290.

The city will pay the county $103,000 for additional work on spans and abutments. This work was done at the request of the city, to meet requirements when a proposed subway is built.

COUNTY IS ASKED TO IMPROVE FOUR ROADS

County Commissioners were asked by delegations to improve McKnight road, Ross township; Dravosburg road, Clairton; Ingomar road, and Crawford Run road, East Deer and Frazer townships. Surveys were ordered made and the requests will be considered when commissioners start work on the items to be included in the coming county bond issue.

ANOTHER TECH PUBLICATION MAKES BOW

The first number of the "Carnegie Quarterly," a new undergraduate publication of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, made its appearance on the campus today. The Quarterly, its editors announce, is planned to supplant both the Carnegie Skibling, a literary magazine, and the Carnegie Technical Journal, which have suspended publication during the past two years. In the respect that it is representative of all departments on the campus, the new quarterly holds a unique position among past and present publications of the Carnegie undergraduates.

SUED WIFE ASKS FOR ALIMONY

Claiming that her husband has an income of $25,000 a year and has not contributed to her support since he instituted divorce proceedings, Mrs. Edna A. Hart, of 1306 Singer place, Wilkinsburg, filed a petition in Common Pleas Court yesterday asking that J. Paxton Hart, her husband, of 1016 Wood street, Wilkinsburg, pay her alimony and counsel fees pending the divorce proceedings. Hart, who operates a printing establishment in Wilkinsburg, charged his wife with cruelty and indignities. She says she is not guilty. They were married in 1904 and lived together until 1923.

Another application for alimony was filed by Enid Finley Miller against Dale O. Miller, a print shop foreman, of Washington, Pa. She says he makes from $60 to $100 a week, and she asks $25 a week alimony and $250 for counsel fees. She entered the divorce suit charging cruelty.

Julia Delach, of 46 First street, Leetsdale, filed suit against William Delach, also of Leetsdale. She says they were married in October, 1925, and that he deserted her five months later.

Mrs. Antionina Oleharski, of 1602 Forbes street, sued Albert Oleharski, of Lawrence, Washington County, charging desertion.

Mrs. Flora Lo Balzo, of 201 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, charged cruelty in a suit filed against Paul Lo Balzo, of Mt. Oliver.

Unable to Control Huge Gas Gusher at Scenery Hill

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 18.—All efforts of workmen of the Carnegie Gas Company to cap the gusher drilled in on the T. J. Jones farm, one-half mile south of Scenery Hill, have proven futile thus far and millions of feet of valuable fuel are still belching out of the ground with a roar that is almost deafening to residents nearby.

While no accurate test of the production has been possible thus far, gas men who have visited the scene of the strike are unanimous in agreeing that it is yielding close to 20,000,000 feet, and that it is one of the largest strikes ever made in Washington county, not excluding the big wells of the early days of drilling in this region, nearly half a century ago.

FAILED TO GRAB BOZO LAVERY, WALSH SAYS

A five-day suspension has been meted out to eight policemen, Supt. Peter Walsh disclosed this morning as a result of a brawl in the City-County Building yesterday following hearings before the Police Trial board.

The suspensions were ordered after it had been disclosed that the policeman had failed to arrest "Joseph "Bozo" Lavery, who is accused of having drawn a revolver and to have struck Sergt. Michael Daugherty. Other policemen are accused by the superintendent of having been negligent in not seizing Lavery.

Patrolman Harry Williams and William Poland who had just been fined $25 by the trial board, were said to have been among the group of policemen nearby when the fight started.

The brawl occurred near the office of Supt. Walsh who summarily imposed the suspensions, withholding the names.

After leaving the City-County Building Sergt. Daugherty went before Magistrate John Orie in Central Police Station and swore out a warrant against Lavery. Lavery's hearing is slated for Central Police Court today on the charge of assault and battery.

The fines imposed by the trial board against the sergeant and three patrolmen resulted from a raid on a Lockhart street dwelling two weeks ago in which a man sought for burglary escaped.

COX PURCHASES ANOTHER PAPER

"Old Gold's smoothness was so obvious" said Miss Anne Morgan after the Blindfold cigarette test

MISS ANNE MORGAN

Daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, resembles her distinguished father in both ability and breadth of vision.

"A decorator once told me that to appreciate the texture of a fabric or the glaze of a vase one's eyes should be closed. And to enjoy the fragrance of a perfume one should close one's eyes . . . one's other senses seem all the keener. That was the convincing thing about the blindfold test. The aroma and the flavor of one cigarette were so marked . . . the smoothness so obvious that I chose it instantly. It proved to be the OLD GOLD."

Anne Morgan

Why you can pick them . . . even in the dark

IN THIS scientific cigarette test a blindfolded smoker tries four leading brands. The only question asked is, "Which one do you like best?" Why should one cigarette win time after time? What gives OLD GOLDS their captivating charm? The answer is very simple: heart-leaf tobacco. No heavy, coarse top-leaves of the tobacco plant . . . no withered ground-leaves. Only the cool and fragrant heart-leaves are good enough for OLD GOLD. It's sheer quality that gives OLD GOLDS their honey-like smoothness. Do you wonder that they win . . . even in the dark?

SMOOTHER AND BETTER... NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

OPPOSITION SEEN TO COAL BILL

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—With the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee's investigation of conditions in the soft coal industry formally concluded, interest centered today on the probable action to be taken on the bill through which the committee hopes to remedy the evils disclosed by the inquiry.

That a considerable number of operators will oppose the measure was forecast by a statement made to the committee late yesterday by E. L. Greever of Tazewell, Va., attorney for the Southern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association. He spoke disapprovingly of the bill, saying it would have the effect of prohibiting the operation of mines except on a union basis, and would give control of the bituminous industry to the United Mine Workers.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, chairman of the committee, said he did not so interpret the measure.

DISAPPROVES BILL

Greever's opinion was given while he was delivering an address defending the injunctions that the courts, at the request of coal operators, have issued against the union miners.

"Don't you think that some of the judges have gone to extremes?" asked Watson.

"Yes," said Greever, "and that will always occur to the end of time. But we ought to go slow about changing laws and practices that have developed out of years of expepience. We ought, furthermore, to distinguish between abuses that have crept in and mistakes that have been made."

The last of the hearings, which have been going on since February, was terminated by the submission of affidavits and statements for the record by officers of the United Mine Workers.

Philip Murray of Pittsburgh, international vice president of the union, alone handed in six hundred affidavits, mostly dealing with matters that have developed in the strike zone during the last eight months. There were huge sheaves of documents concerning the alleged brutalities of the coal and iron police, records of nearly a hundred murders that have occurred in the strike-breakers' camps of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation and other coal companies in Western Pennsylvania since the strike began, affidavits about the political activities of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, affidavits about justices of the peace who Murray said were subsidized by the coal companies, and statements from public officials in a number of Western Pennsylvania communities relating to various matters that have come up in the course of the investigation.

PRESENT EVIDENCE

John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, laid before the committee documentary evidence in regard to conditions in the Ohio strike zone, and Van A. Bittner, chief representative of the United Mine Workers in northern West Virginia, presented a number of affidavits concerning the situation in that region.

Senator Watson showed concern over the necessity of having to print all of this material for the Record, but agreed to do so. He said the committee had already exhausted the $10,000 appropriation that had been granted it for the inquiry and would have immediately to ask an additional $10,000 appropriation. Already eight volumes of testimony have been printed.

The last witness was Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, who introduced documents to show that the Herrin massacre of 1922, in which 20 men were killed, was the outcome of a communist plot and that the United Mine Workers were not to blame. This was in answer to the reproach of W. H. Coolidge, chairman of the Island Creek Coal Company, who in his testimony before the committee had blamed the union for the massacre.

OHIO GUARD TO CLOSE MINE KITCHENS SUNDAY

Fay King Moralizes on Second Love Marriages

By FAY KING

ONE reads of happy honeymoons—the bridegroom having divorced a young wife and little children to marry this new love.

I wonder sometimes if any real woman can find happiness with such a man; happiness that is never marred with a thought of the unhappiness of those whom he left for her?

Does she never stop to think in her own joyful hours of those whom he left for her?

Does she look at their little child and wonder how the other woman feels having, too, once known this same happiness with him?

When her own baby learns to talk, does she ever think of the other little sad hearts that are so soon aware that they are not wanted—not loved best—not enough to hold his heart.

I cannot understand women like that!

And I never do want to understand them, for when I have come to the place where my sympathy is with them, I should be afraid my views on all things were becoming so distorted that not anything could be as lovely as it truly is when it is RIGHT!

PHYSICIAN LOSES SON TO PASTOR

"It was my sister's dying wish that I have this boy," said the Rev. George W. Gilbert, pastor of the First Christian Church, Sheraden, after Judge Thomas D. Carnahan yesterday had placed the lad in the custody of the minister, the boy's uncle. The father, Dr. Newton H. Jenkins, Kingston, Pa., felt his defeat keenly.

Witnesses had testified they thought the boy's best interests would be served by the minister providing a home and Judge Carnahan said he felt the lad should stay where he was living.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ethel B. Jenkins, field secretary for the United Christian Women's Missionary Society of the Christian Church, was estranged from her husband at the time of her death, several months ago.

Following the court's decision, Dr. Jenkins threw his arms around his son's neck and implored the youth to "be a good boy; remember, I am your father and love you—yes love you dearly; write to me and God bless you."

BODY OF PASTOR'S SON RECOVERED FROM RIVER

The body of Preston Taylor, 23, a Negro, of 1242 Buena Vista street, was recovered from the Allegheny River at the foot of Cremo street last night. He had been missing since February 20. His father, the Rev. W. W. Taylor, Baptist minister, identified the body.

"Famous Fifty" Suits

From the

HOUSE OF KUPPENHEIMER

$50

They're famous for good reason—for their good looks, their original and exclusive patterns, the rock-ribbed sturdiness of their fabrics, the true Kuppenheimer distinction of their style. And more than that—they're famous with the Pittsburgh men as a very fine investment in good appearance. Careful, deft craftsmanship is expressed in every seam from collar to cuff. Sizes for every man.

The New Canyon Shades Are Kuppenheimer Originations

Misty greys and greens, warm hued tans and blues—inspired by the rock walls of the Grand Canyon. They're thoroughly masculine colors that you will like immensely. And there's splendid variety of weaves and patterns.

KAUFMANN'S—SECOND FLOOR

Collegiate Straws at 2.85 Win Masculine Approval

That oft-reported camel could make no lament concerning these straws . . . they're light as a man could wish . . . and men do wish them. Years of experience have taught us those qualities of headgear that meet with masculine approval . . . and these "Collegiate" hats have been made to those specifications in England, selected by our personal representative. Both medium and wide brims are to be had . . . though the majority of men seem to approve the narrow brims with slightly higher crowns. With either saw or cable edge. 2.85.

A Wide Assortment of Other Straws to Conform to Every Taste

Genuine Panamas	6.50 to $50
Imported Italian Pedelinos	$5 and $10

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

News From Motion Picture Studios and Announcements Concerning Amusements in Local Houses

STOCK ACTORS GUESTS

The Nixon Players, who will play summer stock in the Nixon, opening Monday night, May 21, in "The Man Who Came Back," were guests at the performance of "The Dover Road" by the "Y" Playhouse, in the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association, with B. Iden Payne and Henzie Martin Brown in leading roles. The Nixon Players were one of a number of dramatic societies invited.

Anne Forrest and Mabel Kroman, sisters, appearing with the George Sharp players in the Pitt Theater, are enjoying a visit from their brother, Neil Kroman, who arrived from Los Angeles. He will see his two talented sisters in "Wooden Kimono" next week and may decide to remain for the summer.

"The King of Kings," now playing in the Alvin, has a cast including H. B. Warner, Ernest Torrence, Joseph and Rudolph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, Sam DeGrasse, William Boyd, Theodore Kosloff, George Siegeman, Dorothy Cumming, Jacqueline Logan, May Robson and Julia Faye. It will remain in the Alvin for the second and last week, beginning Monday night.

Arthur Byron's new vaudeville vehicle, "A Family Affair," will be a featured act in the Davis next week.

FRIENDS WE MEET -:- HERE AND THERE -:- IN THEATER BILLS

Billie Dove, one of our most expert smilers, comes to the Stanley screen Monday in "Yellow Lily." Nothing can convince us there's anything yellow about Billie.

Thelma Todd of "Vamping Venus," practices on Charlie Murray, who is the comedian in the film, but his facial expression far from proves that she makes him like it, so we judge that he has been vamped by others more experienced.

Dick Leibert, organist in the Penn, has composed the music for a fox-trot lyric, "Come Along Where the Sun Shines All Day Long," which he will use soon for one of his organ specialties.

Louise Gerard Huntington, member of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, is soon to leave that company, according to the rumor bird. She has made friends here.

HOMER SMITH PLANS EXCURSIONS TO PARK

Preparations are being made by Capt. Homer Smith to take care of a capacity crowd Decoration Day on the initial trip of the steamer Homer Smith to Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va. Patrons of the boat will be taken for a 100-mile ride, leaving the foot of Smithfield street at 8:30 a. m., and arriving at the down-river resort at 12:30. Departure for Pittsburgh is set for 5 o'clock. The boat has been entirely reconditioned for the 1928 season. Merrill's orchestra plays each night for the dancers.

HARMON'S ORCHESTRA FEATURE IN SANDERS

Dave Harmon's orchestra is playing nightly for the dancing in Sander's Inn, Aspinwall. This organization opened its engagement Monday night and will be heard for a second week. The orchestra played an extended engagement in the Penn Theater last fall.

PERENNIAL FLAPPER IS "MIRACLE WOMAN"

"The Miracle Woman" announced as an extra attraction in the stage program in the Stanley next week is that personification of perpetual youth, Fannie Ward. Miss Ward, who made her stage debut in 1884 or thereabouts, laughs off her 60-odd years. She retains her youthful appearance without ever having had her face lifted. During the 80's and 90's Fannie Ward was a beauty of the stage. In 1887 she was appearing with Henry Dixey in "Adonis." She was the Cupid in the original production of "Sinbad the Sailor." And throughout the years she has been prominent as a comedienne both in this country and abroad. Slender, about four feet tall, she wears two-inch spike heels to make her appear more grown up.

MISS NESBIT'S LAST WEEK IN FLOTILLA

Evelyn Nesbit, who is playing the third and final week of her engagement in Pittsburgh, is to appear exclusively at the Flotilla Club Friday and Saturday nights. Heretofore Miss Nesbit has been appearing at both the Flotilla Club and Venice Restaurant. For the remaining performances of her engagement, she will appear in the Flotilla Club at 7:45 and 11:30 p. m.

MASONIC VETERANS TO ATTEND CHURCH

A special sermon, "Indelibly Inscribed," will be delivered Sunday evening by the Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss, to members of the Masonic Veterans Association in the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street. The Rev. Mr. Voss, is chaplain of the association.

CLUB ARRANGES TWO HIKES FOR SUNDAY

The Pittsburgh Hiking Club will take two hikes Sunday. The morning hike will be from Smith's Ferry, along Little Beaver River. The afternoon hike will be from Glenshaw, via Glenshaw Falls to Elfenwild.

SAWMILL BLVD. IN BOND ITEMS

Sawmill Run boulevard extending from Woodruff street, West End, to Library road and Nobles lane, will be among the items in the county's $40,000,000 peoples' bond issue, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman, stated yesterday and Commissioners E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern approved. This is the first project definitely decided upon in the bond issue. The boulevard will cost $1,162,500.

Representatives of civic organizations, borough and township officials and residents of South Hills district met with commissioners and urged the building of the thoroughfare.

Agitation for the roadway was started 21 years ago. Every year since then delegations and committees have called on commissioners and requested construction of the boulevard.

Greater Variety
—Wider Choice—
Better Service in Our Newly Enlarged Store

We will not risk the reputation it has taken us half a century to build by selling you a suit that is not right in each and every detail. That is the first and most important reason for the sensational growth in sales of Richman's Clothes.

We make every garment we sell, to the most exacting specifications, in our own factories—we select our woolens from the choice offerings of mills famed for quality—and, because we buy 4,000,000 yards yearly for spot cash, we can provide quality otherwise impossible at our price.

Our models are authentically styled by a designing staff second to none—there are no clothes better styled, regardless of the label, or price mark they bear.

From the smallest detail of the hidden inner construction, upon which lasting style and wear depends, to the beautifully shaped collar and lapels, quality is tailored into every Richman garment by highly skilled men and women who own a big share of this business—workers who share with us responsibility for your satisfaction.

When you invest in Richman's Clothes you get style, woolen luxury, and tailoring quality for which you would willingly pay higher prices, were it not for the fact that Richman resources provide this amazing value at $22.50—one standard price, everywhere and every day, for any Richman suit, topcoat or tuxedo suit you choose—you cannot pay more—and any alterations you desire are made without charge.

TRADER HORN—His Tale of Hidden Africa

Horn's Philosophical Reason for Not Finishing Chief Who Attacked Him

What Has Gone Before.

Half a century ago, Trader Horn, a young man, began his exciting career among the savages of the Ivory Coast of equatorial Africa. Initiated into the Isogas society he discovered their White Goddess was the daughter of an Englishman of aristocratic family. He decided to rescue her and steals a great ruby from the Josh House over which she presides. Buying an island with a bottle of gin he has to fight for his property and defeats an army of cannibals.

The Napoleon of the Equator

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN
Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE celebrations of their victory I had no control over. Even Old Iwolo slipped off. I had only one line-eyed man in the crowd perfectly sober, and that was Kenchoro, who, although greatly amused, kept a keen eye on me. Iwolo's harp pretty nearly talked as each Encomi took his part in the dance to the tunes and words of prowess of bygone days, and the way they made imaginary feints and stabs would have tickled even an audience of the best of our modern warriors.

ALFRED A. HORN

As each spear thrust was made and parried by these best of the wildest of nature, they were received by the hearers by such words as "Va bue" (fully for you), and the next one would jump into the arena with his own mode of fighting and was received by such encouragement as "Hit red," "Give it to him," "Now for a kill," and this went on till the sun rose; in fact, I fell asleep amongst it all, and in my dreams I had hundreds of rifles and Encomi warriors, and even married Nina (silly dream)!

Also the little blue-eyed fairy of the ponds far away popped in upon me and actually scraped my face with her ringlets and pinned me a sweet bunch of wild flowers on, and when I awoke finding all well and as it should be I felt relieved.

Great things these dreams, when you come to look back and I had often thought as a lad, do they ever come true, but that dream did. strange to say and she pinned many a posy right in old Lancashire near the old lily pond where the old stony brook sang its song for us amidst the song birds. That was surely heaven on earth to me, at that time a simple child of nature after all.

Chiefs Welcome Peace

On awakening I was surprised to find the island was visited by many natives, some Okellys and some Mpangues who were quietly waiting for my waking. Of course I gave audience to the Okelly chief, who was a younger brother of Apaque's. He had heard of my doings and had come to see if I intended starting business again and this I assured him would be done.

I pointed out to him that the delay in trade had not been caused by any fault of mine and at this he laughed (I found him very sensible), and said I was quite right and he knew the reason of the delay.

As he said this he pointed down stream to a large number of vultures which were circling high in the air above the old battle place. That was the cause he said and I smiled but was careful to make no allusion to the fight.

Value of "Licked Man"

He told me that he had many cutting rubber and many more were coming from Engella who intended to settle on the land and declared the rubber was not only good but there was a life's supply, it was to be found in larger quantities than they had ever expected to see and of course they were anxious to have a trading station again on the island. I assured the good chief that I would send him two traders as soon as possible to Apaques and I knew that all would be well.

After this he left fully satisfied with his retinue and next came the Mpangue chief who explained his wants and he also withdrew promising his loyal support against anyone who should at any time disturb the trade of his country. I now called on all the boys, traders, etc., and counseled them to say nothing about what had happened, and they all agreed with me that this was our best policy. As Iwolo put it, was all in the game.

We now dipped paddles and went our way rejoicing, not forgetting a few loving cups which strengthened us after our celebrations. Passing the point where the cannibals had made such a stout resistance we saw many black vultures who were evidently having high times on shore and most ghastly sight of all was the torn body of the man who shot the rifle. He was still hanging from the tree, head down, having been firmly caught by both feet in a fork.

I mentioned the advisability of diving under him for the rifle he had let drop in the river but this they would not do as they were afraid of the imburus of spirits of the dead which they declared would forever haunt that spot.

Of course there was nothing to be done but to wait for some other chance. And eventually this came. I recovered the rifle without much trouble and it proved to be an old Snider which had been stolen from the firm I was representing.

We left the land of ghosts and were soon racing for who should land at Apaque's first. As my canoe was always manned by white Encomis supposed to be the best canoe men in the world we were soon flying downstream at a terrific speed. My canoe of course carried the rum which was always a big incentive as the ones following had always to catch us at tot time, and the ones left missed their rum.

At times the race was very close and we reached Samquitte by sundown, and after a short rest made for my uncle's, arriving at midnight, and were received by a shower of welcomes. This was surely a home sweet home for me, and I turned in near old Apaque's, who of course received all the news from me just as it was. The battle especially excited him, as they had seen the passing homeward of the defeated chief at night time. But as he had received my message he had given the order to his people not to attack him. But he could not understand why I had not sent him word, as the two of us could have wiped him out. I explained that one licked man was a better man to deal with than one unbeaten one.

The Jolly Chief

And considering the innings I had given him and the promises he had made, I thought I had taken enough out of him for the time being. Oh yes, my uncle said for the time being, but why not finish your enemies once for all. This was his belief. However, in my position he could quite understand my feelings.

The old warrior was a happy go lucky sort and during the conversation would help himself after which he would laugh loudly and say, Well, what a beating old Renjoga (old elephant) got from a young white lad. And although I would tell him again he would keep me talking while he laughed heartily so much that one of his wives who always sat by him would also raise a laugh.

She would then go to the door and clap her hands, still laughing, and the rest of his wives would clap hands and laugh so loudly that it seemed like a universal clapping and without doubt it was a universal laughing as I could hear it being repeated from afar.

Tired out at last I fell asleep and it must have been at sun up that I woke. Apaque was still snoring and I made all arrangements for departing. When he awoke he commenced laughing again, saying Tell me that speech of Ngogudemas about bad council. Here he would laugh whilst I too was forced to do the same he put everybody in good humor with his jokes. My boys were now ready, I always had a gun inspection to see if the count was there and I likewise kept the guns as clean as possible. Apaque liked this and jokingly said as I lined up for inspection, 'Oh yes' and these were the bad councillors he listened to. Boys, did he cough when he spoke? The whole company laughed at this. If I had these guns just now I would make all men cough, he said. These are something that I have always wanted but they are no good if you cannot buy the cartridges. At this I smiled.

A Convert to Trade

But he was not willing that I should go at once. Wait, he said, these two traders are coming back to Isange how long will they be before they return? I told him I would send them back as soon as possible. I might send N'dama with five canoes of merchandise at once and Iweke Wilson would follow on at once with five more and so on. These two men were ivory buyers.

Oh no, he said, there is quite a lot of rubber waiting up here for you and I will send you as many canoes as you wish and these will cost you nothing. I will help you. How many do you want? A hundred? Endama and Iweke Wilson both agreed that twenty large ones would be quite sufficient. The old chief got busy and in one hour, whilst we waited and laughed and he took nips at the expense of the defeated cannibal king, his neighbor.

Twenty well armed, manned and provisioned canoes arrived. We bade fond adieus. Apaque, who was a big man, gave me a squeeze under the arm. The old man was fond of me and I surely liked him. And we all left smiling and loudly swearing allegiance to Apaque, who smilingly acknowledge the compliment.

Before starting the chief had called me apart and said: Young man you are white and I am Apaque, you have won the river for me. I have waited for chances like this. Now let one tell you differently, you will never fail, trusting Apaque. My people shall never owe you. I know where the Frenchman is, many of my slaves come from there. Now you want rubber and ivory. On your account I will agree to make peace even with my enemies. I can see the power of trade. I was astonished.

Napoleon of Equator

I only answered I shall do all you wish that a good son can, but trade and war go hand in hand and here I shall always be with you. Have I ever deceived you, he said. No. Son, listen, you shall have all the two rivers to yourself, no one shall ever disturb you. I am Apaque. He was always my bosom friend in whom I could confide and he never betrayed me this savage Napoleon of the Equator.

I reached Adimango in due time. My mail was at our new station. The last steamer load of gunpowder and sundries were being put aboard. Maitam came at me with a jump and put my hand on his head saying, "Wa ka wa Ball n'gogudema. You defeated the big elephant of the Mpangues, you are our chief." I laughed and told him nothing of the sort. No, but he said, Listen, some of our people were there and some are still there, how could this be, was there no fight? I told him the fight was nothing, he looked at me strangely.

Have you got any ivory, I said, fetch it along to me I will give you a good price for it. Oh, yes, they had much to sell me and would be at the new place tomorrow. We both parted laughing, but I called him back and writing out an order for a pot of jam for his father I parted with my blood brother. Strange people these he was actually proud that I had beaten his paramount chief and that some of his mates, probably his relatives, were dying at deaths corner away up in the high Ogowe. The children of wildest Africa are surely difficult to understand.

THREE WOMEN HURT IN BADEN AUTO CRASH

AMBRIDGE, Pa., May 18.—Three New Castle women were injured, two seriously in a crash of two autos yesterday at the Baden end of the Legionville bridge. Mrs. James Richards and Mrs. John Wilson, occupants of a car driven by Mrs. Henry Brood, were injured seriously. Mrs. Brood was bruised slightly. Occupants of the other car were not injured.

5 MINERS CONVICTED IN ATTACK ON GUARD

John Zakradnok, George Zeriack, Theodore Kreneski, Thomas Tody and Alexander Simon were convicted of aggravated assault and battery in Criminal Court yesterday before Visiting Judge William T. Darr of Brookville. All are striking miners at Russelton and were accused of attacking S. C. Fish, guard for the Republic Iron and Steel Company, who said he went to the house of Matt Spetanik the night of January 25 to have him return to work. Disposition was deferred pending filing a motion for a new trial.

A Tree With Only Two Leaves

THERE is an extraordinary forest near the west coast of Africa. The trunks of the trees attain to four feet in diameter, but are only a foot high. No tree bears more than two leaves, and these are often two feet broad.

A Tree That Yields Milk

A TREE that yields "milk" has been discovered in Central America. The tree is "milked" by cutting into the bark and the liquid that pours forth is said to be "rich and creamy, palatable and sweet to the taste."

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

OH, BE REASONABLE!

MEN are always begging women to "be reasonable."

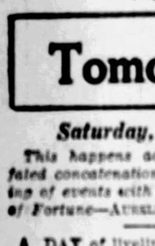
And yet, if a man falls in love with a woman, it is not because she is reasonable or wise or intelligent, but because she is elusive, capricious, surprising or tantalizing.

* * *

It is not because she appeals to his common sense—but because she appeals to his curiosity or his vanity or some of his other five senses.



HELEN ROWLAND

If he marries her, it is not because he has decided that he could not get along with her—but because he has discovered that he cannot get along WITHOUT her.

* * *

If he pursues her, it is not so much because he wants her, as because some other man obviously wants her.

* * *

He asks her to be his housekeeper, nurse, helpmate and valet for life, not because her hands look strong and capable—but because they are tiny and white and kissable.

* * *

He makes love to her, not in order to win her, but in order to please her or charm her—or just to pass the time.

He will forgive her for almost any crime, from speeding, to murder, and exonerate and acquit her, not because she is justified—but because she is young or blonde, or has soulful eyes, charming ankles and looks interesting in black.

* * *

He calls her up or takes her out, not because he particularly wants to—but because he can't think of anything else that he particularly wants to do.

* * *

He fancies that he wants to marry her, until he discovers that she fancies so, too—and then he has a change of heart and another "fancy."

* * *

He proposes to her, not when he thinks that she is expecting it and will joyfully fall into his arms—but when he thinks that she isn't expecting it, and will drop dead from surprise.

* * *

He chooses her because she is a distinct relief from all the other women he knows—and then goes out and plays around with the others, just for a relief.

* * *

He secretly wants her to idealize him and put him on a pedestal—and immediately begins thinking up excuses for slipping off the pedestal and being "human."

* * *

He begs her to try to "understand" him—and then is hurt and peeved when he discovers that she can read him like a primer and see through him like a plate glass window.

* * *

He spends months trying to persuade her to marry him and live with him—and the rest of his life trying to persuade her to let him ALONE.

* * *

In short, if woman ever tried to be "reasonable," she could never be happy with anybody so unreasonable as a man.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, May 19

This happens according to the fated concatenation and interfusing of events with the conjunction of Fortune—AURELIUS.

A DAY of liveliness and generally satisfactory conditions may be expected throughr the auspicious rule of predominant planets. Mars should give impetus to affairs in general and the luminaries in conjunction bespeaks a propitious time for those in employment to push for advancement, increase of salary, or preferment. Finances are under favor, but be on guard against duplicity or subtlety.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of benefits and promotion, especially if in the employment of others. Affairs generally should be lively and finances should flourish.

A child born on this day may be enterprising and ambitious and should succeed in employment or in any direction in which it should apply itself.

OUT OF THE MELTING POT -:- From Dross to Gold! -:- Drawn by DOROTHY FLACK

WHAT sorcerers have tried to do for centuries; what chemists have spent their whole lives in search of; the secret that has eluded the grasp of wise and learned men through the ages—how to make gold from dross—has at last been solved, and by a shy bit of an emigrant girl. A scared, homesick, lovable, yet determined and brave, bit of humanity—a stranger in a strange land.

Like a wildflower torn from its native soil and transplanted to a hothouse, sometimes withering and dying in the strange atmosphere, yet sometimes thriving and growing more lovely than the real hot house plants, is the little stranger. Not knowing the language—just enough to get by, yet determined to find the glories of this wondrous new country, she arrives on the friendly shores, and what happens? My dear, in two years time, sometimes less, you wouldn't know her!

Headlong she hurls herself into this great melting pot of America and emerges, gold of the purest! A girl of whom you may well be proud! A butterfly from a grub; and WHAT a butterfly! With a beauty and carriage and a poise that her adopted sisters may well envy, she outstrips them in the race. For she's backed with the traditions of centuries; not in vain did her ancestors plod and suffer and die that she might eventually find her way to freedom. For she's a credit to them and to the country of her birth and a pride and joy to the country of her adoption. Here's luck to you, little-girl-from-the-melting-pot! And here's love to you and your Heart's Desire, and the fulfillment of all your dearest dreams.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Mary Lue

DEAR MISS GALE:

I read you answer to my questions the other day. Talking and pleading and other sorts of things do not help my sister. When I talk to her she only says that I am jealous of her boy friends. What shall I do? I promised my mother to take care of Yvonne, but so far I have not succeeded. There is a young man who is wonderful. He loves me and I love him, but I can not marry him because Yvonne says she will not live with us and I cannot let her live alone. At the present time she is running around with a married man. Miss Gale, she is not bad, but just wild. What shall I do?

MARY LUE.

Marry the man anyway, my dear. Your sister will live with you, naturally, when she sees that he will is not law and you are determined that she shall not spoil both your lives. Why not have your fiance talk with her and give her a masculine viewpoint on her actions?

Doubtful

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young girl late in my teens. I have been going with a certain young fellow, steady, for four months. He is a very nice fellow, clean cut and nice looking. He treats me as though I were a queen. It just seems as though I can't like him. Everything he says or does gets on my nerves. He called me up one night and asked me for a date. I had always had a date with him every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. I told him I was going to take up music again, and drop all fellows. He got very angry, and told me it wasn't my music at all but another fellow, Miss Gale, that is not true. It's because I cannot like him. He gave me a beautiful white gold vanity case for my birthday, his ring and a handkerchief. I gave him my picture, and now I want it back. How can I get it without hurting him any further? And what should I say when I ask him? I guess you thought me very foolish for giving my picture to a fellow I cannot like. The truth will out—all the time and so here's my story. I like a fellow who lives in the next town. I have liked him for six years. We went together sometimes steady, then we would quarrel and then we would make up. Well we had a quarrel, and like all girls, I thought he could never mean the same to me again. So I went with this fellow in the hope that I would forget the one I liked. But as usual you can't forget as quickly as you forgive, and I found myself thinking myself so much to blame as him. He asked me to forgive him and of course you know the rest. I found out, that I cannot go with this other fellow, because it wouldn't be playing the game fair. They claim all's fair in love and war, but I think there are some rules overlooked. Please help me, Miss Gale. I need your advice. I agree with you entirely on all three of your popular subjects.

DOUBTFUL.

I am afraid you cannot help hurting this boy if you really wish to sever your friendship. Let the matter of the picture drop for a little while, but don't see the boy. If you don't like him. Later, when he is over his hurt a little, you can ask him to return the picture.

Lonesome

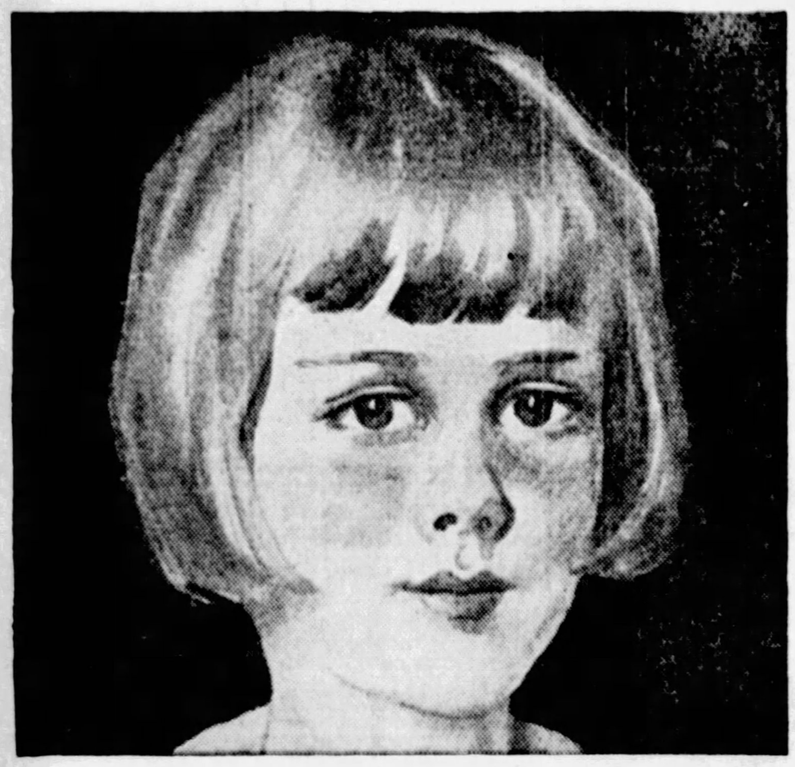
DEAR MISS GALE:

I have reading your column constantly for the past year and think you give wonderful advice, so now I am coming to you for some myself. I am a girl in high school and go out with a fellow quite often. like this fellow but he is always talking about other girls—how nice they are—especially one. This one does not have a very good reputation, but I don't think he knows that, at least not everything. Now, how can I tell him so he will not be always praising her? This fellow likes me, at least he said so and told several of my friends. What should I do?

LONESOME.

Pay no attention to him. He is probably trying to make you jealous.

DANDRUFF?



Check It Quickly

Youngsters usually get dandruff at school; promiscuous use of combs, towels, etc., brings it on. At the first sign of it, go after it with Listerine, the safe antiseptic. You simply douse it on full strength and massage the scalp vigorously.

Keep the treatment up systematically. Unless the case is a very serious one, requiring the attention of a physician, you will note improvement within ten days. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Don't Disregard Any Patches in the Throat

THERE is a special form of sore throat, accompanied by great pain or "angina." It is due to a special and peculiar germ and is called Vincent's Angina.

DR. COPELAND

Ulcers and patches of membrane appear in the mouth and throat. The patches look a good deal like the membrane of diphtheria. On this account it is not always recognized and sometimes is confused with diphtheria.

It may be associated with abscessed teeth, diseased gums and all other forms of bad teeth. I wish everybody would come to realize what a menace to health a diseased mouth really is. The broken and ulcerated tissues are swimming in pus germs. Such surfaces are ready to become infected with some more dangerous germ than the ever-present one.

There is such close relationship existing between tonsilitis, diphtheria and Vincent's Angina that certainty as to the true nature of the trouble is determined only in the laboratory. As a matter of safety all throat membranes and unusual discharges should be submitted to the microscope.

Many persons who have real diphtheria lack positive and painful symptoms. They hardly feel ill and may proceed with their regular duties. They know there are patches in the throat, but they disregard them.

This should never happen. Every time a membrane forms, whether the throat is extremely painful or just a little, there should be a laboratory examination.

There are really two forms of Vincent's Angina. One is a superficial type, in which there is simply ulceration. In the other the deeper tissues are involved.

To overcome Vincent's Angina immediate attention must be given the general condition. The teeth and gums should be attended to by the dentist.

As in other forms of sore throat, cleanliness is of vital importance. The mouth, tonsils and throat must be kept clear of the membrane. Some cleansing spray, wash or gargle may be used. Alcohol and tobacco should be avoided during the progress of the disease.

The family physician will prescribe the remedies and take charge of the case. It is important to call the doctor in any case of throat trouble when there are patches, because, as I have said, there is always the danger of diphtheria. It does not pay to take chances.

Sore, Tired Feet

Oh! How good it feels to put your tired, aching feet in a "Tiz" bath! You can just feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort being restored.

"Tiz" draws out the acids and poisons that puff up your feet and make them tender and sore. It takes all the soreness out of corns, callouses and strained muscles and makes tight shoes feel a half size larger. Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store and have weeks of foot comfort for a few cents.

How To Be Beautiful by Maria Jeritza

The Nose as a Feature of Loveliness

THE nose is a comparatively small feature, but it certainly can cause its possessor a heap of worry when its appearance doesn't happen to suit her.

In summer, it is the first feature to catch and reflect the rays of the sun in the form of sunburn. It often freckles. It shines with heat just when its owner most longs to look cool, poised and well groomed. In fact, the average nose has various ways of breaking the rules of beauty.

What can be done to improve this state of affairs? So far as the shape of the nose is concerned, there is little that can be done about it.

Plastic surgery, it is true, does make over noses. But the expense of the operation is considerable, ranging from five hundred dollars up. Moreover, results are uncertain and there is a slight element of danger, as in all operations.

Because of these considerations, I do not recommend plastic surgery except in unusual and extreme cases. If you feel that you must have your nose reshaped, go to your own physician and get from him, names of reputable, registered surgeons who specialize in this branch of surgery.

You can do much to bring out the best lines of your nose by choosing your hats, collars and coiffure with care. If, for instance, your nose is retrousse, the chances are you will look best in a hat with irregular brim and saucy broken lines. Also, a pointed neckline will be more becoming to you than a round one.

On the other hand, a lady with a long, straight nose can afford a round neckline and may look very well, indeed, with her hair parted in the middle and drawn low on her cheeks and brow in flat waves.

If your nose is large and angular, a soft arrangement of your hair will tend, by the law of balance, to modify the impression of hardness an angular face sometimes gives.

Do not let a few freckles on your nose grieve you. Many a beauty has them. Accept them with good humor as part of you, but choose hats for Spring and summer with a protective brim, if ever so slight, or else wear one of the half veils that are fashionable now.

Before merciless exposure to the sun as in swimming, golf or a tennis match, you will if you are clever, rub a thin coat of cocoanut oil or nourishing cold cream well into your skin, especially your nose, or else wear a hat or a shade such as Helen Wills dons when she plays tennis.

The following lotion is a tried and sure relief for a sun-burned nose:

Zinc intment.
Cosmoline—equal parts.

Powder applied too thickly, or with a soiled puff, or carelessly removed, may cause blackheads and irritated nose-pores. Another cause is use of a drying foundation cream. Use a mild liquid astringent as a powder base if your type of skin does not react well to vanishing cream.

You can improve the skin texture of your nose by daily sensible care, and, by clever planning of your dress and coiffure, you can bring out its good points and minimize less flattering lines.

Good News For Girls And Women With Complexion Worries

One Week's Use of Plain Old-Fashioned Buttermilk Makes Amazing Improvement.

It's a strange then that now after years of being almost forgotten the simple old-fashioned recipe of buttermilk for beautifying the skin is again being turned to by the clever modern woman.

But it is easy to understand when you see the almost unbelievable improvement the use of buttermilk will make in your own skin and the short time it takes to smooth out little harsh wrinkles, reduce enlarged pores and give your complexion a lustrous, youthful firm look.

For convenience sake, Science has perfected a way of combining fresh concentrated buttermilk with a perfect cream which you can now get at May's Drug Stores, or any drug store, under the name of Howard's Buttermilk Cream. Just one application of Howard's Buttermilk Cream will make your skin look better than it has for months—or your money will be refunded.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

SPRING ONIONS By JULIA ELAM

PHYLLIS'S blue eyes rested approvingly on the wind-blown brown hair and strong profile of Lloyd Grayson, the visiting nephew of Judge Grayson, who sat beside her on the porch swing. Lloyd was tall and his long legs swayed the swing easily back and forth, while Phyllis's feet did not quite touch the floor. The air was soft, balmy, as it fanned their cheeks, and brought to their nostrils the fragrance of hyacinths, wood violets—and yes, the racy distinctive odor of spring onions.

Lloyd came from the city and Phyllis was desirous of impressing him with the fact that she was thoroughly modern and sophisticated, even though she did live in a small town. For several moments, they had discussed with fervent interest their individual likes and dislikes, and now they had reached the engrossing subject of food.

"I'm crazy about olives and caviar," Phyllis declared proudly.

"And onions?" Lloyd queried laughingly.

For a moment Phyllis hesitated. She had always classed onions with corned beef and cabbage, but sometimes a vegetable, like other things, became fashionable overnight. She had not, however, heard of any advancement in status of the humble onion.

"I detest onions," she rejoined with feeling. "They are so plebian." She was quite proud of the latter adjective, but she made a mental reservation as she uttered it. She did detest the odor of onions, and the odor was plebian; therefore, she wasn't quite lying.

Lloyd returned after supper that evening and again they discussed themselves long and ardently.

Next day he was leaving with the judge's family on an automobile trip through the valley, but promised to see Phyllis the latter part of the week.

For Wednesday dinner, which, in spite of Phyllis' modern views, was served at one o'clock, one of the dishes was a casserole filled with shimmering white globes reeking with golden buttersauce—spring onions.

When the cover was removed, the tip of Phyllis' tongue brushed her lips.

"M-mm," she murmured.

"Why don't you eat some, Phyllis? her mother urged. "You haven't a date tonight."

"I—I believe I will," Phyllis yielded, passing her plate.

So delicious were the tender bulbs that Phyllis did not stop until she had consumed three. After all, three would not injure her breath any more than one.

About four o'clock the telephone rang.

"Phyll, Lloyd has just gotten back to town," Bob Mason's voice informed her, "and a bunch of us are going out to Forest Hill for a picnic supper. We wanted you to go along in our car, but Lloyd said he wasn't sure you'd join us."

"Wasn't sure I'd go!" Phyllis reiterated blankly. "Why, yes, I'd love to go."

"Well; wait a minute—here, I'm going to let Lloyd talk to you."

"They just decided all of a sudden about the picnic, Phyllis, and I wasn't sure you could go—" Lloyd's voice was strangely lacking in enthusiasm.

Phyllis wondered what could be the matter with him.

"Why, yes, I can go," she said.

"All right, we'll be by for you at five."

When the receiver was back on its hook, Phyllis gave a startled gasp.

"I forgot all about eating those onions at dinner!"

She began immediately a purifying process with tooth paste and listerine, but she feared that the persistent scent lingered still.

At the last moment, arrayed in a blue and white print and blue and white felt hat, which made her eyes a deeper blue, she pressed a light kiss on her mother's lips and questioned:

"Mother, does my breath—"

"Oh! run along, Phyllis, it doesn't matter," her mother said evasively, and then her very worst fears were confirmed.

She marched bravely, yet quakingly, out to the car of young folks, who were honking for her at the curb. Lloyd alighted to help her in the rear door, but returned to his seat in front with Bob and Louise. It was rather odd that he did not exchange seats with some one, so he might be beside her, but she was glad for secret reasons not to be too close to him.

Out at the picnic ground, the boys and girls romped and played and paired off in couples to stroll in search of wild flowers, but Lloyd seemed to ignore Phyllis.

Could he have detected in the instant he was beside her that peculiar aroma, and condemned her as not only "plebeian" but also untruthful? Yet she hardly thought he had been close enough for that. If she had not had a reason for avoiding him, too, she might have jollied him along to discover what was wrong, but then she was afraid of too close a proximity with him.

At supper the same thing occurred. Lloyd dropped on the grass at the extreme diagonal of the tablecloth from Phyllis. He did call several gibes at her from that distance, but she could see he was trying to allay the suspicions of the others. He was actually avoiding her, and she could not fathom the reason. In just a day or two more he would be leaving town, and she might not see him again.

After supper it was worse, because each boy took a girl off to some moonlit nook; Lloyd was nowhere in sight and Phyllis was left literally stranded. She decided he must have caught a whiff of her breath as he helped her into the car, and now despised her. That was the only possible solution.

She had put all the knives and forks away so she could not graciously dawdle around the lunch boxes any longer. She made a desperate rush for a shadowed bench overlooking the river. There in solitude she watched the moonlight stream.

Presently a dark form moved near a clump of bushes. Her cheeks flamed as she recognized Lloyd, and she started away, then decided to remain seated.

"I'm awfully sorry I lied about onions," she confessed guiltily. "I do detest the odor, but I adore onions themselves. I guess you think I'm terribly plebian, and that's why you've been avoiding me."

"You—plebian!" Lloyd gasped. "Why I was avoiding you because I was afraid you'd think I was plebian. I ate a steak today at the little place where we stopped, all covered with slivers of tender spring onions—and I sure enjoyed it," he admitted roguishly. "But then I didn't know I was going to see you, and after what you said, I—"

They both laughed long and heartily.

And then by the witchery of moonlight and water and youth, his lips were close to hers. Phyllis didn't notice the fragrance of onions at all. His lips were too nice for that!

How One Thin Woman Gained 11 Pounds

Read This Letter

This is from Mrs. W. E. Looney—I just must tell you that McCoy's Tablets are the finest things I have ever tried. I have always been thin and never found anything to do me so much good. I was disappointed in the beginning.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them. My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. I didn't have any faith in them to start.

THE CONSTANT FLAME

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Through an Accident Emily Forms a Friendship With Rich Mrs. Haiden

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Emily Day and her younger sister, Kitten, are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. He rails against the rich, and the mother has hard work to make ends meet. Emily loses her heart to Kent Rossiter, but Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her. Her poverty prevents her from mingling with the socially elect and she wonders whether she will ever be one of them. Unable to go to the high school picnic she wanders to a mountain and Marty, who meets her, risks his life to gather some leaves for her. "You might have been killed!" she cries. "I'd do more than that for you, Em," he replies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THE music would linger after night had closed round the passing ship. Linger softly, tenderly as a caress, . . .

She saw it all in color; violet, dark blue light of stars glinting down slim, white bodies of the ships. Aloneness, a shadow farflung, high as heaven is high and very deep. . . .

The image came to her again and again. It came often when she stood before the window of a little interior decorating shop where she liked to stop because of the glimpses of beauty she caught inside.

The shop belonged to Frances Haiden, a brilliant, unconventional woman who managed her affairs very capably in her own way and let the rest of the world go by.

Emily started down the hill toward the shop on the Saturday of the picnic. She had seen a piece of tapestry in the window the day before, a noble thing, faded by age. She didn't know that once it had graced the boudoir of a queen. She only knew that it was bewitching and she wished to see the soft colors, melting into each other.

But once outside, green things beckoned and she turned toward Herald Hill. There she found Marty Nolan sitting alone on a boulder, looking out across the valley.

She would have turned and gone back, but he saw her. Without a word he climbed down and fell into step beside her.

They turned up North Mountain, still without speaking, and followed the trail to the summit. Far below them the river was a blue ribbon, undulating gently; to the north Rockland Lake was spread like a round mirror. And away in every direction were the yellows and greens and bits of brightness of early spring.

She touched his arm, drawing a startled breath. "Marty—oh—"

"Guess it's pretty nice, ain't it, Em? Say, let's sit down—"

They sat on a shelf of rock, the world at their feet. After a time she said, timidly, "I think it's wonderful the way you're doing, Marty. All so proud of you we are—"

"You, Em?"

"Oh, everybody."

"Huh! Show those babies something."

There was a clump of bright leaves on a higher ledge across a chasm. She pointed them out to him, spoke of their color.

He pulled himself up slowly, walked to the edge of the wall. She called to him to come back, begged him to listen. But he swung across the breathless space, gathered the leaves, swung back again and handed them to her. She was sobbing as she put out her hands.

"You might have been killed!"

He said, tensely, "I'd do more than that for you' Em. Much more than that."

CHAPTER II.

IT was on another Saturday, late in the spring, when Emily again was overtaken by the car which had brushed her off the road and brought about the tragedy of the blue dress.

She was walking down the long slope of the hill one morning, the sun about her—a fairy figure moving in brightness—with her arms full of magnolia blossoms. The car purred by, slowed and stopped. The driver was Frances Haiden.

"Tell me," she began abruptly, "aren't you the girl I knocked into the ditch a while back?"

Emily found herself looking into sharp, light eyes and a square face almost grotesquely made up but remarkable for its intelligence. The woman went on:

"I see that you are. Why didn't you wait that day? I had no intention of dashing away, you know."

"Why, it was all right, Mrs. Haiden. I wasn't hurt. Just my dress." The memory of that came stabbing into her mind and her smile went out in a wistful droop.

Mrs. Haiden moved long, horribly stained fingers on the driving wheel, opened the door suddenly and said, "Get in." She turned up the River road, expertly dodged a truck, and throttled down the engine, gliding smoothly under cathedral arches of giant trees.

"Now," she said, "tell me."

Emily told about the dress. How Agnes had saved for it. About the pattern they bought together and the day when finally she brought home the fabric.

"Agnes sat by the window and sewed. Every day when I came home I would see her sitting there, waiting for me to try on. You see it was about the first really stylish dress I ever had. We're awfully poor."

She confessed that she shouldn't have worn it the rainy day. Only she loved it so—gallant thing with brass buttons and scarlet belt. Even now, sometimes, she went to the corner up in the attic where it was laid away and dropped a tear on its tarnished splendor.

She stopped all at once, quite dumb and frightened. Never before had she talked so, told every little thing that came into her heart. She could say much to Agnes; tell about what happened, what people said and did. She could explain other things to Stella. But never these things; never her stirring, secret feelings.

Why should she do it now? This woman, a stranger, sat beside her silently, sharp eyes on the road ahead. She had made no movement, no gesture of sympathy.

Yet there was a something that came from her. A sense of kinship, somehow. Understanding. Even in her confusion Emily felt that. Frances Haiden understood.

Now she said, "Humph!" and brought the car to a stop. "Wait, will you? Got to make a call in here."

She vanished up a drive and Emily waited.

There was a tradition in Lyall that Mrs. Haiden possessed great wealth, but to some this story seemed inconsistent with her prediction for hard work. It did not occur to anyone that the dye vats out in the back of her shop, the dusty volumes on period costuming, furniture and architecture which cluttered her show-room, even the pigment grimed into her hands, all might be unlovely symbols of a lovely thing; an irresistible urge to express beauty.

By occupation Mrs. Haiden was an interior decorator; by nature she was a poet. And few of those who owned villas out River road, along Lyall's cote d'or, but knew it. For when there was work to be done, rooms to be made over, it was she they called in. And she did everything herself.

She had established a home down toward Great View on the very bank of the river; an old-fashioned Dutch colonial house under hemlock and white pine. And she filled it up with artists and writers, scientists, playwrights—celebrities and near celebrities of all descriptions.

Certain conservatives in the town rather raised their brows at her. They considered her calm disregard of old, accepted orders of living an attitude not to be taken lightly. But upon these she turned her wise, impersonal glance and they let her go her way without malicious gossip.

Emily thought of all this as she waited—remembered her own curiosity about the woman whose shop window so fascinated her.

BLAST LOOSES ROCK -:- NORTH SIDE HILL SLIDES -:- SMASHES IN STREET

WIRES FALL NEAR AUTO WHEN POLE IS BROKEN

City workmen blasting on a bluff overlooking East Ohio street, near Washington Crossing Bridge, to remove a landslide menace, loosed a two-ton boulder which hurtled down hill, bringing down a trolley pole, endangering a passing autoist as the falling trolley wire grazed the top of his car, and smashing to fill the street. Remnants of the huge rock crashed through an iron fence onto tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad skirting the Allegheny River. With the boulder came a large mass of shale, covering the roadway. Traffic was tied up several hours. Above, a repair crew installs a new pole. The dangling wire is visible at the right. This stretch has been the scene of numerous landslides.

14 Dancers Pass 100th Hour

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 18.—The Pittsburgh dance marathon record of 122 hours 34 minutes was the target at which seven remaining couples in Uniontown's endurance dance aimed as they passed the one hundredth hour of shuffling before noon today. From indications, several couples may shatter the mark set up in Motor Square Garden.

Three couples fell by the wayside this morning. Joe Laverdi and Virginia Lockard, Brownsville favorites, and Mike Sabell and Victoria Palsek failed to answer the bell when the locale was transferred from the Penn Theater to the Gallatin Gardens. And, after they had stood up 104 hours, Joe and Mary Zavani, the Masontown brother-sister team, gave up.

NAME LOCAL DAIRYMAN DELEGATE TO LONDON

E. M. Bailey, vice president of the Reick-McJunkin Dairy Company, and president of the American Dairy Federation, has been appointed as one of the 12 United States delegates to the Eighth International Dairy Congress to be held in London in July. The appointment was made by Secretary of State Kellogg. Mr. Bailey is also president of the Pittsburgh Dairy Council, and a member of the advisory board of the International Association of Milk Dealers. He is also a member of the executive committees of the National Dairy Council and National Dairy Association and a director of the National Dairy Products Corporation.

FEWER SLOT MACHINES, WELFARE FOLK REPORT

Decreases in the number of penny and nickel gambling machines and in the sale of cigarets to children; elimination of child labor in bakeries and on milk wagons, and similar advances in child welfare were set forth in a report by Dr. Charles W. Collins, juvenile department director of the Children's Service Bureau, at the forty-third annual meeting of the bureau yesterday in the Philadelphia Company building. Trustees were elected and a resolution passed indorsing the $50,000,000 welfare issue to be voted on as a constitutional amendment in the November elections.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Dost know by sight this man? Perhaps you do, perhaps you don't, and if you do perhaps you're wrong. He's a possible candidate for the presidency of the United States as convention dates draw nearer. There isn't here the slightest hint of his identity. The Sun-Telegraph is printing a series of "possible candidates," Democratic and Republican and otherwise, always withholding the name until the following day. This man's name tomorrow!

THURSDAY'S "POSSIBLE CANDIDATE" WAS SENATOR CHARLES A. CURTIS, REPUBLICAN, KANSAS.

CITY BOOKS STAY SHUT, U. S. MARKS TIME

When the Federal Grand Jury resumed its probe this morning—to which it has given seven full days and several nights—there was no indication on the part of government officials as to any further steps to gain access to transcript dockets of police magistrates.

The city legal force is standing firm in refusing to permit any general examination of those records, unless the government forces give specific cases they want to examine. In this, the city is upheld by the judges of the Federal District Court. Whether United States District Attorney John D. Meyer will seek any other process of law there were no indications.

Sidelight features yesterday of the probe were the several clashes between United States District Attorney John D. Meyer and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

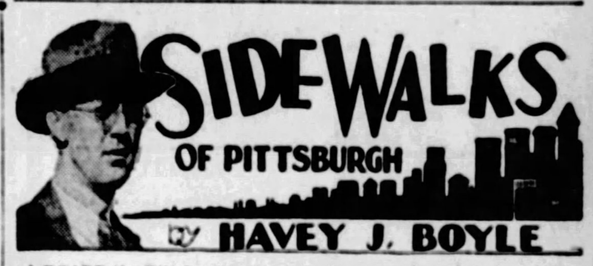
Two of the meetings between the two attorneys occurred in the courtroom of Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and others in the corridor of the Federal building. The city solicitor declared the government attorney was on a "fishing expedition" and did not appear to know what he wanted.

Attorney Meyer emphatically denied the allegations and declared the reason for wanting examination of the magistrates' transcript dockets was to corroborate testimony of witnesses who have been before the grand jury. Attorney Waldschmidt offered to submit for inspection the inspectors' docket, but the offer did not appeal to the government attorney, who insisted it was the other dockets he wanted.

The court, with Judges Schoonmaker and W. H. S. Thomson on the bench, ended controversy by stating the court subpenas issued Tuesday on Mayor Charles H. Kline, Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Superintendant Peter P. Walsh and the magistrates, to produce police records desired by the district attorney, was too general, but that the court would issue subpenas for records of any police cases in which names of police cases were wanted for presentation before the grand jury.

ASSISTANT PROSECUTOR HONORED BY ASSOCIATES

Assistant District Attorney Roy Taylor Clunk was honored at an impromptu affair yesterday in his office in the Court House when District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner presented him a radio set on behalf of the attaches of the office, newspapermen and friends. County Detective Chief George W. Murren also made a speech for the donors, who followed the gift with a dinner at Webster Hall. The assistant district attorney and Miss Amelia Otto of Lafayette avenue, North Side, were married recently.



ABOARD the Pittsburgh Special En Route to the Kentucky Derby, May 18.—Some 250 Pittsburghers left the Pennsylvania Station last evening at 6:30 o'clock on two sections of this special train with Louisville, Ky., as the destination, and with seeing the annual running of the Kentucky Derby as the main motive. In the backs of the Pittsburgher' heads, also, was a worthy idea that with some perspicacity they might pick the winner of the Derby and return home Sunday a few dollars richer.

This train will be the home of the Pittsburghers until Sunday afternoon when they return to Pittsburgh. They will sleep (a little) and eat (a great deal) on the train, and those inclined to indulge and relax in literary pleasures will find the yellow copy of the Railway Guide, the telephone directories of both Pittsburgh and Louisville, and the latest copy of the revised schedules of the Pennsylvaania Railroad, made necessary due to the change in daylight saving adoption—all these will be found in the club car on the rear of the train.

MR. LOWE, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Flocker of the railroad people have come along to see that the Derby specialists are well taken care of. The passengers on this special pay a flat rate, for which one gets a ticket to two days' racing at Churchill Downs, board and bed, light and heat, in fact everything except the money necessary to keep the wolf from the vestibule of the pari-mutuel machines, into whose eager windows tomorrow will flow many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Walking through the train, your correspondent endeavored to get a little inside information as to what horse looms a likely winner in the eyes of the Pittsburgh boys, but after stumbling over three improvised quartets (all of them being minus a good tenor) and after interrupting a card game wherein the boys were saying: "That's good," in the direction of one gentleman who seemed satisfied with the world in general, the best information your correspondent could get was something that sounded suspiciously like a platitude, to this effect: "There are so many good horses in the Derby that anyone may win."

THIS statement, of course, could not be successfully denied, but it is also true it failed to shed much light on the somewhat agitated situation. The real dope, of course, will not be released from what we race track men call the feed-box until tomorrow, at which time you may depend on your correspondent to rush to the nearest telegraph office to let you know what looks best in the Derby.

It will be recalled that Whiskery, the Whitney entry, won last year's race, and it may be interesting to know that before the race your correspondent was pretty certain that not Whiskery but Rolled Stocking would come in first. The first thing we plan to do at the track today is to look for Rolled Stocking, for, if memory serves, he was still somewhere on the track when the train left for Pittsburgh some hours after the race was over last year. We would not be at all surprised to see Rolled Stocking galloping home this morning as, judging from the way he moved away from the barrier last year, it would take him just about 365 days to make the distance.

BERTHS in some sections of this train come in very handy as a checking place for hats and coats and suitcases. Quite a few of them will be used for nothing else. This comes from the fact that a few good fellows get together, begin talking of the race, the baseball situation, and from that they drift to general conclusions that the world is made up of many good fellows, called regular guys, and about that time the train will pull into the L. & N. yards at Louisville.

SHIELDS GUILTY

POLITICIAN AGAIN CONVICTED

Daniel J. Shields, of Johnstown, business man and politician, was convicted yesterday in the Federal District Court of conspiring to violate the national prohibition law, the jury deliberating less than three hours. It was Shields' second conviction on the same indictment in the district court, as he had been granted a new trial on appeal carried to the United States Supreme Court.

His previous conviction was on February 13, 1925, together with five others, in which the jury deliberated more than 25 hours. The first jury recommended extreme mercy of the court as to Shields. After being sentenced June 13, 1925, to serve one year in the Cambria County jail, Shields appealed and carried the case to the highest court. The first trial was before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and the second before Judge R. M. Gibson.

In each prosecution the government was represented by Assistant United States District Attorney J. A. Richardson.

HOLD WOMAN IN GIRL'S DEATH

Helen Spalla, 24, of Washington street, Dravosburg, died today of blood poisoning in McKeesport Hospital, where she had been a patient since Sunday.

Anticipating the girl's death, County Detective James Reddington yesterday arrested Edna Andolina, of Talbot avenue, Braddock, and charged her before Alderman George Anderson with having performed the operation which resulted in death.

DEATH ROLL

Raymond O. Ebbert.

Raymond O. Ebbert, 40, died yesterday at the home of his uncle, Charles R. Bryson, 1211 North Sheridan avenue. He had been assistant chief clerk in the Youngstown mill of the Carnegie Steel Company when he retired from work two years ago because of ill health, after completing 18 years' service with that company. He was a Mason and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He leaves his parents.

W. K. Miller.

W. K. Miller, 69, for many years a local produce dealer, died yestery at his home, 1607 Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg. He was born in Baltimore and came to Pittsburgh 18 years ago. He entered the produce business under the name of W. K. Miller and Sons, but retired five years ago. He was a member of St. James Catholic Church of Wilkinsburg. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Riley Miller.

Mrs. Emma A. Zoller.

Mrs. Emma A. Zoller, 67, died yesterday at her home in Ohio avenue, Glassport, after a brief illness. Born on the South Side, Pittsburgh, she had lived in Glassport for 37 years. She was a member of the German Lutheran Church of the South Side, where funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, with interment in the Richland Cemetery. She leaves a son, a daughter, a brother, and a grandchild.

Joseph S. Morgan.

Joseph S. Morgan, 77, an elder of the Forty-third Street Presbyterian Church, died yesterday at his home, 124 Forty-third street. He was born at Bradys Bend, Pa., and had lived in Pittsburgh 50 years. He leaves two sons, two daughters and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Edwin B. Mahood.

Mrs. Annie W. Reed Mahood, 75, died yesterday at 3125 Middletown road. Mrs. Reed was an active member of the W. C. T. U. for more than 40 years and was a member of the United Presbyterian Church for 40 years. She leaves her husband and a sister.

CHARGES FRAUD IN LAND DEAL

Charging fraud in a Florida real estate transaction during the land boom of 1925, H. R. Baker, Dormont, has brought suit for $15,000 against W. A. Bode and H. L. Dietrich, both of Mt. Lebanon, in Common Pleas Court.

Baker charged the defendants with misrepresenting the amount they contributed to a development company in which the three were interested, and with removing its funds without his knowledge. He investigated in January, he said, and in February notified the two of his findings and demanded reimbursement, but received no satisfaction.

Stop Feet From Burning and Aching This Very Night

Soreness All Gone By Morning

You've got to get under the surface if you want to get rid of foot agony and misery—the distressing trouble is more than skin deep.

What your poor, inflamed feet are craving for is Joint-Ease—a penetrating, soothing, healing emollient that you can rub on tonight and banish the agony while you sleep.

You probably will never know what real foot comfort is till you give them a good rubbing with Joint-Ease.

Millions who have suffered untold agony from burning feet, but who can now walk miles without discomfort know this and you can get the same blessed relief this very night if you will put your faith in Joint-Ease.

Suppose you get a 60 cent tube today from any druggist in America with the distinct understanding that your feet are better—very much better in the morning—or money back.

On that basis you don't risk a penny. But gives them a good rubbing so that Joint-Ease will have a chance to get to the seat of the trouble.

YOUR SUNDAY DINNER

By PRUDENCE PENNY

MENU:
Grapefruit Cocktail.
Baked Ham.
Baked Sweet Potatoes, and Bananas.
String Beans.
Marshmallow Pudding.

REMOVE pulp from two ripe grapefruit and add half a cup of sweet sherry flavoring. Chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses.

PUT a ham on to boil in cold water to cover. Allow 20 minutes to the pound after it has started boiling. Remove from the water. Peel off the skin, cut off superfluous fat, stick cloves in the fat to form a pattern, about an inch apart. Sprinkle well with brown sugar and place in a baking pan. Pour a pint of pale ginger ale about it and bake in the oven until well glazed.

When the meat is taken out of the ham water, put the string beans on to cook in it, they should be done by the time the meat is ready and they should not need any seasoning.

PARBOIL sweet potatoes and cut in slices. Cut bananas in quarters. Lay alternate slices of banana and sweet potato in a glass baking dish. Make a syrup of one cup of brown or maple sugar and ¼ cup of water, pour about the potatoes. Dot well with butter and bake in the oven about 45 minutes.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S MENUS AND TABLE HINTS

This marshmallow pudding seems almost too good to be true, it is so simple. It is well to make it in the morning for an evening dinner, as it needs a few hours to "ripen" properly.

Beat a pint of heavy cream until stiff, add 10 marshmallows cut in quarters, 1 slice of canned pineapple cut up small, 10 maraschino cherries cut in halves, ½ cup of nut meats chopped. Mix all together and chill. Serve a heaping tablespoonful on a slice of sponge cake.

ORANGE COOKIES — One-half cup butter, 1¼ cups sugar, 1 tablespoonful Blue Ribbon malt extract (hop flavored), 2 egg yolks, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons orange juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2¼ cups flour and 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter, sugar and Blue Ribbon malt extract, hop flavored, together. Add the egg yolks, beat. Add the milk and orange juice. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together and fold into the batter. Add more flour if needed. Roll out thin and cut with a cookie cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheet in a hot oven at 375 degrees F.

WALNUT SANDWICH — Walnut and celery sandwiches: Chop diamond walnuts fine to make one-half cup, mix with one cup finely chopped celery and moisten with one-half cup mayonnaise. Spread between buttered slices of bread and serve with salads or cold meats.

BUTTER SCOTCH MARSHMALLOW PIE

2 cups milk.
1 cup brown sugar.
2 tablespoons cornstarch.
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 dozen marshmallows.

Scald milk in double boiler, mix sugar and cornstarch, add to milk, stir until thick, cover and cook 15 minutes.

Add butter and salt and pour over egg yolks slightly beaten. Return to double boiler, stir and cook one minute; remove from fire and cool.

When ready to serve add vanilla and pour into a baked pastry crust. Cut marshmallows in pieces and put into a warm place until they are soft.

Beat egg whites until stiff, beat in marshmallows and spread over the top of the pie. Bake in the oven until delicately browned.

APPLE MERINGUE PIE

Peel and core apples, chop fine. Make syrup of 1½ cups sugar and 1 pint water. Pour syrup over chopped apples. Sprinkle with nutmeg, cinnamon and ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Place in crust and bake. Top with whipped cream or meringue flavored with lemon or vanilla.

STRAWBERRY TARTS

Bake individual pastry shells. Fill with a cooled, thick custard. Cover with a layer of strawberries that have been washed, hulled and allowed to stand sprinkled with powdered sugar. Cover with sweetened whipped cream and garnish with a single whole berry.

MINCE PIE

Mincemeat as follows:
2 cups chopped lean beef.
4 cups chopped tart apples.
2 cups currants.
2 cups seeded raisins.
1 cup chopped suet or fat.
2 cups sugar.
2 teaspoons salt.
1 cup strong coffee.
1 tablespoon each of nutmeg, ground cloves, cinnamon and ginger.
1 cup meat-stock.

Boil the meat until tender, cool in the juice and chop fine. Mix the materials in the order written. Simmer slowly; bottle and seal while hot.

When making a pie, line a deep pie pan with crust, fill with mincemeat, using one quart, pour over a tablespoon of cream, a tablespoon of sugar and dot with a tablespoon of butter.

Put on the top crust and bake in a very hot oven (40 degrees F.) for half an hour.

Serve hot with pieces of American cheese.

MOCK CHERRY PIE

1 cup cranberries,
½ cup raisins,
¾ cup sugar,
1 tablespoon flour,
1 teaspoon butter.

Cut the cranberries in halves and the raisins into pieces. Mix flour and sugar together and add to the cranberries and raisins. Fill the lower crust with the mixture and dot over it with butter. Bake between crusts.

BAKED PEACHES

Peel, cut in halves and remove stones from six peaches. Place in a shallow pan, fill each cavity with 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon butter and a little lemon juice and a slight grating of nutmeg. Bake 20 minutes.

APPLE BUTTER

Wash apples, cut in quarters and core. Put on to cook with just enough water to keep from sticking. Cook until sofe as mush. Put through coarse colander, measure pulp and to each quart of pulp add 2 cups sugar, 1 pint cider and 2 sticks cinnamon, broken in small pieces and tied in a musuin bag with 1 tablespoon whole cloves. Cook slowly until thick; turn into sterilized glasses or jars and seal.

4 eggs.
4 cups milk.
½ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Beat the eggs and add the salt; pour scalded milk slowly over the eggs and stir the whole.

Brown the sugar (or melt brown sugar) stirring to prevent burning. When browned, stir in the eggs and milk mixture.

Strain through a sieve into a greased baking dish. Bake in a pan of water in a moderate oven; do not allow the water in the pan

Women who use Super Suds don't dread dishwashing. Most of them are anxious to clear off the table and get to work.

Just pour Super Suds into your dishpan. And presto! You get the quickest, hardest-working suds you ever saw.

Then in go the dishes, and Super Suds goes to work. Grease and grime simply can't resist it. And it never harms your hands.

Now you just take them out . . . put them in your dishrack . . . give a quick hot rinse and leave them to drain and dry.

Sparkles as though you'd polished it . . . and it's never touched a towel. Madam, you've never seen china glisten so!

See how these new BEADS of SOAP make dishes sparkle

Amazing new form of soap makes glassware and china gleam and glisten with far less work . . . banishes reddened dishpan hands. It's an Octagon Soap product made in tiny thin-walled "beads" . . . by new exclusive patented process.*

BRIGHT, glistening dishes : : : in much less time! China that sparkles like diamonds : : : drained dry without towels.

Hands kept dainty and soft : : : in spite of three dishwashings a day.

That's what this wonderful new kind of soap offers you. A new, quick way to wash dishes without bothering with all that tedious drudgery.

It is soap made in tiny hollow thin-walled "beads" : : : The result of a marvelous manufacturing discovery.

With a swish and a whisk Super Suds gets your china and glassware free of all greasy grime : : : just a quick hot rinse—your dishes are done! Without a trace of soap film. Just leave them in your dishrack. No towels necessary : : : they dry by themselves.

First bar soap—then chips—now Super Suds

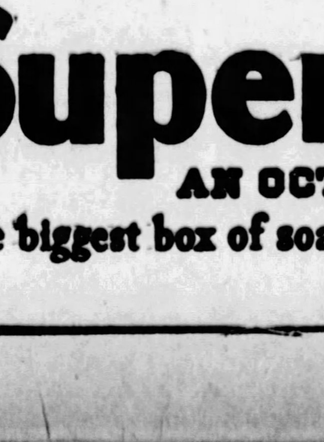
Years ago women had to use bar soap—but that was unsatisfactory. How hard it was to get a soapy solution : : : and to rinse away those clinging soap particles.

Next came chips. Many women changed to this form of soap because it could be stirred into a cleansing solution. But clothes and dishes had to be rinsed too much in order to get rid of the undissolved soap.

Now comes Super Suds, and women are changing to it by thousands in preference to all other forms of soap.

Super Suds is not a chip : : : not a powder : : : but a remarkable new form of soap in tiny hollow beads so thin they burst into suds the minute they touch water.

Four times as thin as chips, Super Suds is the thinnest soap made.



Biggest box of soap on the market for 10c. Dissolves like a flash . . . and works wonders in your dishpan. By all means, try a box in your own kitchen, right away.

In this new soap women have discovered two distinct advantages:

First, Super Suds is so thin it dissolves instantly : : : saves time and trouble. Second, Super Suds dissolves completely : : : no undissolved soap to leave spots on clothes or film on dishes.

Women like Super Suds because it does the work faster and better than any other form of soap.

Washes clothes whiter . . . with far less work

Super Suds works wonders on washday, too! You never saw a soap that gets clothes clean so quickly and easily. The rich soapy solution soaks away all grease and grime. No tedious rubbing and scrubbing : : : your clothes are out on the line in half the usual time. And it's the biggest 10-cent box of soap on the market!

An Octagon Soap Product. Every box of Super Suds carries a coupon. Save them for valuable premiums.

* A PATENTED PROCESS. Super Suds is made by a process covered by exclusive patents. (Products, process and apparatus covered by U. S. Letters Patent Nos. 1,051,441; 1,090,740; 1,600,503; 1,634,640; and Reissue No. 16,749.)

"Just look how that china sparkles! There's no sign of soap film there. And all I did was rinse them off and let them drain and dry.

"... and those hit-est, cleanest clothes you ever saw . . . that's what you get with Super Suds."

SOLOISTS AND ENSEMBLES TO BROADCAST

VOCAL and instrumental soloists and ensembles will present the Wrigley Review, which will be broadcast through stations associated with the Blue Network, including KDKA, at 9 o'clock tonight. A male quartet will sing "Mary and Me," "Rolling Around in Roses" and "Mother Goose Parade." A tenor soloist will sing "Molly," and a soprano soloist will sing "Romance," from "The Desert Song." A comedy duo will be heard in "Clementine from New Orleans" and "In My Little Irish Home, Sweet Home." A novelty trio will present "The Engineer's Dream," an unpublished song, and "'Way Out West in Kansas." There will also be saxophone, xylophone, banjo and accordion solos and selections by the orchestra.

A number of interesting network features are to be heard over WCAE. The Cities Service Cavaliers will include "I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls," from "The Bohemian Girl," on their program which will be on the air at 8 o'clock as part of the Cities Service concert. Orchestral selections will be from Victor Herbert's "The Viceroy" and Erno Rappe's "Marche Mignon." The old-time favorite, "The Old Oaken Bucket," also will be played.

Several interesting novelties mark the Palmolive hour to be broadcast at 10 o'clock. Among them, Director Gustave Haenschen announces the singing of "My Angel" by the ensemble. This selection is from the theme of the recent release of the motion picture, "The Street Angel." There will also be a saxophone quartet playing characteristic sketches especially composed for this hour. Another feature will be an orchestra accompaniment for MacDowell's "Witches' Dance." In singing Eckart's "Swiss Echo," Olive Palmer will have an exceptional opportunity of displaying her coloratura voice to excellent advantage. She also will be heard in "Give Me One Hour" in which Paul Oliver will join. The popular Palmolive Revelers will sing the new song of "Crazy Rhythm" from "Here's Howe," and the program will conclude with a special arrangement of Yeomans' "Wild Flower" for orchestra and ensemble.

Jimmy Hussey, vaudeville and revue comedian, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker of the La Palina smoker, which will be heard over WJAS and other Columbia Chain stations at 10 o'clock.

MALONE LAYS CORNERSTONE OF NEW CLUB

Confidence in Pittsburgh's accomplishments in the future was voiced by James F. Malone, president of City Council in his address last night before members of the Keystone Athletic Club at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel. The banquet marked the jubilee celebration held in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new club house in Third avenue at Wood street.

Preceding the banquet Mr. Malone had laid the cornerstone at the clubhouse where more than 500 persons had gathered late in the afternoon. Mr. Malone was the principal speaker at the banquet. William G. Clyde, president of the Carnegie Steel Company also spoke. Mr. Clyde's address was on "The Athletic Club's Place in Business Life."

General topics relating to an athletic club were discussed by David I. Cahill, general counsel for the West Penn Power Company, and a humorous address was given by Senator Ford. Taylor Allderdice was toastmaster.

The new clubhouse which is to cost $2,000,000, is to be completed this year. It will be a 21-story building.

to boil for this will toughen the custard. The custard will brown and set when done.

Serve cold with cream.

Individual custards may be made in cups, standing them in the water.

BAVARIAN CREAM

2 teaspoons gelatine.
¼ cup water.
⅔ cup sugar.
5 eggs.
1 tablespoon vanilla.
Pinch of salt.

Dissolve the gelatine in hot water.

Beat the yolks of the eggs, add sugar, vanilla and pinch of salt. Turn into a double boiler and cook until the mixture thickens. Add the dissolved gelatine and remove from the flame to cool. Beat the whites stiff and add to the mixture. Turn into a mold, chill and set on ice.

Serve with whipped cream. Any flavoring may be substituted for the vanilla.

RHUBARB JAM

To 6 pounds of rhubarb add 6 pounds of sugar and 6 large lemons. Cut the rhubarb in small pieces. Slice the lemons very thin. Put the fruit in a large bowl and cover with sugar, letting it stand for 24 hours. Boil for about ⅝ of an hour. Do not stir more than is necessary, as its great beauty is in not being all broken up. Put in glasses and cover with paper.

PLUM JAM

Slice, pit and crush well about 4 level cups of fruit, add ½ cup water, cover kettle and simmer ¼ hour. Add 4 pounds of sugar, mix well, bring to a boil, boil hard 5 minutes, skim, pour and seal hot.

(Makes Four Glasses.)

Six large sweet peppers, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 cup vinegar, 1½ cups sugar.

Remove seeds from the peppers. Chop or grind medium fine. Mix with salt and stand four hours. Drain. Add vinegar and sugar and boil down to jam consistency. Store in glasses and seal with paraffin.

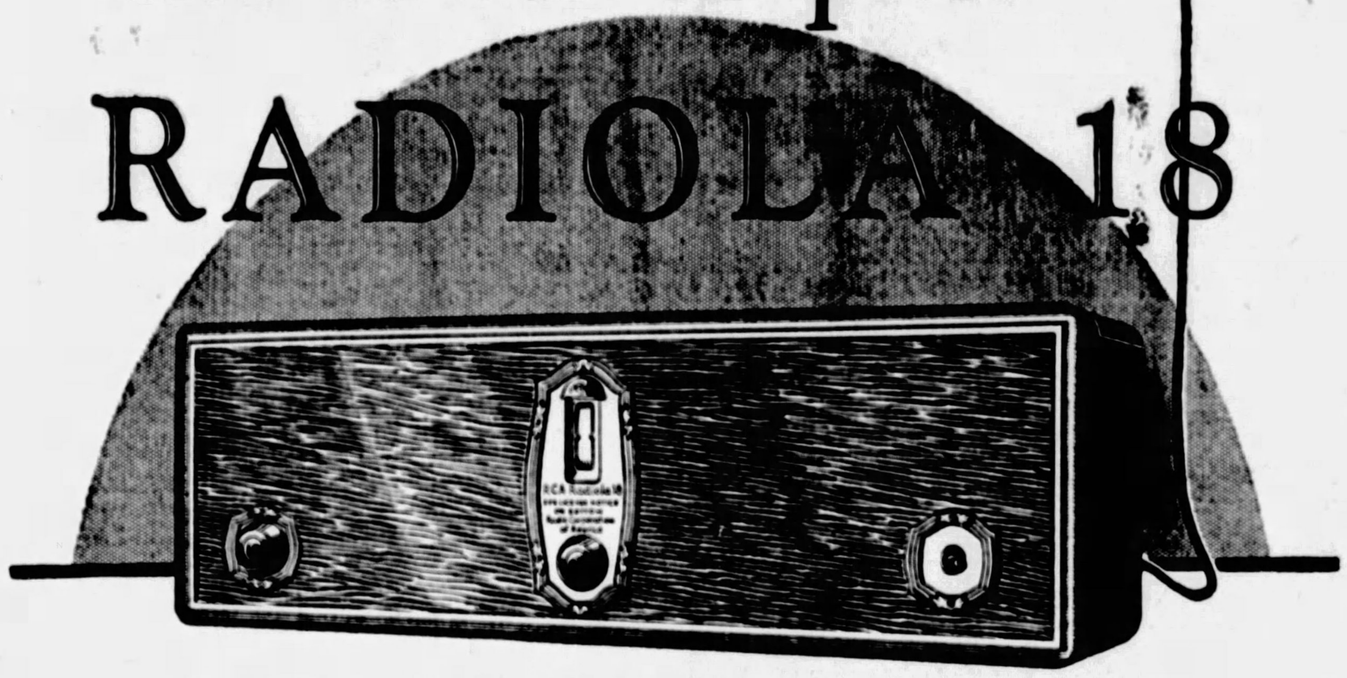
Now the famous RCA "Wonder Box" made even more wonderful and lower in price

RADIOLA 18



RCA RADIOLA 18—In solid mahogany cabinet, walnut finish. Operates from electric light circuit—110 volt, 60 cycle, A. C. Uses high-power Radiotron rectifier and 6 alternating current Radiotrons. Special RCA electrically-lighted tuning dial. $115 (less Radiotrons)

The most popular of all Radiolas—the simplified alternating current receiver—improved and beautified—and lower in price.

Everything that the sensational Radiola 17 had to establish its overnight nation-wide popularity is in the new Radiola 18.

But the unprecedented public demand for this wonderful instrument has made possible its manufacture in larger quantities at a lower cost. And along with this the engineers have improved the selectivity of the circuit—just a bit finer tuning.

The fine mahogany of the "17" was one of its marks of superiority. The new cabinet, in its walnut finish, is a still handsomer piece of furniture.

Radiola 18 is another achievement of the Research Laboratories of RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse—pioneers and leaders of the radio industry.

Now, at a very moderate cost, you can replace your old radio set with a simplified and perfected Radiola that operates from your electric light circuit.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

While their schooner is becalmed off Singapore, Capt. Scarface Sweeney and Marlow, the mate, discover a bit of wreckage floating some distance from their ship. Investigation reveals that the "speck" is a fragile bark containing the body of a dead man, Capt. Scarface recognizes the body as that of Tom Kingsley, an old friend and daring adventurer. Mute evidence on the corpse hints at foul play. Two small but very handsomely carved ivory idols are found in the victim's pocket. Scarface believes that these are no ordinary trinkets, and surmises that they have played a grim part in the mysterious tragedy. He sends them to Tom's brother with a letter explaining a terrible warfare.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"YOU and I know that Uncle Tom must have got out through the secret passage," he said abruptly; "but this other point Crowley mentions about Hsi Yan's body being left behind when it was bound to establish the identity of the junk that put in at Kalawa that night, I don't understand any more than he does.

"As a matter of fact, there's a lot about the whole business that doesn't seem to fit together. Hsi Yan was obviously a very sick man. Apparently, he was even dying when he was carried ashore. If he went to Kalawa that night with the premeditated intention of attacking the house, why did he go ashore at all in his condition, and why was he there in the house with Uncle Tom for an hour before the attack began? That's not the way that riffraff usually acts. They would ordinarily have waited until it was dark enough so they wouldn't be seen, and late enough so that everybody would have been asleep, and then made a surprise attack. I'm not so sure that Hsi Yan, in a personal sense, had anything to do with it. On the contrary, I'm rather inclined to thing it might all have come about in quite a different way. Like this, for instance: Hsi Yan knew he was a very sick man, and he landed at the first available place he found, which, merely through chance, happened to be Uncle Tom's plantation at Kalawa. He died within an hour. The crew, or some of them, returning, found their leader dead. They are an intensely fanatical lot, and steeped in the grossest ignorance. They put Hsi Yan's death down to Uncle Tom, say, by reason of the magic practiced by all 'Foreign Devils' upon those who are sick—and proceeded to take their revenge. Why not?"

Old Robert Kingsley began to laugh—not pleasantly; raucously, deep in his throat.

"That wouldn't account for 'em leaving the body of Hsi Yan behind, would it?" he demanded.

"In the sense that the consequences, which they probably thought they could evade anyhow, were secondary to flinging a sort of fanatical challenge at all of us, it would," Bob Kingsley replied soberly. "And it would certainly account for everything else."

"And so you think that maybe Hsi wasn't at the bottom of it, then?" Robert Kingsley's eyes had narrowed, and his lips were tight again as he stared at his son.

Bob Kingsley nodded.

"Not necessarily," he answered. "The story doesn't seem to—"

Robert Kingsley's fists were clenched again.

"The story be damned!" he cried out fiercely. "'Twas Hsi Yan, the rat, that did it—as he swore he would by all his stinking ancestors! D'ye hear that, my lad? 'Twas what he swore he'd do, sooner or later! But he waited so long that I'd nigh forgotten it, as I dare say Tom had, too. And dead though Hsi Yan may be, I hope to God he burns where he belongs, but I ain't so sure he will, for he had a cunning that would trick Satan himself!"

Bob Kingsley leaned tensely forward in his chair.

"I never heard of this before," he said in a puzzled way.

"'Twas known only to Tom and Scarface Sweeney and me," said Robert Kingsley gruffly; "and, being that it happened near 55 years ago and 10 years before you were born, 'tain't strange you haven't heard of it, seeing it wasn't the kind of thing to talk about, and that we kept our mouths shut. And long before you were a kid old enough to understand anything, aye, and even long before you were born, we quit talking about it even amongst ourselves, and kind of wiped it off the slate and put Hsi Yan's threat down as a bit of bluff. We were fools on that count, the three of us—and Tom's paid for it."

"Tell me about it," said Bob Kingsley gravely.

"Aye, I'll tell you!" said the old man grimly. "I can't tell you why his body was left there, but I'll tell you why Hsi Yan had himself carried ashore that night. It was so's he could see Tom being murdered, and feast, and gloat on it—just as he swore he would in that message he wrote Tom 35 years ago. It was handed to Tom one night over a bar in Singapore where we used to hang out a bit. A Chinaman had left it there for him—that's all any one knew about it. It was in a sealed envelope; and when Tom tore the envelope open he found a sheet of paper with just this one line written on it: 'Some day I, Hsi Yan, will come and watch you die.' That was all there was—nothing else."

Robert Kingsley was silent for a moment, staring straight ahead of him with hard, unseeing eyes.

"Get me a drink!" he said suddenly. "It ain't good for the rheumatism, but it's good for what's worse tonight than all the bloody twisted joints that ever cursed a man. Give me a gin and tonic, son—a stiff one!"

Without a word, Bob Kingsley got up and crossed the room to where a large flat-top desk stood in the corner near the French windows. The drawers on one side had been metamorphosed into a sort of cupboard, and, opening this, he procured from within the necessary ingredients, mixed the drink, and returned with it to his father.

The old man emptied the glass almost at a single gulp.

"Listen, lad!" he said. "Listen, and I'll tell you. But so's you'll understand, I'll begin with a fact or two about Hsi Yan that we didn't find out till afterwards ourselves. I don't know whereabouts in China he was born, nobody knew—and it's likely enough he didn't know himself. The missionaries pulled him out of some rotten dive or other in Canton when he was about 10 or 11, and started in to educate him. He didn't take to the gospel atmosphere because I guess he was born without the makings of anything but a first-class criminal in him; but he was sharper than a two-edged knife, and even at that age he seemed to figure out that a bit of education was what was going to pull the strings that would put him in a class all by himself. He got more than a bit of education. They said he was little short of a prodigy of learning, and they patted themselves on the back for the waif they'd rescued from the gutters. At 18 he had outdistanced his teachers in all the Latin and mathematics they had to offer, and if you could have spoken to him in the dark somewhere you couldn't see the Mongol face of the little devil, you'd have thought you were talking to a polished Englishman.

"Then he suddenly disappeared. Then stories began to circulate about flimflam games practiced on wealthy visiting Europeans by a high-caste Chinaman who had been educated in England. It worked for a while and netted a good few thousand pounds, until they began to tie up Hsi Yan with the 'Educated Chinaman'—and then Hsi Yan vanished. What he did between that time and when, as near as I can figure, he was about twenty-five, I don't know—that he put it in at devilry that was never unmasked, is certain, but it doesn't matter. From what I've said, I guess you can form a pretty fair idea of this Son of the Pit that I'm telling you about."

"Yes," said Bob Kingsley, laconically.

CHAPTER VII.

THE old man picked up one of the two ivory images, stared at it for a moment, more as though it were serving to concentrate his thoughts than with any particular interest in the object itself—and abruptly pushed it back amongst the other articles on the table. There was a deeper rasp in his voice when he spoke again.

"That brings us to the night your Uncle Tom, and Scarface Sweeney and I first saw Hsi Yan," he said. "The three of us had only been out in the East a few months then, and we had pooled what little money we had. It wasn't much, but it was enough to make the first payment on a little vessel that wasn't more'n a good-sized sloop, and we had started out to do some trading in her. Anything, you understand, lad—and anywhere. Fly-by-nights, we were. The three of us could just manage her, but it was hard work for we used to make pretty long trips. Thirty-five years ago wasn't like it is today, and anything that could carry a bit of cargo didn't need to be vile—but with our cockle-shell we couldn't be choosers as to where we went or what we carried. So you understand how we happened to be off the Chinese coast and a long way from our base at Singapore when this happened."

Bob Kingsley nodded silently.

"We thought we were hitting the high-spot of our luck at the time," the old man went on with a sudden, mirthless laugh, "for we were full of rice—the best paying cargo we'd ever had. I had been laid up in my bunk for four or five days with fever, but that hadn't mattered much, for the weather had been fine, and Tom and Scarface had been able to carry on all right. And then one afternoon the weather took a turn and began to look ugly. Tom was captain, we having elected him because he was the oldest and because he had had more to put into the sloop than Scarface and I, and—you'll see in a moment why I'm particular to mention this—he was already known as Captain Tom in Singapore and wherever else we traded. Well, that afternoon, Tom decided, as I was still a little wobbly on my feet and not yet fit enough to do my share in a gale that would need the best from every one of the three of us, that he would nose along the shore before the storm struck us, and take shelter in the first bay we found where we could anchor and ride out the blow when it came. And that's what he did.

"We found more than a bay—we found as fine a natural harbor as there was anywhere on the coast, I guess. There was a headland on one side, and we anchored in water that was as smooth as a millpond. It was a desolate spot though, for there wasn't a sign of habitation or life ashore. This was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Outside, it was settling down black and nasty, and promising more of it. By 8 o'clock a big sea was running, and lightning, worse than I'd ever seen it, was streaking across the sky and making daylight of the blackness every few minutes. The three of us, snug in smooth water, were on deck watching the scene—there wasn't a drop of rain. And then in the flashes we saw a junk laboring in the heavy sea. She seemed to know the coast though, for she was heading deliberately in for the little harbor that we'd struck by chance. She made it all right, and, lumbering in around the headland, anchored a couple of hundred yards to windward of us."

"My dear, I'm so MAD I could SNIFFle SOUP, no less! I mean I'm HONestly all iRATE and IRrigated because ARab CALLED on me the other night, my dear, and all we DID was to sit HEAVily in the old fam'ily HAMmock, my dear, amid YAWNing CHASMS of Silence—spare room and BORED—you know the type! ACtually, my dear, I could SLAY him with a blade of GRASS at this point because he's not the SLIGHTest bit INT'resting any more, my dear, because this MAD infatuAtion he's conceived for this odd FEmale who's inTRIGUED him so tremendously, my dear, has him WHIPPED down to a NUB. I mean he used to be the LIFE of the PARty and NOW he's the death of the conversAtion, my dear, because no matter WHAT you try and disCUSS he ALways reverts to the SUBject of this POISonous GIRL, my dear, and I mean it SIMply asSASsinates me because I mean I'd feel enTIREly DIFferent about it if she was the TYPE of a girl who was WORTHy of him and had high iDEALS and a fine CHARacter and all, sort of, but I think she's the type of unSCRUPlous female that has a TERribly bad INfluence on ANY youth, my dear, because I mean you can TELL from the way Arab ACTS she's got the sort of HOLD over him that girls have who dePEND on their PHYSical LURES to intrigue MEN, which I HONestly think is a simply VILE iDEAR, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" — By Adele Garrison

Phil Veritzen Wants Madge and Lillian to Aid His Discouragement of Eleanor

MY stately employer looked at Lillian with a facial expression in which irritation struggled with amusement. I know that there was probably no other person in the world who dared to treat him so flippantly. But Lillian has no reverence for gods or men in her system, a truth which Philip Veritzen well knows. So he choked back the annoyance which he would have vented upon anyone else and opened his lips to tell us his errand as she had commanded, but she interrupted him ruthlessly.

"It won't do, old lambie-bird," she mocked. "You'll have to transfer the saddle to a lower mount. I'm not in the mood for airs today."

He knew when he was vanquished. I gave him credit for that as he threw back his head in a genuinely spontaneous burst of laughter.

"That's better," Lillian pronounced. "All right, we're ready. Shoot the works."

"I haven't so much ammunition with me," Mr. Veritzen returned. "There is only one thing I wish to ask—you and Mrs. Graham."

"You mean Mrs. Graham and me," Lillian commented with a grin. "But I told you I was humble."

"You are—incorrigible," my employer said.

"You mean—'devilish,'" Lillian countered with dancing eyes. "But I promise not to interrupt again."

Mr. Veritzen was oddly hesitant, however. In a man less poised his manner would have been distinct embarrassment, but he managed to carry his confusion off with banners.

"It is this," he said. "Miss Lincoln is extremely anxious to put herself under my tutelage for the stage. Of course I cannot stay out here indefinitely, and there are very cogent reasons why I cannot permit her to come to my office in New York as Mary Harrison does. Besides, I do not intend to accept her as a dramatic protege, but for a while I wish her to think that the scheme is utterly impossible—for her."

He paused as if to determine what to say next and across his bent head I shot a widdily inquiring glance at Lillian. What on earth did the great producer mean? He was noted for his absolute finality of negative dictum concerning the feminine aspirants for stage careers who employed every device possible for enlisting his interest. Once in a blue moon some fortunate and rarely gifted girl like Mary Harrison succeeded where hundreds failed. But never was he known to encourage a girl when he did not mean to make a star of her. Yet if I were not mistaken his attitude toward Eleanor Lincoln's wishes was a distinctly placating one. He did not wish to offend her, and on the other hand he did not mean to grant her request.

Lillian shook her head with a disclaiming gesture and, as Mr. Veritzen showed no disposition to go on, dropped a flippant comment into the conversational pool.

"In other words, you want to rid the girl along until she forgets her ambition," she said. "What's the matter? Isn't she there with the well-known dramatic fire? I should think she'd have any amount of it. And you couldn't find anything more stunning to look at it in two continents."

"I am perfectly aware of that fact," Mr. Veritzen said stiffly. "And she has unmistakable talent. She should make a decided success upon the stage. But I cannot permit her to do it."

Doctors advise Liver for weak, pale, thin-blooded men

In New York and other big cities progressive physicians are prescribing a diet of beef liver.

Liver, they discovered, contains mysterious substances and vitamines which create rich strong blood and strengthen the vital forces of men and women.

In order to get this potent substance in a greatly condensed form one of New York's famous Laboratories is putting up a liquid elixir known to Pharmacists as Hemo-Liver.

For this preparation the vital elements are extracted by a new process from fresh beef liver so that the blood making, vigor and health creating substance is obtained.

Hemo-Liver is a pleasant to take scientific preparation which all thin-blooded people and especially those who need more vigor and vitality are urged to try. As a spring tonic it surpasses the old-time remedies.

Hemo-Liver is now dispensed by all druggists who keep abreast of the times with the distinct understanding that if one bottle does not help—wonderfully—your money will be returned.

Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anaemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 13 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. It strengthens the nerves, increases the red blood cells, promotes health and rebuilds weakened vital forces and energy so quickly that often physicians are astonished. Get a bottle of Hemo-Liver today at May Drug Company stores. Hemo-Liver Products Co., New York City.

How One Woman Ended Eczema

Severe Case All Over Her Body, But Now She Is Better

Here is just another case of how Peterson's Ointment conquers the terrible itching of eczema after other treatments had failed.

The same kind of a story comes from all over the country. After others fail Peterson's Ointment succeeds.

This letter from Charlotte Brandeau, of Swansea, Mass., is worth reading: "I used Peterson's Ointment and soap for a very severe case of eczema. It was all over my body. I have tried many things to cure it, but not one of them gave me a cure. I saw the ad of Peterson's Ointment in the Fall River Herald and now I am better. I do not go without your ointment and soap in the house, and recommend it very much."

Get a box of Peterson's Ointment at any drug store in America for 35 cents—it won't disappoint you.

Reduce

Where You Want to Reduce

No Medicines, No Starvation Diet—No Dangerous Exercise

Discovery of infiltrating oxygen reducing cream—quickly and safely banishes double chins, and slenderizes big hips, fat waists, legs and arms.

ANY woman or man who wants to take off fat on any part of the body can now do so quickly and safely. There is no question about this. It is a proved fact.

The discovery of oxygen reducing cream was purely accidental. A great New York doctor asked three of the ablest Colloidal Chemists in New York to try to find a remedy for chronic skin troubles. (Colloidal chemistry is one of the latest developments in chemical science.) These Colloidal Chemists prepared an infiltrating cream which would liberate oxygen when absorbed through the skin. They discovered that wherever the part to be treated was fat, this excess weight quickly disappeared. Reducing tests were then made on fat people with amazing results. One woman reduced her neck one inch in a few treatments; another two inches. Still another took off twenty-nine pounds in six weeks. Equally successful results were had in reducing fat waists, arms, legs and big hips. So safe is Viderma, as it is called, that it has the approval of chemists and physicians who oppose all other methods of quick fat reduction.

Viderma is a golden brown cream, which is rubbed rapidly on the skin. You see the cream disappear at once, leaving a clean white foam on the skin surface. The penetrating cream carries oxygen to the fatty tissues and in a few days' time, this oxygen gradually melts away the excess fat. You get definite results from a single jar, which contains an 18 days' supply.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Clings to Old-Fashioned Ideas as Dates in June Are Selected for Weddings

FOR a while it looked as though the younger generation was getting so iconoclastic as to ignore June's supremacy as the month of brides. But when it comes to getting married, folks still seem to be fairly old-fashioned, whether they belong to the younger set or not.

June dates are already being named, and June brides-to-be are finding time in between golf and motoring and entertainments for the brides of fair May to make plans for their own weddings.

Among the first of June weddings will be that of one of the most attractive girls of the younger set—Eleanor Vail Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lewis, of Devon road. Eleanor on June 5, you know, will wed Dr. George Nance Foster, of Pittsburgh, son of the William M. Fosters, of Toronto, Canada.

The marriage will take place on that afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church.

Eleanor has asked Mrs. Harr Ranney, of New York, the former Edith Meyer, of South Orange, N. J., to be her matron of honor. Betty Tinker, Dorothy Taylor, Marjorie Bartholomew and Mrs. Harry O. Brahm will be the bridesmaids. Mrs. Brahm is the former Evelyn Main, you know.

Dr. Warren Stoddard, of Rochester, N. Y., will be Dr. Foster's best man, and William T. Todd, Jr., Dr. William Weader, Dr. John J. Hay, Capt. Frederick MacMahon, Carl Conway and Harry O. Brahm will be ushers.

Eleanor went to the Bennett School, and later studied drama at the College of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology. Dr. Foster is a University of Toronto man.

And another early June wedding, don't you remember, will be that of Elizabeth Cook McMillen, daughter of the Frederick John McMillens of Sewickley, and John Hurford Eyster, son of the N. G. Eysters. The date is June 2.

This June marriage will be a home wedding, I hear, for the immediate families. The ceremony will take place at 7:30 o'clock that evening with the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell as the officiant.

Elizabeth has asked Mrs. D. O. Head, Jr., of Kenosha, Wis., to be her matron of honor and only attendant. Mrs. Head, you know, is the former Frances Wirth, of the Sewickley Valley.

And Frederick Humphreys, of Greensburg, will be best man.

Following the wedding will be a reception in the home for members of the family and friends.

A number of entertainments will be given, of course, for Elizabeth during the weeks remaining before her marriage. Miss Grace Ellen Tracy will give a bridge luncheon for her on Wednesday, and on Saturday, May 26, Mrs. Albert Markland, of Wallingford street, will give a luncheon for her, to be followed by a theater party. The rehearsal dinner will be given on Friday evening June 1, by Mrs. Head, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Andrew Wirth, of Orchard Lane, Edgeworth.

Many folks who have been abroad all season are now returning home, many for the June weddings and others for school reunions.

Mary Rowland Clark, daughter of James Bly Clarke, of Beechwood boulevard, has just returned from Europe. She will not remain in the city long, though, for on May 24 she will leave to attend the National Park School reunion, I hear.

I understand that the Henry Hornbostels are going to give a reception Sunday night in their home in the Schenley Apartments for their son and his new wife, Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Hornbostel. The latter was Ruth Ungaro before her marriage, and her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ungaro, of Wheeling, are coming on for the reception. The Lloyd Hornbostels, of Beloit, Wis., also will be here for the party, and also Mrs. Henry Hornbostel's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Armitage, of New York.

After the guests have met the young Mr. Hornbostel and his bride there will be a musical program, given by Patrick Dorrington, Ernest Wright and Edward Koontz.

The Hornbostels, senior and junior, are all planning to go abroad in July, I hear. They will sail on the Patria and will spend some time in Italy.

Mrs. Nathan G. Eyster and her sisters, Mrs. Annie H. Purviance and Mrs. J. Harvey Wattles, will entertain at tea in Mrs. Eyster's home in South Euclid avenue, Bellevue, Tuesday afternoon, May 29, in honor of Elizabeth Cook McMillen, of Sewickley, whose marriage to John Hurford Eyster will be solemnized June 2.

Miss Ruth E. Over, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Over, of Braddock avenue, has chosen Tuesday, June 12, as the date for her marriage to Samuel Philson, of Uniontown.

A musicale will be given tonight in the Elroy Avenue School, Brentwood, for the benefit of the school picnic fund. Mrs. Luella Opal Beatty is in charge and the program will be given by a chorus directed by Charles H. Smith; the Zion Lutheran orchestra, directed by the Rev. George E. Speidel, and others.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta will be entertained tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. Harry Mast in Morningside road.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Clara A. McGreevy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McGreevy, of the East End, and Robert E. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. O'Brien, of Canonsburg, which was solemnized Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church by the Rev. J. Raymond Mulvihill. The bride wore white satin with a veil of princess lace, and she carried calla lilies and lilies of the valley. Miss Katherine Burns, as maid of honor, appeared in yellow georgette with a picture hat to match, and carried yellow roses and spring flowers. Miss Esther McGreevy was bridesmaid, wearing green georgette with hat to match, and carrying pink roses and spring flowers. F. R. Foley, of Canonsburg, was best man and the ushers were Dr. G. Richtenwald and M. White. A breakfast at the Rittenhouse followed the ceremony. After an eastern motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will be at home in Canonsburg.

The music and public speaking departments of the Pennsylvania College for Women will give a recital tonight in the assembly room of the school. The program will be given by Miss Portia Geraldine Webster, reader, and Miss Lois Whitesell, pianist.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy J. Clapper, daughter of Mrs. John S. Clapper, of Church street, Swissvale, and Homer L. Ehrenfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Ehrenfeld, of Peebles street, Wilkinsburg, was solemnized Thursday morning in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, by the Rev. Dr. William Porkess. Mrs. Paul W. Huhn, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Mr. Huhn was best man. After a western trip Mr. and Mrs. Ehrenfeld will be at home in Church street.

"Variety Night" will be held tonight at the Shannopin Country Club to open the spring and summer season. There will be a musical program and motion pictures as well as dancing. The entertainment committee, of which Elmer B. Thomas is chairman, will be in charge.

The Persia Ladies' Social Club will hold its third annual dance and card party next Wednesday night in Palm Garden. Mrs. Etta Wylie is president and Mrs. Clara Jacobs is general chairman for the dance.

The Torro Club will hold its fourth anniversary dance tonight in the South Hills Country Club. Those in charge are William Gnann, Earl Eckerson, John McRorie, Irwin I. Tryon and James G. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Beech will be chaperons.

WOMEN AT ASPINWALL HOLD UNUSUAL PROGRAM

An especially interesting afternoon was spent yesterday by members of the Woman's Club of Aspinwall, the occasion being the monthly business meeting and program. At the business session, over which Mrs. C. A. Wanamaker presided, it was announced that permission had been extended to the Aspinwall Girl Scouts to hold their meetings in the clubhouse next season.

Mrs. John Konstanzer, chairman of the club's school committee, had much to say of interest to the women concerning the work of Aspinwall school students, seven of whom had won medals and ribbons in the recent interscholastic contest at the University of Pittsburgh. Paul Kromer, a seventh-grade pupil, had been awarded a medal for naming a tree in Washington Park, and J. B. Henry, Jr., won county honors in English in the Pitt contest. The senior class will hold its annual dinner-dance in the clubhouse under auspices of the school committee the night of June 12.

The program, which was arranged by Mrs. J. B. Henry, was a miscellaneous one and participated in by every department. Songs by the choral were the music department's contribution, the drama department giving a one-act play, "Who's a Coward?" with Mrs. H. S. Marsh, Mrs. T. S. Dickey and Mrs. C. E. Gillespie in the cast. Appropriate soprano solos by Mrs. W. J. Munsell, in Colonial costume, and accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Henry, came from the evening department, the literature and arts department furnishing, through Mrs. Howard Meyer, a review of "The Microbe Hunters." Two high school students, Miss Mabel Steele and Homer Wickline, appeared for the civic department, the former singing and the latter playing her accompaniments. A cooking school review was given by Mrs. J. C. Cameron and the home economics department also offered the menus and recipes used by it for its monthly luncheons during the year, Mrs. H. C. Parker providing this feature. Mrs. W. D. Snyder was hostess chairman for the day.

Tonight, under Mrs. W. H. Reuter's chairmanship, a bridge benefit will be given in the clubhouse to pay for the talking machine which has been purchased for the Saturday night dances. These dances are attended by the young people of the borough and have proven one of the most constructive civic movements ever undertaken by the club.

Spring in Spain, Italy, England and America is to be the theme expressed in the annual kirmess, which the recreation department, Congress of Clubs, will present in the Alvin Theater the night of Friday, June 8. How I Bleach My Skin White

"The camera is a merciless eye," says Miss Genevieve Barr, noted New York model, "and we girls who have to face it have a method of our own for keeping our skins white and flawless.

"We buy no ready-made preparations, but get three ounces of Orchard White at the drug store and add to this the juice of two lemons. This makes several weeks' supply of a very fine skin bleach which softens, refines and whitens the skin without any harm or irritation. And because you use it while it is still fresh, it is twice as effective as any ready-to-use preparation. I find it a dandy bleach for tan and freckles, too. Every girl who takes up posing in New York sooner or later learns this studio secret. The bleach costs only a few cents to make."

Big Change In Face Powders

A good face powder today must do more than merely remove shine—it should stay on longer, prevent the pores from getting larger, spread smoothly, and leave a peachy look on the complexion. A new French Process Powder called MELLO-GLO does these things. MELLO-GLO is truly wonderful. You will simply love it.

THIRTY-FIVE FRIDAY, MAY 18, 1928

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Sande May Be Kicking Away Small Fortune In Declining to Ride in Derby—Babe Ruth Not Sure That the Ball Is Any Livelier Than In Old Days.

DOES Earl Sande's failure to accept Stuyvesant Peabody's offer to ride the colt Martie Flynn in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs tomorrow mean that Sande really intends to remain in New York for a mount on that day?

Earl Sande

Or does it mean that the foxy king of the saddle is awaiting until the last minute to pick his horse for the Derby, as he did in 1925, when he selected Flying Ebony at the final moment, and rode that entry to victory?

Many racing fans are still shaking their heads over this pair of questions today in trying to get their final dope shaped on the American turf classic to be run tomorrow. Some of them are looking for a shift at the eleventh hour that will bring Sande into the Derby in spite of all the reports that he will ride in New York.

SANDE may be kicking a small fortune away by declining to accept Peabody's proposition that he accept the leg up on Martie Flynn. It would be a very profitable engagement if carried out successfully.

For Peabody not only offered Sande $5,000 merely to ride Martie Flynn in the Derby, but he added that in the event his colt won Earl would be privileged to name his own fee, up to half of the value of the stakes, which will be close to $60,000.

THOUGH rivals on the turf, Peabody and John D. Hertz, also a Chicagoan, who owns Reigh Count, the winter favorite, are close friends. Hertz's great filly, Anita Peabody, winner of the Futurity last year, is named for a daughter of Peabody. Yet either would spend a fortune to beat the other's horse and win the blue ribbon of Uncle Sam's racing calendar tomorrow.

WHEN Babe Ruth drew a pitch to his liking yesterday and spanked it for his twelfth home run of the season to date, he placed himself 11 days ahead of his schedule. Last year he made his twelfth round tripper off Hollis Thurston on May 28.

Babe Ruth

The Bambino has until May 29 to keep up with his 1927 schedule by making his thirteenth homer.

A lively discussion is reported by Frank Graham as having taken place among the Yankees as to whether any batter would ever hit a ball into the left-field bleacher at Yankee Stadium.

"SURE," was Ruth's verdict. "Some day some one will hit one into the center field bleachers and over the back fence of the rightfield bleachers, too. I hit one 559 feet down in Tampa, Fla., once when I was with the Redsox and playing an exhibition game against the Giants. Poor Ross Young chased that one for 15 minutes. Afterward he showed the newspaper men where it lighted and they got out a tape line and measured it. They would have come pretty near to hitting that back fence out there."

"AND that was before they had the lively ball," said Arthur Fletcher, coach of the Yankees.

"Aw," said the Babe, "I don't know whether the ball is any livelier now than it was then. I used to hit 'em just as far 10 and even 15 years ago as I do now. There's two things that go into all this home-run hitting. There's a new ball in there every time you look up and the boys are all swinging from the hip.

"But it's the new ball that helps most. In the old days a ball would be in play a long while and by the time the pitcher and the infielders got through with it it was in great shape. One-half of it would be covered with licorice and the other half with tobacco juice. And the hide would be torn after the boys got through stepping on it to make it sail. Now, with a new ball being thrown in every few minutes it's like a big, white grapefruit coming up to the plate. It seems lively because it's new, that's all. Hit it a couple of times and there's no life left in it."

"I guess you're right about that," said Fletcher. "I've noticed in hitting fungoes that the first few times you hit a new ball you can make it ride and after that it's hard work to get it to go high and far."

WALTER JOHNSON, convalescent manager of the Newark Internationals, is going to reverse the old order of things in the matter of exhibition games. Instead of a major league club visiting a minor league town, as has always been customary, Johnson is going to take his minor league team to a big league city. If plans now underway do not go amiss, the Newark team will appear in Washington in August to play an exhibition game against the Washington Senators. This case is slightly different from the average exhibition arrangement, for whereas the Senators would stir up no extraordinary enthusiasm if they were to play in Newark, the return of Johnson, as manager of a minor league club, to the scene of his many great triumphs is figured to make all Washington take a day off in honor of the former great pitching star who was its hero for 21 years.

Walter Johnson

JOE M'CARTHY'S speeding Cubs yesterday came within one of equaling their best winning streak of last spring. The Bruins hung up their eleventh successive triumph yesterday, and took undisputed possession of first place in the National League race.

The Cubs have not lost a game since they dropped an entire series here on April 30, May 1 and 2. They'll be back again for another string of three games here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, and local fans are hopeful that history will repeat.

AT that, the Buccaneers, in sixth place, are only four and one-half games behind the Chicago league leaders. Incidentally, Pat Moran, new Bruin pitcher, is now going great for a poor start. Pat was charged with five straight defeats at the beginning of the season, but since that time he has taken a big brace, yesterday's victory, in which he blanked the Braves, being his third in a row.

THE elimination of Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former Pittsburgh resident, from the women's British golf championship yesterday left the United States

Two New Phillies Here

MGR. BUSH TO PITCH KREMER TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

TWO days of idleness have put the Pirates and Phillies in a mood for diamond action. The athletes representing the Keystone state will get together this afternoon at Forbes Field if there is any chance. Another game will be played tomorrow after which the Freebooters will set sail for Cincinnati.

Members of both clubs, especially the pitchers and catchers, enjoyed a short workout yesterday before the showers chased them from the ball park. After the session Manager Bush stated he would stand pat on Remy Kremer as his slab selection for today.

Donie intends to put Ralston Hemsley behind the bat. The young coal miner is aching for a chance to start a big league game and Bush probably figures it is more advisable to use the youngster with one of the old-time pitchers who will not need the steadying influence of a receiver.

Manager Shotton of the Quakers, stated he would give the pitching assignment to Russell Miller, Columbus boy, who pitched last season for the Syracuse club of the International League. Miller is a right-hander.

The spirits of the Bushwhackers are very good. Every member of the squad from Bush right down to the youngest recruit, expects the team to do a right-about-face shortly that will carry it back to the first division.

Adam Comorosky has informed Manager Bush that he is ready for any kind of service, but in view of the batting punch shown by Pooch Barnhart, the Polish athlete is apt to remain on the bench for the present.

Bush would feel better if he could figure on using Kremer, Hill, Grimes and Miljus in their regular turn, with Dawson and Fussell ready for the slab role at intervals. The French ace has not been of much service to the team this season on account of an ailing leg, while Hill has been bothered with a bad back. Lee Meadows, with a bad arm, is still an uncertainty.

The Pirates are only four and one-half games behind the pace-setting Cubs, who, by the way, are vieing with Babe Ruth and the Yankees for the National spotlight in the field of sports.

Joe McCarthy's hustling crew so far has made a cleanup of the Eastern clubs. Pat Malone's shutout masterpiece of yesterday ran the Bruins' string of consecutive triumphs to 11. The Cubs smacked down the Phillies, Dodgers and Giants without taking a single punch in return and they are now working on the Braves.

France Keeps Title

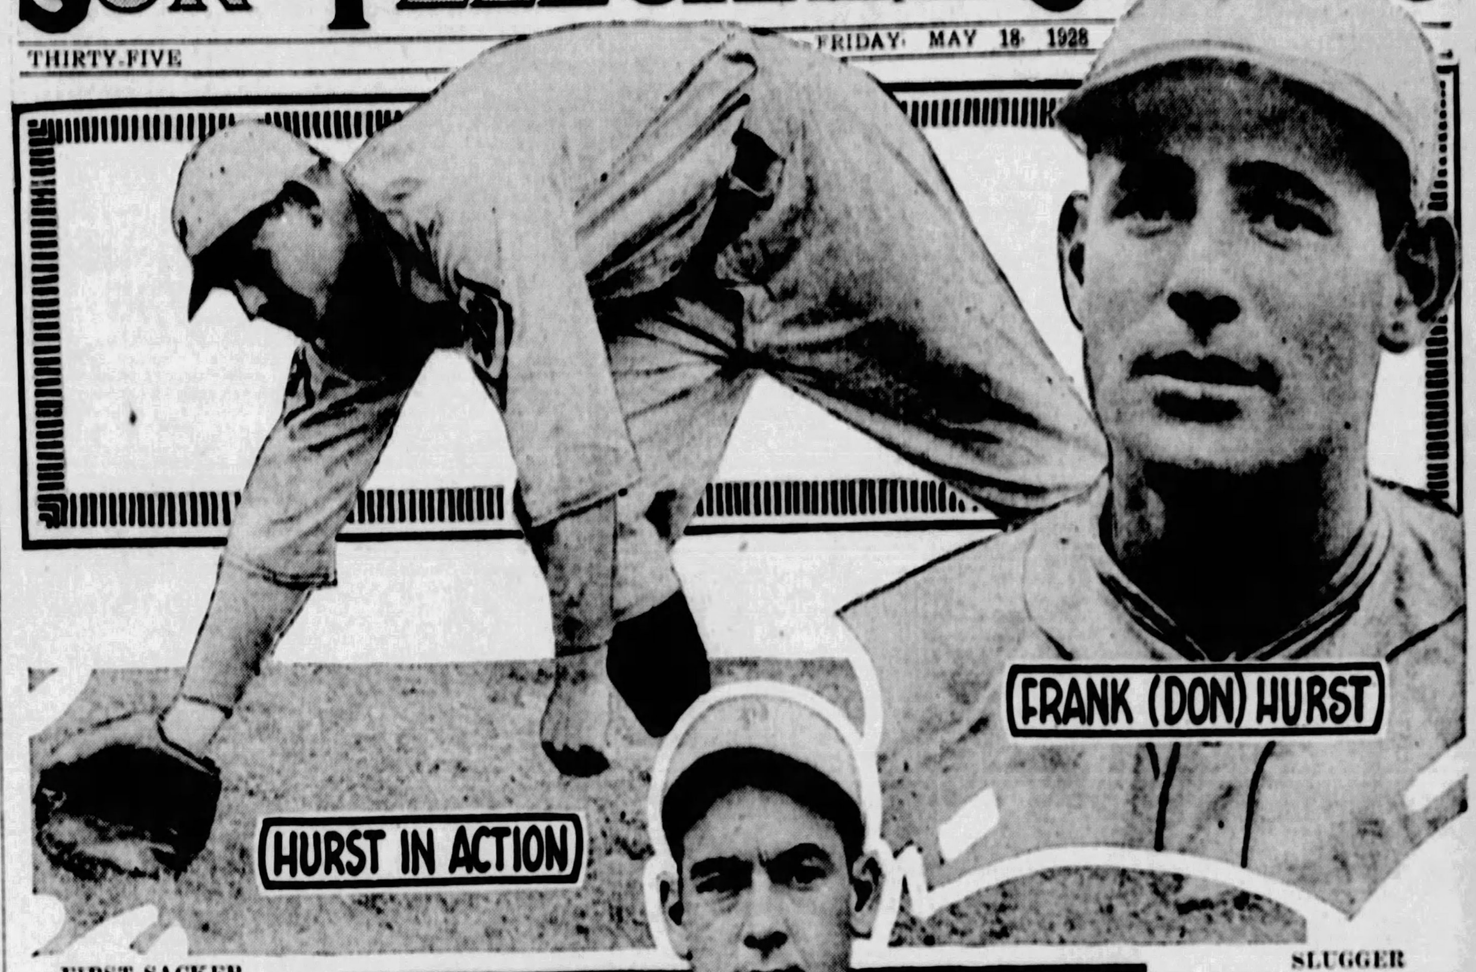
HUNSTANTON, England, May 18.—(AP.)—Manette Le Blan, of France, won the women's golf championship of Great Britain today, defeating Miss Sylvia Marshall, 3 up and 2 to play, in the final 36-hole match.

Mlle. Le Blan's victory will take the trophy to France for the second year in succession. She avenged the defeat of Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, the champion, who lost to Miss Glenna Collett in the first round Monday.

The new titleholder is only 21 years of age. Her's is the trim, slender French type, but her golf swing is like lightning and she has powerful wrists.

She surprised the British golfing world by reaching the semi-finals in the championship last year, but at Hunstanton she was overshadowed by her countrywoman, Mlle. Thion and Miss Collett. She slipped along almost unnoticed until she commanded attention yesterday by stopping Miss Enid Wilson, Great Britain's favorite.

After the morning round had been fought out to a good draw, the French player took the lead at the first hole in the afternoon. Miss Marshall again squared the match when she ran down a long putt at the twentieth. After two halves, Mlle. Leblan took three holes in a row. The twenty-sixth was another half, but the twenty-seventh went to France and Manette started on the last nine 4 up. This lead was to great to be overcome.



FIRST-SACKER

Frank (Don) Hurst is a former Ohio State athlete who later played with Syracuse in the International League and then with the St. Louis Cardinals, who traded him to the Phillies along with Catcher Virgil Davis and Outfielder Peel for Catcher Jimmy Wilson in the deal that followed up the trade of Catcher Bob O'Farrell to the New York Giants for Outfielder Harper.

SLUGGER

Hurst is a hard hitter. He banged out 15 home runs for the Syracuse club last year and slammed one for the Phillies the other day. The Pirates once thought they had him hooked. He is said to have signed a contract to join the locals, but the deal went awry and he wound up with the Cardinals, and now he is here in the livery of the Phils.

PROMISING YOUNG CATCHER

Davis has the makings of a first-class big league backstop and is likely to see considerable service with his new club, now that Jimmy Wilson is gone in the trade through which Davis was acquired. Photo shows Davis working out at Forbes Field yesterday after the opening game of the series with the Pirates had been postponed because of rain.

TOMORROW NIGHT SET FOR TITLE BATTLE

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—Tex Rickard announced today that Sammy Mandell will defend his lightweight championship against Jimmy McLarnin tomorrow night, weather permitting. The promoter was authorized by the Boxing Commission to again defer the bout on account of rain. Originally scheduled for last night, it was postponed until tonight when clouds gathered in the afternoon. The clouds were followed by a hard rain today.

The second halt in Tex Rickard's plan will force McLarnin and Mandell to weigh in again before the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow. The added delay forecasts trouble for the champion in making the limit of 135 pounds. Mandell was forced to drop one-half pound in 15 minutes Thursday when he first weighed in at 135½.

McLarnin, who scaled 134½, also may have trouble getting back to the weight. His normal poundage is about 135.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

DID you ever wonder what a champion, especially a champion of the ring, thinks about on the eve of the defense of his title?

Does he worry about the loss of the bauble that crowns him the leader in his class, or does he resign himself to whatever Fate has in store for him?

That all depends on the temperamental makeup of the individual. Some there are who fret and fume and champ at the bit, figuratively speaking. Others are of the fatalistic type, who sleep contentedly, satisfied to do their best and let matters run their course.

ANY man of the ring who has been through the mill will tell you that the hardest part of a severe test is waiting for the action to begin. Once the gong sounds and he shakes off the first punch of his opponent he forgets the crowd, the worry, the general hullabaloo of it all and loses himself in his work. The fight itself is the easiest part of his assignment.

Pre-fight worry has beaten many

CITY LEAGUE CARD FULL

Allegheny High will seek to succeed where the other Section Two teams have failed and defeat the crack Langley High nine this afternoon in a City League tussle on the North Side. The contest is the feature of the day's scholastic diamond card. Four other games are scheduled.

In section One, the leading Schenley nine will swing back into action by playing Westinghouse on the Schenley diamond. Schenley is an odds on favorite to cop the Section One honors. Ralston will meet Fifth Avenue in the other Section One encounter.

Allegheny Vocational will meet Oliver and Carrick will engage South Hills in the other Section Two contests.

WOLVERINES FACE N. W.

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—Michigan has a chance to advance another step toward the Big Ten baseball championship today as it was scheduled to meet the cellar occupants, Northwestern, a team that has lost eight straight conference games.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Johnstown, Pa.—Terry Lingo defeated Steve O'Malley, 10 rounds; Linn Jordan knocked out Bull Miller, 1 round; Mike Hogan defeated Tommy Ward, 6 rounds; Johnny Wilsiner won by a technical knockout over Rudy Sloan, 1 round.

At Cincinnati—Midget Guery defeated Bob Lewsader, 10 rounds; Otto Anderson defeated Reimer Roberts, 6 rounds; Johnny Curtin defeated Charley Court, 6 rounds; Tony Phillips and Lon Lovelace drew, 6 rounds.

At Charlotte, N. C.—Addison Warren knocked out Quentin Romero-Rojas, 1 round.

At Detroit—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and George Levine ordered from ring by referee for alleged stalling, 9 rounds. Bout declared no contest.

At Dayton, O.—Eddie Anderson defeated Danny Kramer, 12 rounds.

At Winnipeg, Man.—Al Webster knocked out Walcott Langford, 10 rounds.

At Great Falls, Mont.—Walter Cleghorn and Fick Watal drew, 10 rounds.

At Wilmington, Del.—Young Ketchel and Ray Mitchell disqualified for alleged stalling.

At Philadelphia—Al Stone knocked out Ricardo Romano, 3 rounds.

ST. JEAN DISTANCED

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS.)—Andrew St. Jean has won only two blocks in his special 1,500 point pocket billiard match with Ralph Greenleaf, the champion. St. Jean won the eighth block, 198 to 126, after the champion had taken the seventh by a score of 121 to 33. The totals are: Greenleaf, 1,004; St. Jean, 768.

DUNDEE PURSE HELD UP

DETROIT, May 18.—(INS.)—The purses of Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, and Georgie Levine, of Brooklyn, were held by the boxing commission today because of the fiasco the fighters staged last night at Olympia.

The scheduled 10 rounds were so bad that the referee warned the boys in the fifth round to fight and the boxing commissioner stopped it in the ninth and declared it "no contest."

There will be a hearing June 1 in Detroit.

The Olympia management, chief promoter of boxing bouts in Detroit, announced after the bout that "this is the end of trick matches in Detroit."

"Any more champions who come in here will fight at the weight and risk their titles," Dick Dunn, manager of the Olympia, said.

Levine entered the ring overweight, consequently Dundee had nothing at stake except the purse.

MARK KOENIG STOPPED

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS.)—After having hit safely in 11 successive games, Mark Koenig, shortstop of the New York Yankees, was stopped by Pitcher Wiltse, of St. Louis.

May Shatter Furlong Mark

By JESS CARVER.

DURING the past decade of tri-state collegiate track competition, there have been possibly a dozen sprinters whose performances stood out as being a bit above the ordinary. Chaps like Dan D'Aiuto of West Virginia, Kelly of Carnegie Tech and Butler of Geneva have approached world record time in the 100 and 220-yard events on more occasions than one.

Ken Webecan.

Tomorrow afternoon, in the 220-yard dash at the Big Four meet in the Pitt Stadium, Ken Webecan, Pitt's flyer, who is deserving of rank with the cream of the district's crop of runners for all time, will attempt to win recognition as the champion of them all by sprinting the 220 yards in 21 seconds, a mark that none of the stars of the past or present have been able to equal.

Webecan holds the tri-state mark for the century jointly with D'Aiuto, and Butler. All three have been clocked in 10 9-10 for the distance. Kelly of Tech held the 220-yard record of 22 2-5 until a week ago, when Webecan shattered it with a run of 21 1-5. The old mark had stood for six years.

NEAR WORLD MARK

As has been pointed out previously, Webecan will be flirting with world record time if he clicks off the furlong in 21 tomorrow. He will also win himself rated with men like Charley Paddock, Borah, Alderman, Scholz, Locke and Hussey, who consider anything slower than 21 seconds in the furlong decidedly passe.

A total of 98 entries have been checked in by the meet authorities and will be on hand tomorrow. West Virginia, with a squad of 28, will have the biggest representation. Wash-Jeff and Pitt will both have 25 men on hand and Carnegie Tech 20.

Pitt and West Virginia, with great all-around strength, are favored to make the big fight for the championship, with Wash-Jeff and Tech battling for the third position.

PAUL PREHN RESIGNS AS ILLINOIS COACH

URBANA, Ill., May 18.—(AP.)—Paul Prehn, chairman of the State Athletic Commission and wrestling and boxing coach at the University of Illinois, has tendered his resignation as instructor at the university. Need of more time to devote to his business, a campus confectionery, and the state commission, was given as his reason for leaving the university.

In the nine years Prehn has been connected with the university he has turned out seven conference championship wrestling teams. It was through his efforts that wrestling was made a major sport at the University of Illinois.

BUHL CLUB'S NEW ROLE

SHARON, Pa., May 18.—The Buhl Club, long famous for its basketball teams, is a pioneer in aviation. Secretary A. L. Frances recently painted the word "Sharon" on top of the building to aid lost aviators.

Johnny Risko Matched to Box Godfrey

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—George Godfrey, current "black menace" among the heavyweights, and Johnny Risko, Cleveland Baker Boy, who finished second in Tex Rickard's winter elimination series, have been matched to fight 10 rounds on June 29 at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

The match, made by Humbert Fugazy, metropolitan rival of Tex Rickard, may interfere with the Madison Square Garden promoter's plan to pit Risko against Jack Sharkey in a bout late this summer. Risko was named alternate to Tom Heeney recently and assured a match with Champion Gene Tunney if anything happened to the New Zealand challenger before July 26.

BROWN EXTENDS TILDEN IN DAVIS CUP TRIALS

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—(AP.)—William T. Tilden, Philadelphia, had to extend himself for five sets to defeat Wray Brown, St. Louis player, in the Davis Cup tennis trials here yesterday.

Tilden opened strong in the first set, but Brown overcame him in the second. Tilden took the third and Brown came back in the fourth. The fifth and final set was bitterly fought, but Tilden took an early lead which he maintained. The scores were 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

George Lott, Chicago, won from Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Tex., in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1, 9-7. John Hennessey, Indianapolis, won by default from Arnold Jones, Providence, R. I., when Jones sprained his ankle.

ITALIAN CUP TEAM NEARS ZONE FINALS

ROME, May 18.—(AP.)—Baron Huebert de Morpurgo, ace of the Italian tennis forces, and Giorgio de Stefani, his team-mate, have pushed further along the road toward the European Zone finals of the Davis cup competition.

The conquerors of Australia took a pair of singles matches from Rumania in the opening of the second round of play yesterday. De Morpurgo, although disappointing to the large crowd in that he was never forced to exert himself, whipped Dr. Luppu in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

De Stefani, his ambidexterous partner, disposed of Fritz Dorner, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

HAGEN VICTOR IN GERMANY

BERLIN, May 18.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, American golf star, who last week won the British open golf championship for the third time, defeated Percy Allis, 6 up and 4 to play, in a 36-hole exhibition match yesterday. Allis is a British golfer who is professional at the Gulf-and-Land Club at Wannsee. It was Hagen's fist appearance on a German course.

The American was 3 up at the end of the first 18 holes in which he had an approximate medal score of 75 to 76 for Allis. In the afternoon the two pros played the two holes for the benefit of the enthusiastic international gallery and did their best work after the match had officially closed on the 18th. In the afternoon Hagen shot 71 while Allis had 72.

HOW BASEBALL'S STARS TWINKLED YESTERDAY

Babe Ruth, Yankees—Hit home run No. 12 and a single in four times up, scored one run and drove in one.

Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Hit home run No. 6 in four times at bat, scored one run and drove in one.

Ty Cobb, Athletics—Got a double and single in four times up.

Tris Speaker, Athletics—Doubled once in five times up, driving in a run.

Harry Heilmann, Tigers—Singled three times in three times up, driving in all three of Detroit's runs.

Rogers Hornsby, Braves—Singled once in three times up.

Paul Waner and Kiki Cuyler did not play.

INDIA FIELD HOCKEY TEAM OLYMPIC CHOICE

AMSTERDAM, May 18.—(AP.)—India's field hockey team ranked as a decided favorite after showing in the opening of the Olympic hockey series yesterday. The team's speed and offensive generalship was unequalled by any of the other contestants in action. All except Belgium appeared at either the Olympic stadium or the so-called "old stadium" across the way.

ROCKNE FACES TASK WITH GREEN SQUAD

Knute Rockne is busy developing one of the greenest football squads he ever has had at Notre Dame for next fall's engagements.

CUP PLAYER WINS

BORDEAUX, France, May 18.—(AP.)—W. Robson, of the Argentine Davis Cup team, yesterday defeated his compatriot, R. R. Bord in the finals of the men's singles for the Primrose Cup, tennis trophy. The scores were 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

LIONS WIN AGAIN

PRINCETON, N. J., May 18.—(AP.)—Penn State's hard hitting baseball nine shut out Princeton, 13 to 0, on University Field here yesterday afternoon.

Babe 10 Games Ahead of '27 Homer Pace

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth has walloped six more home runs in his last eight games and is now 11 days and 10 games ahead of his record-breaking pace of last season, during which he hit 60 homers. The Bambino got No. 12 yesterday off Wiltze, of the St. Louis Browns. Joe Hauser, Lou Gehrig and Hack Wilson, three of his chief rivals, also hit for the circuit.

The standing of the leaders today is: Ruth, 12; Hauser, 8; Gehrig, 6; Bissonette, 6; Wilson, 5. Ninety-eight homers have been made altogether in each league.

Ruth, incidentally, raised his batting average to .376 and is second only to Kress, of St. Louis, in the American League averages.

EAST'S CREWS BUSY

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—Regattas tomorrow at Philadelphia, Derby, Conn., and New York will see eight of the east's nine varsity crews in action.

21 LIKELY TO START; TRACK IS SOGGY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—(AP.)—Thousands of visitors crowded the hotels and streets today as Louisville made last-minute preparations for the fifty-fourth renewal of the Kentucky derby.

By private car, airplane, automobile, day coach and even on horse back, the throng poured into the city.

The only rooms available in larger hotels were those for which reservations had been made months ago, but smaller hostelries, rooming houses and private residences had listed 3,000 open rooms late last night. As more than 70,000 visitors were expected for the classic tomorrow, it was believed that every spare bed would be occupied.

Railroads had cleared their yards in order to make room for the hundreds of Pullmans, which will be parked as temporary hotels for the guests they brought to the city. Ohio River packets were moored to the levee in the business district so that their staterooms might conveniently be used by overflow visitors.

Reigh Count, Mrs. John D. Hertz's thoroughbred, continued to be an overwhelming favorite, even gaining additional support when it was announced that the colt was as good in the mud as on a light, fast course. Toro, E. B. McLean's candidate, and Martie Flynn, the Stuyvesant Peabody entry, probably ranked next to the Count with Louisville players. Probably starters were:

Rangers To Play Here

By TOM BIRKS.

THE Glasgow Rangers of Glasgow, Scotland, winners of the 1928 Scottish League and cup will be in Pittsburgh June 9 at the Pitt Stadium, playing against a selected eleven of Western Pennsylvania amateurs. This was assured last night when the chairman of the committee, W. J. Kerr, received a telegram giving the city and date requested.

The presence of the greatest soccer team of all time at Pitt's Stadium should draw the greatest crowd in the history of soccer in the Western Pennsylvania district. The Donora club is sponsoring the game, but fans in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia are keenly interested in seeing the great Ranger team play in Pittsburgh for the first time.

Mrs. Hurd

without a representative in the big event, she having been the sole survivor after the defat of Miss Glenna Collett, Miss Curtis and Mrs. Stewart Hanley. The result caused some American golf authorities to remark again that trying to pick the best woman golfer in the United States is one of the hardest jobs imaginable. Miss Collett was given that ranking two years ago, but a Western observer notes that at least half a dozen women have since disputed that decision. Just try to pick the best from among Miss Collett, Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. Hurd, Virginia Van Wie, Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Ada McKenzie, Elizabeth Curtis, Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Marion Hollins, Fritzi Stifel, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Helen Payson, and others and you'll find you have a job on your hands.

MISS COLLETT was twice defeated by Miss Van Wie, but in a third match was an easy winner. Miss Payson holds victories over Misses Van Wie and Collett, and also has defeated Miss McKenzie and Miss Orcutt. Miss Orcutt defeated Mrs. Hill and then lost to Miss Van Wie. Not one has been a consistent winner.

SPEAKING OF SPORT

a good man. On the other hand, failure to respond to the excitement of the moment has sent many others into the ring "cold" and unable to rise to the heights demanded by the occasion. A fighter who enters the ring a bit nervous and high strung is more apt to perform sensationally than one with ice water in his veins.

THIS subject is brought up by the postponement of the Sammy Mandell-Jimmy McLarnin fight for the lightweight championship from last night to tonight and then to tomorrow night.

Both men were keyed up for the battle yesterday. Did they lose any of their edge through the delay? Did they sleep well last night, with the zero hour one day farther removed? Which benefited most or had his chances of victory diminished most because of the postponement? Even the result of the fight when it is fought will not answer that question, which undoubtedly is worrying the managers and other friends of the principals.

IT MAY interest you to know that George Whitted, former Pirate outfielder and infielder, has resigned his job as baseball coach at Duke University, where Jimmy DeHart is football coach. Also that Lefty Tyler, who played with Whitted on the Miracle Boston Braves of 1914, now is an umpire in the New England League.

TWO of the finest pieces of horseflesh in the East have not been shipped to Kentucky for the derby tomorrow. They are Victorian, winner of the Preakness a week ago today, and Nassak, which was favored to win that event, but was lost in the crush at the start and finished well back. Both are at the New York tracks for feature events and likely will clash again in the Withers tomorrow and the Belmont stakes two weeks hence.

So far as that goes, many of the best-liked choices for the derby will not go to the post on the heavy track that now is certain for the classic as a result of the plentiful rain of yesterday. The field will be well cut down, thereby greatly disappointing many of the players of the winter books, as well as others who had picked their favorites.

LOCAL bettors on horse races will not soon forget what happened in Pittsburgh on Derby Day last year. William L. King, the then active vice crusader, chose that occasion as an auspicious one on which to raid the downtown bookmaking establishments, causing great confusion among both the players and the layers of odds. Records of bets were confiscated and the day ruined in other ways for those who like to take a chance from either side of the book.

CARNEGIE TECH GIRLS HOLD 'PLAY DAY' TODAY

The women students of Carnegie Institute of Technology will hold their first "Play Day" today in the Carnegie Bowl from 4:30 until about 9. There will be competition in archery, baseball, volleyball, tennis, track events and roller skating.

The event will be held under the auspices of the Women's Athletic Association.

Authority Gives Reasons For Stock Market's Action

—By B. C. FORBES—

INSTEAD of expressing the writer's own cautious views on the stock market, it will be refreshing to readers to have the reasoning of a recognized student of finance and economics, Theodore Prince, head of Theodore Prince & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Almost a year ago Mr. Prince's views were given in this column. He then was more optimistic than the writer—and, as events have proved, clearer-sighted.

MR. PRINCE says:

"I pointed out in certain tables in your column last June 7 and 14, that in my opinion prices then were not high, comparing them with prices and earnings in 1913. I then expressed the opinion that the industrials had much less room for improvement than the railroads. Since that time the industrials have continued to move up in greater proportion than the rails, so that opinion, which I still hold, applies with still greater force today.

"I wrote you then that the ratio of prices times earnings in railroad stock of 1912—meaning the number of times the earnings may be divided into the price—as compared with 1926, was favorable to my contention that stocks were not high then, in June, 1927.

"In 1912 the rails were selling at a price that was 10 to 40 times their earnings; in 1927 at seven to 12 times. This year they are selling from eight to 13 times their earnings, despite the substantial increase in quotations since a year ago. This compares most favorably with industrials that are selling at 12 to 25 times their earnings.

"HOWEVER, in my opinion there are other reasons why this market has shown such marvelous strength and stability.

"We often hear of the 'quantitative theory of money,' namely, that an increase in the money supply without a corresponding increase in the quantity of goods causes an appreciation in the price of such goods; but it is not possible that the effective purchasing power may increase without a corresponding increase in the amount of sound available securities. May not this account for the rapid appreciation in the price of all such securities?

"BRIEFLY, I should like to say that the supremacy of our nation, politically, financially (creditor of the world to some $24,000,000,000) and economically, in the entire world, has caused a change of conditions that may take many years to appraise. Further, the elimination of the 'bucket shops;' the education of the holders of money to invest the same in securities, the paying off of over a billion dollars a year of Liberty bonds by the government; the reduction of inventories through speedy transportation system; the increased purchasing power through the installation of the installment system, and now what promises to be a national-wide movement — loans to worthy borrowers and thus increased earning power of the American workingman; their desire to enter into a partnership in the industrial enterprises through the ownership of securities; the drying up of any large volume of seasoned bonds, other than Liberty bonds, that can be procured on a fair investmen basis; the large number of investment trusts; the vast aggregation of available cash in the hands of large successful corporations. All these together have rolled up progressively a huge, unbelievable amount of available effective purchasing power.

"SO, despite the fact that we have increased our securities, the number of available seasoned common stocks and bonds have not, in my opinion, increased in proportion to this tremendous increase in the number and effectiveness of the common stock purchases—be they the public, banks, corporations rich in cash, or foreign countries. You may, if you will, speak about reckless speculation and a mad orgy of gambling, but the fact remains that seasoned securities are the ones that have made the largest and most continuous advances. Several stocks seem to have discounted by long odds their future prosperity, but in the vastness of the size of this market they represent only a small proportion of the securities that are traded in.

"NO ONE can tell when existing conditions will change—It does not appear in the immediate future, for when people sell today they receive money in exchange for their securities and become again potential buyers of securities, the number of which seem legion today.

"I do not aim to be a prophet, but it does seem as though for this present phase, our tremendous wealth, money and credit have no outlet—certainly not in more production — except the purchase of common stocks. When will that force subside sufficiently to check the present appreciation? The answer seems to be in the 'lap of the gods.'"

WILD RECOVERY ENDS DAY ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—The stock market, which has been moving upward for several months in seeming disregard of outside news developments, finally yielded today to general selling pressure inspired by the marked tightening of credit facilities. Speculators for the advance did not give up without a struggle, however, marking up about a dozen issues to record high levels after the first batch of overnight selling orders had been absorbed, a few of the gains ranging from 5 to nearly 12 points.

Raising of the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate from 4 to 4½ per cent yesterday was followed today by the marking up of the call money renewal rate from 5½ to 6 per cent and the stiffening of time money and bankers' acceptance rates. Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans to strengthen their reserve position, but there appeared to be a plentiful supply of call money available.

Airplane stocks again furnished the wildest gyrations. Curtiss, which closed yesterday at 159¾, opened at 155, ran up to 160¾ and then broke to 138¾ by early afternoon. Wright toppled from 221 to 196 and General Motors showed a net loss of 7 points at 191, and U. S. Steel common 3 at 143½. Selling of motors and steel created more speculative uneasiness than the decline in the airplane issues. American International, Radio, Air Reduction, Ludlum Steel, Greene Cananea Copper and Victor Talking Machine sold down 5 to 8 points.

Rails yielded with the industrials, but the losses were not as large. New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Chicago Northwestern and Missouri Pacific preferred were the hardest hit, yielding 3 to 4 points.

Outside of the credit situation, the day's news was generally favorable, the most important item being a further increase of ¼ of a cent a pound in the price of export copper.

The close was steady. The list went up fast in the final hour under the stimulative leadership of a boom in the merger rails. Chesapeake and Ohio shot up 8 points and Delaware and Hudson 8. Prices of Pere Marquette, Wabash, the Nickel Plate, Reading and New York Central sizzled as they moved up. The recovery in volatile specialties was even more violent, Wright Aero and Curtiss Aero selling a dozen points or more above their earlier lows and Radio and American International more than five points each.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged early today. Nearby duty frees were available at 4.40, but shipment sugars were held fractionally higher. The only sale confirmed was 50,000 bags of Cuban to an operator for July shipment at equal to about 4.55 delivered.

The raw sugar futures market opened irregular at 1 point decline to 1 point advance with some selling by European interests. Offerings were not aggressive, however, and a firmer understone developed later on covering and trade buying which seemed to be inspired by expectations of increased activity in the spot market and continued firmness of Cuban holders. Prices at midday were 2 to 3 points net higher on active positions.

In refined demand was a little more active, but it continued for prompt shipment only. Prices were unchanged at 5.95 to 6.00 for fine granulated.

PATTISON MEDALS FOR WILSON, KENT

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Medals for their services to the Democratic party will be awarded to William B. Wilson, candidate for the United States Senate against W. S. Vare, and Congressman Everett Kent, it was announced last night by Harry J. Conway, secretary of the Robert E. Pattison Memorial Association. The presentation, known as the Pattison award, in honor of the former governor, will be made here next Monday.

DONORA GIRL CROWNED MAY QUEEN AT JUNIATA

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 18.—Miss Eunice Walker, of Donora, Pa., was crowned May "Queen" at the annual May festival of Juniata College here yesterday afternoon. Miss Walker did not know she had been selected for the campus honor until an hour before the festival was to start. She will graduate at commencement exercises here June 4.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 18.—Export business in wheat estimated as high as 3,000,000 bushels, carried wheat values upward today with a rush. Rye purchases for Europe also were large. Adverse influences: Word of cold weather in western Europe and of unfavorable crop conditions prevailing, especially in Poland, was given considerable notice.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¾@2¼c net higher; corn ⅝@1c off, oats ⅝@¾c up, and provisions varying from 10c decline to an equal advance.

Unexpected jumps in Liverpool wheat quotations today accompanied announcement that Europe was purchasing wheat on a large scale for shipment from North America. Incidentally figures compiled here showed that the world's available supply of wheat had decreased 41,702,000 bushels during April, compared with 21,494,000 bushels in March and with 33,775,000 bushels in April last year.

Supplementing the bullish effect of enlarged European demand today for wheat was a statement from a leading crop authority saying recent rainfall in the Northwest this year compared with last year shows a decided deficiency. This deficiency exists both as to surface and to sub-soil moisture, he said, and unsettled conditions now apparently coming to a close in that section have fallen far below making good the previous large shortage of moisture.

The following grain quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

H. KOPPERS CO. OUT OF DEAL

BOSTON, May 18.—(AP.)—Negotiations for the purchase of an interest in the Massachusetts Gas Companies by Koppers Company of Pittsburgh, have been discontinued, President James L. Richards of the Massachusetts corporation, announced yesterday after a special meeting of trustees. No details of the negotiations were made public.

An announcement made by the Massachusetts Gas Companies before the meeting said:

"If an arrangement is made with those we are conferring with, the Massachusetts Gas Companies will secure a new industry valued at many millions of dollars, which has a large earning power, together with $10,000,000 cash from outside New England to assist in further developing local industries, and although it is planned that there shall be no change in the present management of the Massachusetts Gas Companies, the present management will have the benefit of the advice of officials of a much large organization than we now have."

PRICES HELD STEADY ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

COLONIAL TRUST AT NEW HIGH

There was further shrinkage of speculative activity on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, although prices displayed a fairly steady tone in the industrial division.

Demand for Colonial Trust Company shares, which has been in evidence for several days, showed itself again at the opening this morning and buying orders found the available supply very limited at anything near last night's closing. The early trading witnessed a rise in the bank's stock to the highest price for several years with traders professing ignorance of any actual developments, but assuming that there may be some basis to the gossip that Colonial will eventually find its way into the First National-Peoples Trust group.

Slightly lower prices of the recent leaders in the local list failed to uncover any selling of noticeable proportions and there appeared to be good support for such issues as Standard Sanitary and Lone Star just below the market.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

N. Y. Bank Rate Raised.

The New York Reserve Bank has increased its rediscount rate to 4½ per cent, wheeling into line with seven of the 12 banks in the Federal Reserve system. The change was the first since February 3, when the rate was raised to 4 per cent from the 3½ per cent rate which had been effective since August, 1927. Wall Street has been looking for the increased rate for weeks.

Imminence of the increase was presaged yesterday when the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia lifted its rate to 4½ per cent and time money rates reached the highest levels since 1923. Heavy exports of gold have continued, the bank's report today showing that $12,937,000 has moved out in the period between May 10 and 16, $11,905,000 of the total being for France through ear-marking. The movement toward a higher rate was begun by the Chicago and Boston banks on April 20. Since then increases have been made by the banks in Richmond, Dallas, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Philadelphia. Only San Francisco, Kansas City, Atlanta and Cleveland banks have retained the 4 per cent rate.

Loans Increase $140,946,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers by New York Federal Reserve member banks totaled $4,502,044,000, a new high record and an increase of $140,946,000 over the previous week. This total compares with $2,939,683,000 reported as of May 18, 1927, and the previous 1928 high of $4,361,108,000 reported May 9. The low for 1928 was $3,695,709,000 reported on March 7.

Call Money.

The call money market was firm at an opening rate of 6per cent, equal to the year's highest renewal figure. About $15,000,000 was withdrawn from the market early in the day but funds attracted by the higher rate made their way to the money center later and there was a noticeable easing of the situation. Bank bills and acceptances, however, were quoted up in response to the raise in the rediscount rate.

Jersey Earned $1.52 in 1927.

The unfavorable conditions which existed in the oil industry in 1927 are reflected in the decreased earnings of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey as shown in its annual report for last year. Earnings on the common stock, after deducting dividends paid on preferred, were $1.52 a share, compared with $5.01 for 1926. Net income dropped to $40,422,857 from $117,612,201 in the previous year and surplus for the year fell from $80,123,422 in 1926 to $1,857,658 for the past year. A statement to the stockholders said: "The report to the shareholders for the year 1926 stated that earnings in 1927 would reflect the unsatisfactory conditions existing at that time. The results of the year over the industry at large are evidence that these conditions were general, and except for the ameliorating influence of the several movements toward more conservative producing operations, continuous throughout that period." These conditions, the report said, are still prevalent and any improvement will depend upon corrective measures to readjust the present uneconomic competitive situation, in which it was said, the corporation would be glad to cooperate.

Air Transport Falls Back.

Transcontinental Air Transport shares opened with a bang on the New York Curb again today, but after a run-up of about two points the stock hit a snag and fell back sharply. This is the concern sponsored by the Pennsylvania Railroad and other important interests to provide air transport supplementary to the transcontinental rail passenger service and fast long distance freight and express.

Market Needed Shake-out.

Having moved ahead vigorously with only a few nominal interruptions since April 24, the market apparently reached a point where internal conditions needed an overhauling. While the reaction was drastic in many directions it was the opinion of some students that the decline did not signify the beginning of a major bear movement. Instead, they held, that the corrective process had been large enough to bring about a somewhat healthier condition and further declines probably would put stocks in a position where new operations for an advance can be started again.

Big Fish in the Pond, Too.

That it has not been what Wall Street is inclined to call a "piker's" market, has been demonstrated over the last few weeks by the enormous single blocks of certain stocks that make their appearance on the tape from time to time. That the public has been in the market everyone knows, but it has not been alone in the market. The public does not buy single blocks of 10,000 to 50,000 shares. Transactions of this kind always can be traced to large operators. There are many big operators who are either out of the market or short of certain issues. They believe stocks are too high. But there are many powerful operators and professionals who have been bullish and who have been successful in their operations because they have had a big buying public behind them. Traders all over the country have been in a buying mood and the big operators have experienced little difficulty in getting a following in stocks like General Motors, Wright, Curtiss, Studebaker, Radio, Kennecott, Anaconda, Can and Smelters. The sharp declines in many of these issues was a reflection of this over-buying.

Stutz Earnings Halved.

Stutz Motor Car Company earned 82 cents a share in 1927, against $1.56 a share in 1926, net profit declining to $195,831 from $365,512.

Week's Structural Orders.

Structural steel orders took a sharp drop the last week, only about 14,000 tons against 25,000 tons the week before and 30,000 two weeks ago. Inquiries have increased to about 32,000 tons from 26,000 a week ago.

France Taking Gold.

Gold exports in the week ended May 16 amounted to $12,937,000, of which $11,905,000 went to France, $500,000 went to Argentina and $400,000 to Venezuela. Imports were $285,000, chiefly from Latin America.

Auto-Lite Increase Approved.

Electric Auto-Lite Company stockholders have approved an increase in capital to provide for merger with U. S. L. Battery corporation, whose stockholders meet May 22 to vote on the plan.

Agricultural Chemical Calls Bonds.

American Agricultural Chemical corporation has called $2,500,000 7½ per cent bonds for redemption on August 1, reducing the outstanding amount to $10,000,000.

Pittsburgh Mills at 80 Per Cent.

Pittsburgh steel mills are maintaining operating schedules at about 80 per cent of capacity. Large producers like Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Carnegie Steel Company, Bethlehem and others are operating on an 80 to 85 per cent basis, while the smaller makers are down to between 50 and 75 per cent.

Although competition is keen on steel strip, several district producers in this district are receiving much more business than in April, Daily Metal Trade reports. Shipments in some cases are 25 per cent greater.

Equitable Building Capital Change.

Directors of Equitable Office Building recommend that the common stock be split up four-for-one. They declared a quarterly dividend of $2 on the present common as against $1.75 previously and stated the new stock will be maintained on a $2 annual basis.

Blumenthal Profits Shrink.

Sidney Blumenthal & Co. (Shelton Looms) earned 88 cents a share in the first quarter on the preferred stock, against $7.40 a share in the first quarter last year. Net income fell to $21,324 from $178,384. There are accumulated unpaid dividends on the preferred.

World Zinc Stocks.

World stocks of zinc on May 1 as estimated by the foreign correspondent of the American Zinc Institute, amounted to 66,100 metric tons, with 40,600 for the United States, 6,300 for Germany-Poland, 5,100 for Belgium and 1,400 for Great Britain. There was no reason, the report said, why the improvement in European consumption in the first quarter should not make further headway in the current quarter.

C. I. Pipe Prices Firmer.

A firmer price tendency in Cast Iron Pipe is indicated, particularly in the middle west, where a number of small sales have been made on the basis of $33 a ton, Birmingham.

Newton Steel Company.

C. D. Pollock, formerly manager of the Cambridge plant of American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, has been appointed vice president of Newton Steel in charge of operations. The company expects to operate at capacity on automobile steels until July 1. Mills have been fully occupied since the first of the year.

General Motors Exports.

First quarter sales of General Motors cars and trucks to overseas dealers totaled 56,937, a new record, against 39,443 in the first quarter of 1927, an increase of 17,494 units. The best previous overseas record was 53,009 in the second quarter of 1927.

Davison Chemical.

Due to a change in the fiscal year, the next report of Davison Chemical Company will cover 18 months to June 30, 1928. It is predicted the consolidated statement will show $5 a share earned on 400,000 capital shares against net loss of $11,373 for the year ended December 31, 1926. From sources close to the company it is learned that both the sulphuric acid plants and acid phosphate plant for the past five months have been operating at capacity.

Export Copper Raised.

Export copper has been advanced ⅛ cent a pound to 14⅞ cents, cost and freight, Hamburg, the highest price in over a year. This is the second advance of ⅛ cent this week and follows two similar price advances in the market for domestic copper.

A situation has been created in the copper market that amounts to virtual shortage of the red metal. This condition, however, is said to be temporary, but the fact remains that producers are unable to make nearby deliveries and orders for June delivery are being turned down at prevailing prices. Even orders for July shipment have been refused. The price of 14½ cents delivered in the Connecticut valley is firmly established.

U. S. Steel Earnings Estimate.

Although it appears rather early to forecast what U. S. Steel will show in the current quarter, estimates are being made that the earnings of $2.11 a share in the first three months will be exceeded. The decrease in unfilled tonnage at the end of April was not particularly discouraging to followers of the stock. This was seasonal and is likely to be followed by further declines until the fall business begins to bring increases in tonnage reports.

Sullivan on Local Exchange.

Russell P. Sullivan, of Sullivan & Gross, has been elected a member of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

Massachusetts Gas.

Reports that the Koppers interests had withdrawn from negotiations looking to the purchase of Massachusetts Gas caused a sharp drop in the latter's shares on the Boston Exchange today. Gossip had linked the dealings with the merger of New York City utilities now in progress.

American Locomotive Outlook Blue.

Generally poor trade conditions indicate that in the first half of this year American Locomotive Company will not fully cover the common dividend requirements of $4 a share for the period. In the same period of 1927 the company earned $1.48 on the common. While depression in the industry was acute in 1927, orders for locomotives placed so far indicate no improvement over last year, orders actually placed being somewhat below those of a year ago. However, in trade opinion is expressed that a turn may be looked for after June. Baldwin Locomotive so far this year has been operating about 20 per cent of capacity, considerably less than a year ago. American Locomotive has been working at slightly higher percentage. Poor business this year is indicated by the fact that in the four months to April 30, a total of only 89 locomotives were ordered against 233 in the corresponding period a year ago, according to The Railway Age.

Jap Loan Parley Denied.

Juichi Tsushima, Japanese financial commissioner to New York, London and Paris, who is now in New York, stated today that reports to the effect that the Japanese government is negotiating a foreign loan are entirely groundless.

Rolling Mill Increase O. K'd.

The stockholders of the American Rolling Mill Company at the annual meeting here approved the recommendations of the board of directors increasing the common stock of the company to $50,000,000 by authorizing an addition of $20,000,000. It was stated that the stock would be issued when needed by and at the discretion of the board. Directors were re-elected.

Kansas City Plant for Chevy.

Chevrolet Motor Company will build an assembly plant in Kansas City with daily capacity of 350 cars, to cost $2,250,000, W. S. Knudson, president, announced. The plant will cover 28 acres and will be completed in October. This will give the company 9 assembly plants, one export plant and five manufacturing plants.

Vulcan Detinning.

Vulcan Detinning Company earned $1.75 a share on the combined preferred stocks in the first quarter, against $4.41 a share in the first quarter last year. Net profit was $42,512 against $106,868. Profit for the last quarter of 1927 was $30,259.

Willys Has Record Day.

Willys-Overland produced 2,300 cars on May 15, the largest single day's output in the company's history. Production this year to May 15 was 135,158 units, against 126,301 in the first six months of 1927. Unfilled orders exceed 30,000 cars.

NOTICE TO SHIPPING

The chute between Towhead Island and Kentucky shore at Louisville will be completely blocked at its lower end by falsework under the two South Spans of the Big Four Bridge after May 23rd. Falsework will also fully obstruct passage between first river pier and the shore on the Indiana end of the Bridge after June 6th.

Drawings showing falsework are on file at office of District Engineer, Federal Building, Louisville, Ky.

These structures will be marked by red lights at night.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 18.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 7 to 11 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and talk of more or less unsettled weather in the South. The bulge met extensive realizing, however, and prices soon sagged back to about yesterday's closing quotations. Trading was moderately active at the start, but tapered off later as if the market was inclined to wait further weather or crop developments.

Private cable advices from Liverpool said liquidation and hedging in that market had been absorbed by covering, with London and continental buying on bullish crop news, and also reported a broadening demand for cotton cloth from China.

The market stiffened during the morning on covering and commission house buying, with July advancing to 21.32 and October to 21.37, or 15 to 19 points above yesterday's closing quotations. No fresh news feature was mentioned in connection with this upturn, which reflected continued nervousness over the new crop start. The market eased near noon, when there was realizing and selling on a more favorable view of the weather outlook. At midday July was selling around 21.02, or about 20 points below the best, with active months generally showing net declines of 6 to 15 points.

that Stronach Nails Are Bought As Time, Money and Labor Savers

Minimized Waste Cuts Overhead

Everyone knows that wastage is one of the largest items of plant overhead. The Stronach Nail helps minimize this item in plants of the woodworking and lumber products industries. Is it any wonder that orders are pouring in for the Stronach Nail—orders in such numbers that new equipment must be installed to speed production; orders that cannot now be fulfilled even though the plant operates at top speed 24 hours every day—unless the new equipment is installed?

Style and Service in a Summerweight Shoe

ONLY the finest leathers put together by the most skilful shoemakers can produce a satisfactory lightweight shoe.

Wear without Weight—Strength and Lightness without bulk, is the secret of success in the construction of this thoroughbred English model.

There's just as much difference between a genuine English Featherweight and a heavy English Brogue as there is between a race horse and a truck horse.

And adding weight is the way they handicap a race horse—and added weight is a handicap to any man who walks.

This original light weight English Oxford was purchased by us in Regent Street, London, from the best known maker of high priced shoes in England. In color, pattern and last it's a West End design, and represents the choice of the best dressed men in London.

The Regal reproduction is exactly the same in color and pattern, and the lasts are identical in measurements and appearance. The Upper Leather in the Original and Reproduction is an Imported Brown Calfskin, and the Light Weight Sole in both shoes is Oak Bark Tanned.

Now, we think we have made a wonderful reproduction of this genuine English shoe and to prove it we bought 36 pairs of the English model so that we could show one English shoe with the Regal reproduction in 72 Regal stores from Coast to Coast.

This English model is only one of many new lightweight styles that we are showing today. We have other styles, made of Imported and Domestic Calfskin, with broad and narrow toes, leather heels and rubber heels, full lined and skeleton lined. And they're all reproductions of exclusive high priced models—and they're all $6.60.

PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district was fairly good today. Several changes in the prices of fruit and vegetables were made. The egg and cheese markets were steady. Butter was firm. The quotations on these markets were about unchanged.

Poultry supplies were liberal and the demand was rather dull. The market was easy and the quotations were unchanged.

Car lot supplies were liberal, a total of 661 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 1 car of apples, 2 celery, 3 lemons, 14 lettuce, 7 onions, 4 oranges, 29 potatoes, 1 sweet potatoes and 8 tomatoes.

A Springtime Message
When the fragrance of springtime comes creeping over hills, and fields and hillsides glow with a thousand hues, there is kindled in our hearts a longing for a home to call our own, a home with a bit of green around it—thus, we present to you this, your home. It contains six rooms, breakfast nook, sewing room, unfinished attic, all-tile bath, hardwood floors throughout, hot-water heat. The living room is exceptionally large, and presents a delightful homey atmosphere. Beautiful painted walls, lovely decorations; well laid-out floor plan makes this an ideal home. Price is $15,500 and we are in a position to arrange exceptionally low terms.

Gould Built a Fine House

Now Many Good Girls Enjoy It

Men build magnificent estates with beautiful houses for their own pleasure and their families. The rich man dies, the family scatters, and then sometimes the house becomes REALLY useful.

George J. Gould built such a house, Georgian Court, at Lakewood, N. J., a beautiful residence, with a great park around it, sunken gardens, an indoor riding and tennis court, several polo fields, private golf links, stables for a hundred horses and a pine forest. That house, grounds and park are devoted now to a school for girls, known as Georgian Court College.

One of the big stables has been changed into a chemical laboratory and into school rooms of various kinds, with a big dormitory above. Where George Gould entertained polo men, playing on his fields in the mild Lakewood climate, Mother Mary John, head of Georgian Court College, presides over the faculty and directs the studies of more than a hundred intelligent young American women.

One Sunday the girls gave a concert for their friends, interesting because of talent shown by the girls, and especially because it demonstrated thorough, efficient teaching.

It would have interested George Gould to hear that concert, with the college girls and their friends assembled in the building that once had a tanbark floor for the exercising of his polo ponies in winter.

Tschaikowsky's "March Slav" was played by girls at six pianos.

In the Gounod-Schubert Harp Ensemble "Ave Maria" sixteen girls took part, eight playing the harp, six playing the piano, and two the violin.

If George Gould could have heard that music in his indoor riding ring, and especially Liszt's "Rhapsody Twelfth" played by six girls at six pianos, he would have been delighted to see his great estate so well used. He was a kind-hearted man, tried to make his own children happy and liked to see other children happy.

It would have given him satisfaction to know that the beautiful estate to which he and his wife, Edith Kingdon Gould, devoted so much time is now preserved for the benefit and healthful education of American girls, instead of being cut up into building lots.

Power Trust Tactics

Every citizen of the country must find something ominous and sinister in the facts being uncovered by the Federal Trade Commission in Washington, in their investigation of the power trust.

They have proved that the electric power companies of the country are banded together into organizations which collect huge funds to "influence" legislators, hire professors to give lectures and write text books, debauch the press of the country, and so poison the sources of information upon which the public must rely in order to learn what these monopolies are doing.

Not only the methods, but the purposes of the organized power interests are being made abundantly clear. They intend to create a "public opinion" which will let the utilities charge such rates and give such service as they please.

The height of their insolence was attained in a "Catechism" written by their press agent in Connecticut and used by 10,000 Connecticut school children until it was thrown out of the Connecticut schools last week, following the expose in Washington.

Here is question nine of that Catechism and the answer as taught to public school children in this text book:

"Question Nine—What is the effect of adverse criticism upon utility service?

"Answer—When the people in any community criticise adversely public utilities in their own city, they are advertising their own city to outsiders as a poor place in which to live and are thereby retarding its growth."

Letters and telegrams flooding into the Federal Trade Commission show that the same debauchery of schools is going on in every state in the Union. Are the people going to stand for it?

Speed Holy Pilgrimage

The House of Representatives on February 20 last did something which cheered the spirit of every true American.

It passed unanimously a bill authorizing the President to invite the mothers and widows of our soldier dead who lie buried in foreign lands as guests of the nation in a pilgrimage to these shrines.

There is no reason to believe that senators are less appreciative of the sacrifices of our women in the war than are representatives.

But for nearly three months this bill, so beautiful in its purpose, so appealing from every standpoint of patriotic sentiment, remained in a Senate sub-committee unacted upon. Its supporters had difficulty in even bringing it to a hearing.

This session of the Congress is nearing its end. The time is short in which any bill not of imperative importance can be passed. The time is also short in which this pilgrimage of our Gold Star Mothers and the widows of our boys who sleep abroad can be arranged if it is to be made this year.

We appeal to the Senate to send this gracious measure on its way to the White House. Nothing would better reveal to the people of Europe the depths of sympathy and generosity in the American heart. Nothing would be more becoming to ourselves.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.
6. Federal regulation of the oil industry to conserve a vital natural resource.

He'll Most Likely Play If the Other Fellow Does

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

What Is Gravitation?

"As I understand, it was Newton's theory that the force of gravitation exerted by the stars and planets upon one another keeps them in their regular courses; and that the law of gravitation was not known of previous to his day. If so, how did astronomers before him explain the movements of the heavenly bodies, and what did they think kept those bodies in their proper places?—ISAAC RATNER."

THEY made some good guesses, but some childish explanations. Aristotle said there was a natural tendency of all bodies toward the center of the universe, and, since observation showed that everything on the earth tended to fall toward the center of the earth, that proved that the earth must itself by the center of the universe. This was putting the cart before the horse, or using theory to prove fact—a fallacy not always avoided even in modern science. But the very big and creditable fact stands out that Aristotle, twenty-three centuries ago, believed and taught (to an unbelieving generation) that the earth was a globe.

His "natural tendency" was simply another word for our "gravitation." As far as the essential nature of this tendency is concerned, we know no more than he did. In fact, his word for it fits Einstein's conception of the cause of the fall of bodies and the circulation of satellites around planets and of worlds around suns, better than the word gravitation, because there is associated with it no conception of a compelling force. Einstein says these things happen because of the inherent structure of the universe and that seems to have been Aristotle's idea, though he had no super-mathematics in which to spin it out, like a mental gossamer.

The Greek also invented the idea of the "crystalline sphere," to explain the motions of the heavenly bodies, all apparently going the same way around the earth. These spheres were supposed to surround one another like the layers of an onion, and in each was embedded a planet, which was carried around with its revolving, invisible sphere.

But they were puzzled by the fact that the planets have irregular motions sometimes forward, sometimes backward, though upon the whole they all finally travel in one direction. To explain this, Hipparchus and Ptolemy invented the idea of "epicycles," i. e., of little spheres or circles, each carrying a planet, now backward, now forward, while the whole lot of them was borne along by the prima mouole, or sphere of the fixed stars lying beyond. This epicyclic theory was developed in complicated forms, without any explanation forthcoming for the motive power behind it.

In the sixteenth century Copernicus disestablished the earth as the center of the planetary system, and showed that that place belonged to the sun. But long before his time some thoughtful men had had the same idea, though it did not prevail until after Copernicus.

Meanwhile, William Gilbert, famous for his discoveries about magnetism, put forth the idea that the planets were held and moved by a force resembling magnetic attraction. John Kepler later imagined magnetic rays, extending out from the sun like wheel spokes, and pulling the planets round in the direction in which the sun itself rotated.

Kepler showed that the planets travel in ellipses and not in circles, and though he adopted Gilbert's idea as to the nature of the attraction, he thought that something like an "animal force" must enable the planets to avoid being drawn into the sun. Next Descartes put forth his theory of vortices, in which it was assumed that space was filled with some kind of fluid in which eddies, or whirls formed, carrying the heavenly bodies around. But again the ultimate cause remained unexplained.

Finally Newton made a mathematical analysis of the planetary movements and showed why they travel in ellipses, and also developed mathematically the "law" according to which gravitation acts. This law enables us to predict the motions of bodies under gravitation, but as to the force called gravitation the theory merely assumes its existence from its evident effects, without trying to explain its ultimate nature. As far as that is concerned we are where Aristotle was.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Happiness at Home

MAYBE you don't get angry in your home and "tear things up"—but there are worse things than that.

You may be a nagger, finding fault with many things, and this is worse than having a real fight and settling back into a congenial routine afterward.

The most aggressive person is the one who is full of little thrusts.

Then if there be retaliation from other members of the household, it seems that disturbed conditions continue most of the time in the home.

Often the man who will overlook petty annoyances at the shop or office is most easily irritated when something displeasing to him is done by a member of his family.

If the same effort to keep things smoothly running at the office were made at home there would be happier homes.

It is unfortunate that often the man who seems most congenial among those with whom he works is the greatest bore in his own home.

Usually the man who raises the least disturbance at his work causes the most uneasiness in his home.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

In Gratitude

SOMETIMES in lonely hours I see
A vision that can set me free
From pain, despair
And every care,
A vision of the sunlit sea!

Dream-fair, before my raptured eyes
Its white foam lifts, its great waves rise,
And on earth's rim,
Mist-wreathed and dim,
Gleam ghosts of vanished argosies.

Sometimes, in rebel mood, I sigh
For that wide sweep of sea and sky;
Then comes a flood
Of gratitude
For memories too fair to die!

For well I know that some there be
Whose lot is much too hard for me;
Through bliss or pain
Through loss or gain
Their eyes have never glimpsed the sea!

Taste Improves

AN interesting fact noted at the recent national convention of American book publishers is that the call for fiction is declining while that for books dealing with philosophy and biography is increasing.

People are reading more books and better books than ever before, which, of course, means better people.

Tales that are Told

Looking Ere He Leapt

ON THE doorstep stood a very miserable-looking tramp, in his hand a tattered hat.

"Madam," he said, "can I do anything to help you? Is there any wood to be chopped?"

"No, I am afraid not," said the housewife, who had answered his knock.

"Carpets to beat, p'r'aps?"

"No, thanks."

"Any gardening or other rough jobs to be done, then?"

"No, thanks, I don't think there's anything you can do today."

The wayfarer heaved a high of relief and his miserable expression disappeared.

"All right," he said cheerfully, "then p'r'aps I can have something to eat?"

Might Have Been Different

MRS. GREENE came in with her latchkey and slammed the door behind her. The hall-stand quivered like an aspen under the impact.

In the dining-room Greene hastily removed his feet from the mantelpiece and grabbed wildly for his slippers.

His wife entered abruptly.

"I've been to the dentist's," she announced loudly. "The beast kept me with my mouth open for half an hour. It nearly killed me!"

Her husband regarded her quizzically through half-closed eyes.

"H'm," he murmured. "If he'd made you keep your mouth shut for all that time, it certainly would have killed you."

The Discovery

A TEACHER was endeavoring to explain to his class how air is compressed, and for example wheeled his bicycle into the room.

"Now," he said, pointing to the front wheel, "underneath that outer cover there is a hidden force—can any of you tell me what it is?"

"Ingyrubber!" suggested one smart lad.

"No; try again."

There were several guesses made, but all of them incorrect. At length a youngster who had been making a close inspection of the machine turned to the teacher.

"I know what it is," he said beamingly. "It's wind—just wind. I've just stuck a pin in it an' it all came out."

Repairs Required

THERE was no doubting the fact that the young man was very angry. But the motorcycle dealer was used to stormy scenes and he merely smiled.

"And when I bought that bike," continued his angry customer, "you said that if anything broke within six weeks you'd replace it."

The salesman nodded.

"Yes, sir," he agreed pleasantly. "What new parts do you require?"

"Several," declared the young man. "A new ankle, four front teeth and a funny-bone."

Quite Different

MISS ANNABELLE SCRIBBLE had just had her first novel published and was engaged in ecstatic contemplation of the book-jacket when a newspaper reporter called at her flat and sent up his card.

For some time the new novelist deliberated. Should she waste her valuable time on this underling? Eventually she decided that she would.

"I suppose you've called to get the story of how I did it?" she asked, when the journalist appeared.

"Oh, no," the young man corrected hastily, "Why you did it."

Good Salesmanship

MR. SCHURMAN, who represents this country in Germany, says that Germans in the United States would be powerful in maintaining world peace. There is some foolish excitement about that in France and elsewhere.

The American Ambassador is Ambassador to GERMANY and it is his business to say pleasant things about Germany and the Germans. He is our international salesman there. We send him to be polite to Germany. Our Ambassador to France is extremely polite to France. Good salesmen.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 18.—Thoughts while strolling: The British-looking flunkies around the Biltmore. Maurice Campbell, the prohibition director. And husband of Henrietta Crossman. The enameled young clerks in florist shops. And women in the travesty of masculine attire.

The plump woman doctor who drives in a pony-drawn dog cart. Those curtained drug stores without window displays, known as chemist shops. Tired pedestrians gravitating naturally to church steps for a rest. Moon-faced cabbies who cry "Kerridge!" so hopefully.

Park Avenue's close-cropped world. Bristling with wealth and opulence. But nothing gives a street romance and color like a few hungry artists and threadbare poets. Riches stifle Park Avenue, whereas a little poverty would mellow it. Harrison Fisher, the magazine artist.

Bruce Barton, a modern writer, actually born in a log cabin. A tea room features Dennis King sandwiches. He's the latest matinee heart throbber. Restless imperious young crowds who seem to have been everywhere and seen everything. And so drink straight gin from the bottle.

Interior decorating schools. What a business that turned out to be. But I'd rather be a tap dancer. And do those trick falls like Will Mahoney. Steel workers that resemble specks in the sky. Never see a luncheon pail in New York any more. H. C. Witwer.

Those blades who pull hats further down over their ears than ever. Fish-like figures sealed in the hermetic glass of limousines. Lyman Hyne, the American bob-sled champion at St. Moritz. And Hulbert Footner, the novelist.

Girls who go stockingless give me a pain. That sounds like an old nance. Nelson Doubleday, the tall young publisher. Jovial crowds filling buses to Coney Island. A newsboy skylarking with a good-natured cop. Restaurant waiters who stand in doorways before the evening rush.

A stage doorkeeper tells me that stars are rarely bothered by love-sick admirers. Romeos do not moon around stage doors. They express their feelings chiefly through mash-notes. The real 18-karat pests of the stage doors are the autograph hunters. They are thick in New York and are constantly sending in their autograph albums with letters asking for such intimate sentiments as "To my dear friend, Soandso," along with the autograph.

And I am told the signatures most desired by autograph hunters are those of Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

A young New York jeweler once took his guest book to the home of Ralph Barton in the hope Charlie Chaplin, who was a guest for the evening, would sign it. Mr. Chaplin did, and underneath his signature wrote, "At Ralph's Apartment."

I have a plush-backed autograph book which was a treasured possession during formative years. Among the autographs are those of: "Diamond Jack," proprietor of Diamond Jack's Medicine Carnival; Alstine Demarest, Kitty Rhodes Repertoire Company; Boone, the hypnotist; Walker Holmes, advance agent, Price's Floating Opera; Otis Morrow, district Ohio agent of the New York Optical Company, and Dr. Samuel Leopold, sole agent for Dr. Leopold's Magic Eye Salve. Each had a glamour in those idyllic days.

One of the first things impressing the foreigner is that New York's taxi drivers are nearly always young men. Abroad they are old and kindly. Here they are young and youknowwhat.

The Automobile

By DR. FRANK CRANE

W. P. Herbert furnishes some interesting statistics about the automobile.

Twenty-five years ago the motor car was still an experiment and regarded by many as a toy or a fad.

Very few manufacturers were producing efficient machines and those were fashioned after the familiar buggy.

But at the beginning of the year 1927 there was one automobile registered for every five persons in the United States, or 24,589,249 motor vehicles.

Fifty-five per cent of the families in the United States own motor cars. The motor industry pays about $6,000,000,000 a year in wages to nearly 4,000,000 persons. Taxes that amount to $700,000,000 are collected from the industry, which ranks first in the country in the value of its products and third in exports. About 14 per cent of all the rolled-iron and steel of the country is used in manufacturing automobiles.

Fifty per cent of the plate glass produced in the United States, 65 per cent of the upholstery leather and 11 per cent of the hardwood used here, besides 84 per cent of the crude rubber used in the country goes toward this industry.

Seven and one-half per cent of the total exports is represented by the automotive industry.

The automobile is not only a luxury. One can hardly transact his business today without it.

Five hundred railroads in the United States and Canada use this service and many more are using motor buses. Thousands of firms are using motor cars and trucks for delivery purposes.

The automobile has brought town and country closer together. It has thinned the dense population of the major cities.

It has been a boon to the farmers by making possible rapid transportation of their crops to market. In spite of the enormous growth of the industry there is still a lively market both at home and abroad for cars. The replacement market is getting larger constantly, as well as the two-car field.

The immense growth of several motor companies is well known. Who shall say what is the future of the automotive industry?

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

THIS "love balm" business is a great game carried on by women with a fine sense of sportsmanship. Women sue and if they don't get the man they get the money. The only thing they stand to lose is their reputation—if any.

"Kissing shortens life and in 50 years there will be no more necking," says Dr. S. R. McKelvey, of the Colorado State Board of Health. The women laugh merrily at that.

He means that in 50 years many of the ardent neckers of today will be dead. They surely will if, as he says, kissing shortens their lives.

Elinor Glyn says that color affects love. It is absolutely true. Did you ever see the woman who could resist a man in a baby blue shirt?

No woman minds being called an old maid or a spinster any more. The real trick is to stay single. Have you ever taken a good look at the people lined up before any marriage license window? Do it and then see if you don't think love is deaf, blind and dumb.

Robert Louis Stevenson says that "Some of the merriest and most genuine of women are old maids, and those old maids have often most of the true motherly touch."

The fact that they think, is what stops many women when it comes to taking the leap. It deters intelligent, beautiful women, regular in every sense of the word. The marriage license windows are crowded with brides-to-be who are knock-kneed, cross-eyed, stoop-shouldered, fat and endowed with bad dispositions. Only one in seven looks good to anybody but the man who is marrying her.

Speaking of being a spinster, in Los Angeles a man met, wooed, married and deserted Esther Donald, of San Francisco, and in between he robbed her of $8,000 worth of jewelry and tried to drown her.

Mrs. James A. Stillman says that psychoanalysis is the "cats cuffs."

A psychiatrist is somebody to whom you tell all the things you don't want anybody to know about you and he writes them all down, black on white. Then you go home and wonder what would happen if somebody found his book with your name and address over your secrets.

No more bobbed hair for Aimee McPherson. She is wearing puffs and coils of her old time hair, which was salvaged and made into switches. But you don't have to do what Aimee does.

Words of the Wise

Example is a lesson that all men can read.—West.

The intellect of the wise is like glass; it admits the light of heaven and reflects it.—Hare.

It is the province of knowledge to speak, and it is the privilege of wisdom to listen.—Holmes.

Persevering mediocrity is much more respectable and unspeakably more useful than talented inconsistency.—Hamilton.

Man, who man would be,
Must rule the empire of himself; in it Must be supreme.—Shelley.

Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong.—Decatur.

One should try not to be distressed about anything, and to take all that happens as for the best. I believe this to be a duty, and that not to fulfill it is a sin.—Pascal.
